Air Units Join Katanga Battle

PARDON HINTED—Communist Hungary hinted it might pardon Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, above, who has been in sanctuary in the U. S. legation in Budapest since 1956. Deputy Premier Guyla Kallai, in calling for better relations with the U. S., said his government is willing to discuss the prelate's future in any new negotiations with Washington. (AP Wirephoto)

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—The air forces of both the U.N. command and Katanga went into action today as fighting raged for the second day in and near this secessionist capital.

Mortar blasts shook the residential area near U.N. headquarters and an old airport northwest of the city where Katanga forces were deployed.

Drops Three Bombs

A lone aircraft, from Katanga's small air force, a bomber converted from a German-made transport, raided the main Elisabethville airport held by U.N. troops, and dropped three bombs. A U.N. spokesman said there were no serious casualties or damage.

BRIG. K. A. S. RAJA

Indian Brig. K. A. S. Raja, who took over the U.N. operation in Katanga from civilians, announced U.N. jets strafed the Katanga air force at Kolwezi, northwest of Elisabethville.

He said Swedish jet fighters carried out the attack, and prevented an air attack on U.N. forces at Elisabethville. One of Katanga's French-built Fouga jets at Kolwezi succeeded in getting off the ground but made a forced landing near Luluabourg in adjoining Kasai Province, he said.

U.N. troops opened antiaircraft fire on another Katanga plane which circled the main airport.

15 Jets Ordered to Attack

At Leopoldville, the U.N. command announced that its 15-jet air force had been ordered to attack other Katanga air forces at Jadotville, 65 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

Six U.S. Air Force Globemasters took off from Leopoldville loaded with armored cars and antiaircraft guns for Elisabethville.

The United Nations steadily reinforced its ground troops. About 300 Swedes arrived from Stockholm and another 350 Irish soldiers were en route from Dublin.

Information Minister Albert Nyembo told newsmen Katanga mortar fire had driven the United Nations from its headquarters in Elisabethville, but Abdul Latif Sucgar, deputy U.N. civilian chief, denied this. He said Katanga mortar shells burst in the area occasionally and some had scored hits.

At the old airfield northwest of the city, a U.N. spokesman said, Katanga soldiers were being redeployed. "We are blasting them with mortars," he said.

Broadcasts Urge Fight

The Katanga spokesman said the United Nations had withdrawn from the Lido Hotel, a rest area and one of the four U.N. points in the city.

Katanga broadcasts urged the people to fight.

"The United Nations has declared war on the little people of Katanga," one broadcast said. "The hour is grave, the moment has come. Arm yourself, sons and daughters of Katanga, arm yourself wherever you are, in your homes, your fields, your villages. Take up your spears and arrows and fight."

Each side accused the other of treachery Tuesday in the outbreak of fighting. The conflict followed a U.N. Security Council order to the U.N. Command to employ force if necessary to oust mercenaries in Katanga. The council has adopted a policy against Katanga's secession from the Congo.

The United Nations charged that Katangans secretly prepared a sneak attack while agreeing to re-

Soviets Boost Defense Fund In Record-Breaking Budget

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced a record-breaking 1962 budget, including a staggering hike in military spending of almost 50 per cent over that originally planned in 1961.

The original 1961 figure was boosted tremendously last July because of U.S. military measures taken to meet the Berlin defense crisis, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said then.

81.9 Billion Rubles

The over-all budget for 1962 totals 81.9 billion rubles, Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, which began a session in the Grand Kremlin Palace today.

Garbuzov told the delegates defense expenditures in 1962 would total 3.4 billion rubles, or 16.7 per cent of the total, as compared with 9.22 billion rubles originally budgeted for 1961.

At the official rate of exchange, one ruble equals $1.11.

The new amount allotted to the Soviet armed forces is more than a billion rubles more than the total allotted on both a regular and emergency basis during 1961.

Expects Tension to Hold

But this is no longer emergency financing, and it indicated the Soviet government expects world tension to stay at a high pitch during the coming year.

In the related field of science, which includes most programs of weapon development, the budget figure was set at 4.3 billion rubles. Last year it was 3.8 billion.

Comparison Impossible

(The United States budgeted $46.6 billion for defense in 1962. However, comparision of Soviet and American budgets is almost impossible. Many Soviet military expenses are buried in allocations ostensibly for civilian production).

The 1962 budget is 3.6 billion rubles bigger than last year's, but Garbuzov said the government actually planned to spend only 80.3 billion rubles.

He reported a surplus of 1.6 billion rubles for 1961 also.

The Supreme Soviet is certain to approve the budget before conclusion of its session, which also will discuss the nation's 1962 economic plan and approve changes in the civil law code.

JFK for Tariff Cuts To Frustrate Soviet Encirclement of West

New, Bold Approach His Plea

Does Not Propose ECM Affiliation

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy called today for a lowering of tariffs in a "new and bold" program to frustrate Communist plans for economic encirclement of the West.

He urged U.S. cooperation with the European Common Market along with lower tariffs to stimulate trade among friendly nations.

Would Doom Red Aim

If the nations of the West can agree "on a common program of action as extraordinary in economic history as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was unprecedented in military history," the President said, "the long-range Communist aim of dividing and encircling us all is doomed to failure."

"I am not proposing—nor is it either necessary or desirable—that we join the Common Market, alter our concepts of political sovereignty, establish a 'rich man's' trading community, abandon our policy, create an Atlantic free trade area or impair in any way our close economic ties with Canada, Japan and the rest of the free world," he said.

Kennedy picked a conference of industrialists to preview in broad terms the authority he will seek from Congress to give him greater freedom in bargaining for tariff favors.

Says Two Incompatible

That authority would reduce levies on some U.S. imports and increase foreign competition with U.S. industry.

But, Kennedy said in a speech prepared for the National Association of Manufacturers congress of American industry: "Economic isolation and political leadership are wholly incompatible."

He said that reciprocal cuts in tariffs on both sides of the Atlantic would increase U.S. sales abroad and thus strengthen both this country and its allies.

He called for economic cooperation between the United States and the European Common Market, an association of six nations in which Great Britain has applied for membership. Some 90 per cent of free world industrial production may soon be concentrated in these two great markets, he said.

Would Harness Markets

"I am proposing, in short, a new American trade initiative which will make it possible for the economic potential of these two great markets to be harnessed together into a team capable of pulling the full weigh of our common military, economic and political aspirations," Kennedy said.

The President confirmed speculation that he would ask Congress for power to bargain with other nations for tariff reductions by such entire categories of goods as industrial equipment or textiles, for example, instead of item-by-item.

Tariff negotiations under the reciprocal trade agreements law now are limited to a tit-for-tat easing of barriers on single goods. That law expires next June.

"It must not simply be renewed," Kennedy said. "It must be replaced."

Reply to Critics

The President did not give any particulars on the authority he wants, but he left no doubt that he would launch at once his own campaign for a greater flow of international trade.

In direct reply to such critics as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Kennedy emphasized that he was not advocating that the United States join the Common Market

Letter to Aldermen Says VA Closing Is Definite

Kingston's Veterans Administration office and 160 others are due to close because of a decrease in "demands for assistance" the Common Council was informed Tuesday night by a letter which left no hope of continuance of the office after Dec. 29.

Another letter from Congressman J. Ernest Wharton noted his protest against closing of the office. He said he had "urgently requested" John S. Gleason, administrator of veterans' affairs "to suspend this decision" and "reappraise" the need for continuance of the facility.

The Congressman's letter was dated Nov. 27, and that citing reasons for closing the office was dated Dec. 4. It came from Albert Finnemore, director of contact and affairs service.

Finnemore's letter noted that of 1,049 offices which had been activated in the country only 196 remain because of a lessening demand for assistance The 161 ordered closed this month, it said, were largely offices with only one contact representative. F. William Sheehan has been the officer in charge of the local office since 1950. He has been with the VA since 1946.

The Finnemore letter said it was realized that closing of the local office would result in inconvenience, but reported that many veterans' problems or requests for assistance are now dealt with by mail.

The nearest office, when that in Kingston closes will be in Albany.

Objection to closing the office came not only from legislative bodies like the Common Council, various officials and organizations, but from thousands of individuals who signed petitions.

Congressman Wharton wrote that he too was "deeply disturbed" because of announced removal of the facility. If the offices were to be closed merely for economy reasons, he held, such economy measures should be to "other operations," and not to this "vital area."

City Claims Report Due Dec. 29

Kingston Point Is Not Getting Dredging Fill

River sediment now being dredged from the Hudson is not being used extensively for fill in the Kingston Point lowlands, as was planned, because of apparent inconvenience to the contractor, it was learned today.

Alderman Samuel J. Perry (R) Fifth Ward, Common Council minority leader asked about the proposed project at Tuesday night's meeting of the aldermen, and requested that Mayor Edwin F. Radel make necessary contact and have the "lagoon" area at Kingston Point filled.

Mayor Radel revealed today that the contractor, the Gahagan Dredging Corp. had decided that it is more expeditious to dump the silt in an area of the river known as the "middle ground" a point beyond main channels.

The mayor said he had been told, however, that a small amount of the dredged sediment was to be dumped on the lowlands during the dredging near cables of the New York Telephone Company and the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp.

Mayor Radel said it was understood after arrangements made some time ago that considerable of the sediment would be dumped in the Kingston Point area.

Action Asked on Claims

Alderman Perry also asked last night for action on settlement of a claim for automobile damage filed last August by Mrs. Augustus Parker, of 73 Crane Street. She asks payment of $99 because of damage said to be due to a high crown in Crane Street where it intersects her driveway. Mrs. Parker also spoke briefly emphasizing that she did not keep the city waiting for its taxes and she failed to see why the claim had not been paid by this time. The high crown in the road, Perry noted, was damaging to tailpipes and under areas of automobiles.

Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, said he would like to obtain information on all claims outstanding and Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, considered the request "a good idea." The aldermen apparently discussed the claims proposal in recess and decided to give them attention at the Dec. 29 meet-

Book Collector Must Move Shop, 800,000 Volumes

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) —A nationally known dealer in old books said today the building of a new highway may force him to abandon his valuable book collection.

John Lindmark, 72, the dealer, has 800,000 volumes of ancient books in a former school that he has been using as a book store for the past 20 years. He values his collection at $1.25 million.

The bookshop is in the path of the Poughkeepsie arterial highway. The state paid Lindmark $16,500 for the property months ago and ordered him to move out.

Time dragged by, however, and the book dealer remained there.

A court order now has given him until Dec. 18 to move.

Lindmark said Tuesday he had been unable to sell the collection and did not have the money to have the books moved.

He said he was willing to sell the books for $100,000 but that, if he can not find a buyer in the remaining 12 days, he probably will just move out and turn the problem over to the state.

The state, however, insists it fulfilled its part when it paid the book dealer for the property and that the moving out is his responsibility.

Lack Votes to Pass Bond Issue

Democrats Are Stalled On Off-Street Parking

Common Council action on off-street parking, deferred again Tuesday night, could take place at a recessed meeting set for Dec. 26 but it faces the prospect of lacking enough votes to approve a bond issue.

Last night's meeting, marked by a bid from Mayor-elect John J. Schwenk for deferred action on any bond sum, recessed, it was announced, to consider unsettled claims, but it was indicated that a vote could be called for on a parking proposal offered by a special committee.

Davis Not in Favor

Alderman William G. Davis (D-L) 13th Ward, said last night, he did not favor the plan as presented, and unless he changes his mind by Dec. 26, the council will be unable to poll the 9-4 vote required for approval of a bond issue.

It is expected that a vote will be called for at the recessed meeting whether the proposal is due to win or lose. Republican aldermen said last month they oppose any action until Schwenk is in office.

Action was also expected last night on a fallout shelter plan for downtown caves but was deferred because a special committee lacks cost estimates and other data.

$290,000 Needed

Off-street parking uptown as planned would require a $290,000 bond issue, of which $185,000 would be for acquiring land on the north side of North Front Street, and $105,000 would be for construction. The 1961 budget contained $10,000 for a study and planning .

Mayor-elect Schwenk's letter, addressed to Alderman Samuel J. Perry (R) Fifth Ward, council minority leader, asked that no further bonded indebtedness be imposed before he takes office. It was emphasized last month that he also has a plan for off-street parking.

Schwenk's Request

The letter:

"Judging from recent reports in the press, it seems likely that in the final session of this Common Council, the Democratic majority intends to act on legislation that will increase the city's bonded indebtedness next year, and which will commit the next administration to programs which it has not had the opportunity to consider, approve, or improve.

"As mayor-elect I have no legal right to make recommendations to this Common Council, but I would ask you, as minority leader, to make known my point of view.

"I feel that in the recent election the majority of the people of this city indicated approval of my platform and plans for

Wagner Program Nothing Original, Says GOP Leader

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City "has failed to produce an original idea and is merely serving up a rehash" in his program of financial aid for the city, the Republican leader of the state senate says.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney termed the program "political blackmail in an election year."

Wagner, a Democrat, sent to Republican Gov. Rockefeller Sunday a program under which the city would receive $261.2 million in increased revenue, primarily through more state aid and the legalization of off-track betting.

The program would have to be approved by the Legislature. Mahoney's statement indicated that it would receive hostile treatment when the Republican-controlled Legislature convenes next month.

Mahoney, in a statement Tuesday, said Wagner's proposal "will, of course, receive careful and detailed consideration by the Legislature."

He also charged, however, that Wagner was attempting to set himself up "as the most powerful big-city boss in the history of this country."

Mahoney said Wagner was doing this by dictating legislative policy to his party in the Legislature, dictating the selection of a new party leader in Manhattan and, at the same time, functioning as a city official.

In a related attack, Republican

Long Island Man Held for Jury in Link to Holdup

Max Cohen, 30 of Woodridge, L. I., was held, Tuesday for Grand Jury action on a charge of robbery, first degree, by Justice Herbert Poppel of Ellenville, in connection with the October 9 holdup of an armored car driver at the junction of Routes 212 and 32 in the town of Saugerties.

According to Senior Investigator Edward Shannon of the Kingston barracks, Cohen was arrested in connection with the holdup and wounding of Alfred Szurek, 34, of Amsterdam, a messenger for Armored Carrier Corp. of Flushing, L. I. as Szurek waited by the Saugerties intersection for a pick-up car from New York City. Shannon said Szurek reported that as he waited, three thugs approached the armored car. He grappled with one of them and was shot in the fleshy part of the leg. He eventually wrestled a .22 caliber target pistol from his assailant. He said the trio took two bages of canceled checks representing more than $2 million, then ran down the road to a waiting car and vanished in the direction of Veteran. Szurek said non-negotiable checks, used only for bookkeeping purposes, had been collected at banks in Albany, Scotia and Schenectady.

Szurek then went to the nearby Cloverleaf Inn, called state police and was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment, later being transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Amsterdam.

Clues led Investigators Shannon, Michael Lisman and P. G. Emden to Greenfield Park in the town of Wawarsing where they arrested Cohen three days later, on Oct. 12. They said the pistol which Szurek grabbed from his assailant was traced to a 1955 Wurtsboro bank holdup for which Danny and Murray Cohen, brothers of Max, were convicted.

Investigator Shannon is still continuing an inquiry into the case in an effort to pick up the other men said to be involved.

Three Die in East Shore Mishaps, County Has Two

Three motorists were killed and a passenger in one of the cars was critically injured in three separate automobile accidents Tuesday on the east side of the Hudson River. One of the drivers died when his vehicle rammed a school bus in the township of Pleasant Valley; a second perished when his sports car went off Route 199 in Red Hook and rammed into a concrete culvert and tree and the third driver died when his American compact car flipped over on Route 100 at the Taconic Parkway in Westchester County and burned.

In another auto-school bus crash, this one in Ulster County, two Rosendale brothers were hospitalized with head injuries. And in still another Ulster County mishap a Woodstock man suffered a cut forehead.

Tuesday about 3:45 p. m. on Hibernia Road at Salt Point in the town of Pleasant Valley in Dutchess County, an automobile operated by Charles E. Horton, 69, of Salt Point rammed into the rear of a school bus halted to discharge passengers, state police reported. Horton, they said, died of a broken neck while on the way to Vassar Hospital. Dr. E. A. Larkin, assistant medical examiner investigated along with Lt. Samuel J. Cordelle, zone supervisor from Fishkill and Troopers Michael Halloran and

Historic Schuyler House in Dutchess Is Gift to Bard College as Memorial

ANNADALE-ON-HUDSON— The gift to Bard College of one of the most historic estates in the mid-Hudson Valley was announced today by Dr. Reamer Kline, president.

Mrs. Malcolm Smith and Mrs. William Hoffman of New York City, have given to the College the estate originally known as Schuyler House, and more recently as The Grove, located at teh eastern edge of the village of Rhinebeck, at the junction of Routes 308 and 9G. The gift is memory of the late Dr. and Mrs. George N. Miller of Rhinebeck, parents of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hoffman, and consists of the manor house, with most of its furnishings, and approximately six acres of land, bordering on Landsman's Kill.

Schuyler House was built in 1792, with bricks made on the property, by General Philip Schuyler of Washington's army, as a wedding gift to his son, and has remained in the possession of General Schuyler's descendents until the present time.

The house consists of 24 rooms and eight baths. A library wing was added in 1859, the library itself having been designed by Daniel Webster, who was a frequent visitor. Philip Schuyler, for whom the house was built, was Alexander Hamilton's brother-in-law, and over the years visitors to the house included Hamilton, General Lafayette, President Grant, and Presidents Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is the present expectation of Bard College authorities to refurbish the house both inside and outside so that it will [illegible] side, beginning next September, a faculty apartment [illegible] dence facilities for 35 to 40 women students. The college plans to purchase and operate a bus, scheduling as many regular, daily trips as may be needed between Schuyler House and the main campus. When and if future dormitory construction enables Bard to accommodate all of its students on the main campus, it is expected that Schuyler House will be convert-

Hicksville Bingo Hall Must Stop Games, Is Order

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Lottery Control Commission has ordered the Hicksville, N.Y., bingo hall to stop its games.

The order came from Commission Chairman Richard W. Hannah Tuesday after the agency heard testimony that part owner of the hall had helped finance bingo games for the North Shore Synagogue and the Hicksville chapter of United Cerebral Palsy.

Mrs. Hilda Anker of Hicksville, who ran games for United Cerebral Palsy, testified that attorney Carl Feldhamer, part owner of the hall, gave her $700 to start the games.

Mrs. Dorothy Morrison of Syosset, N.Y., who ran the games for the synagogue, said he had given her $1,140 to make up bingo losses incurred by the congregation.

The state lottery law forbids owners of halls to give financial assistance to bingo game operators.

Willing White of Garden City, N. Y., a commission member, said the hall also had violated the state lottery control laws by "commercializing gambling."

Oswego Landmark Is Destroyed by Fire

CLEVELAND, N.Y. (AP) — A predawn fire today destroyed Hotel Cleveland, an old landmark in this Oswego County community on the northern shore of Oneida Lake.

About 100 volunteer firemen fought the fire in the two-story, frame structure and prevented the flames from spreading to a nearby supermarket.

Six persons, including the owners, Mr. and Mrs. James Camuso, fled the building. Camuso estimated the loss at $125,000 .

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Contractors Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine plumbing contractors have been indicted on charges of cheating the city board of education of $389,609 through rigged bidding.

The indictment returned by a Queens grand jury Tuesday alleges that the firms plotted their bid-rigging at secret meetings between Oct. 12, 1960 and June 14, 1961.

Teachers Are Urged To Counter Tyranny

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—"The uninformed, the undisciplined, the apathetic, however right, are no match for the indoctrinated, the disciplined, the dedicated, however wrong," the state education department says.

The department called for teachers to observe Bill of Rights Week, Dec. 10-16, by resolving to prepare pupils "to counter tyranny in all its forms."

State to Stiffen Certification for Grade Teachers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state plans to stiffen certification requirements for elementary school teachers by almost doubling the number of prescribed academic courses, the state education commissioner says.

Commissioner James L. Allen Jr. said Tuesday night that the additional requirements for elementary teachers would be similar to those for public secondary school teachers.

Certification requirements for prospective secondary - school teachers were raised by the Board of Regents beginning in 1958. They become mandatory Sept. 1, 1963.

Allen, at a meeting of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, did not disclose a date for the change, which has been under study for more than a year.

The stiffer requirements still must be presented to the Board of Regents, governing body for education in the state, he said.

Allen also said the professional status of teachers must be strengthened. Increasing salaries was one way of doing this, he said, but teachers also needed to take more responsibility for "policing their profession" and setting standards.

Why United States Keeps Dealing With Yugoslavia

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA)—The Kennedy Administration, after a moment of intense soul searching, has decided to "reopen negotiations" with Yugoslavia for the sale of surplus food stocks.

In the language of diplomacy, this means a continuation, for the present at least, of the United States aid program to Marshal Tito's Communist dictatorship.

How does more help to Yugoslavia square with Kennedy's policy to give greater "attention and consideration to those nations who have our view of the world?"

Since Tito "broke" with Moscow in 1948, he has benefited from some $2 billion in American aid. During this period, he received nothing but brickbats and insults from his Russian fellow-Communists.

Yet Yugoslavia's policy, especially in the United Nations, has been consistently pro-Soviet, if not actively anti-American. Since the Belgrade conference of the so-called neutral nations, Tito has moved even closer to Moscow's position on international issues.

Nevertheless, President Kennedy obviously believes that Yugoslavia still is an independent nation and not just a Soviet satellite like Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia or East Germany.

This view is backed by a number of authorities on communism and by many strongly pro-American Yugoslavs with whom I discussed Tito's erratic policies in Belgrade.

The U. S. obviously is taking a calculated risk in aiding Tito. But in the global cold war against Russia and Red China, where every weakness of the adversary must be calculated and exploited, such risks are an essential part of the diplomatic game.

There is no doubt that Tito himself and the older generation of men around him belong spiritually and politically to the East and want to make peace with Moscow.

However, a majority of the younger generation of Yugoslavs, vastly impressed by the economic and cultural achievements of the West, especially the U. S., is eager to learn from it.

This is true of students, writers, engineers, young workers and even of members of the ruling Communist League.

Indeed, much of Tito's popularity is due to the fact that he had the courage to defy Stalin in 1948. "He liberated us from the Russians," a high ranking official told me in Belgrade. This was repeated wherever I went in Yugoslavia.

Why, then, did Tito forfeit his leadership of many of the unaligned nations by his failure, at the Belgrade conference, to condemn Khrushchev's resumption of atomic testing? What is behind his pro-Soviet policies?

Here is the answer of a top Yugoslav Communist who is a foe of a rapprochement with Moscow.

"Tito is a Communist first and foremost," he said. "In matters of doctrine he feels closer to the East than to the west."

However, Tito has no intention of ever becoming again a regimented member of the Soviet bloc.

Whenever there is an increase in tension between Premier Khrushchev and Red China's Mao Tse-tung (whom Tito hates), Belgrade's interest grows toward better relations with Russia.

At these moments Khrushchev also is more eager to include Tito —the Red "heretic" and "revisionist"—in the play of Red power politics.

"But Tito is aware," the Yugoslav official said, "that should he rejoin the Soviet bloc, he would lose his ability to maneuver between East and West."

For this reason, Tito's diplomatic maneuvers always will maintain a certain distance from Moscow. But he will never withdraw far enough to establish a permanent cooperation with the West.

Even anti-Communists thus accept Tito as a lesser evil. But they have never given up their yearning for "sloboda" (freedom).

This was best expressed by a ragged but strong-looking peasant from Montenegro who was gaping in wonder at the neon-lit stores stocked with plastic plates, cups and forks on Belgrade's Tito Avenue.

"Yes, we need bread, my friend," he said. "And we are grateful to America for helping us. But remember this—we need 'sloboda' even more. Man cannot live without 'sloboda.'"

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 6, 1961

BY THE BOOTSTRAPS

Over the past 14 years the United States foreign aid program has had many names, faces and changes of substance. But the new long-range effort is marked by an added distinction.

More than any before it, this one evidently is going to be judged by the toughest gauge the men who guide and influence the program can muster.

Obviously they want to silence the large body of critics who charge that waste and mismanagement are perennial foreign aid accompaniments. Yet they seem to have more than efficiency on their minds.

President Kennedy gave a big clue to the new outlook when he tied increased Latin-American assistance to Latin accomplishment of major social and economic reforms.

Some have suggested that there — and elsewhere — we might be satisfied with a kind of window-dressing performance that would give a superficial look of give-and-take to the assistance effort. Nevertheless, strong signs point the other way.

Walt W. Rostow, for most of 1961 a White House aide and now chairman of the State Department's policy planning council, indicates that from here on, countries receiving aid will be watched with a cold eye.

What this government will be looking for is not some showy surface evidence of reform and self-help. The philosophy behind the hard United States gaze is this:

Our aid at best can be only a marginal factor in recipient nations. In Rostow's words, "It can help if the impulse to betterment is deep within them." The real improvement must come from their own massive undertakings.

Rostow's verdict, given in advance, is that "nothing serious will happen unless they do it themselves."

Unexpressed, but implicit in this stiff appraisal, is the notion that the United States will not indefinitely assist a country which does not demonstrate unmistakably, in reasonable time, that it is moved by that "deep impulse" to lift itself up.

In another context, we have already declared we would not help those new nations which display insufficient concern for their independence and allow themselves to be drawn to the Communist orbit.

Only time will prove whether today's tougher talk means tough action when it is called for, or whether it simply signifies louder lip service to a tattered theory

A CHALLENGE TO PROBE

A well known financial writer has predicted that "when the economic history of the United States is written, 1961 will be recorded as one of the great turning points in our existence as a nation." This writer sees, as the key to our future role as a world power, the nature of the decisions now forced upon us regarding our reaction to the swiftly rising potentials of the European Common Market.

The portrayal of these decisions as a sort of economic continental divide is convincing. Given American cooperation, this new commercial union holds out the promise that we could snow under the Soviet economic threat instead of being buried by it as Khrushchev so truculently predicted. It could counter the Soviet drive for world conquest, not on a nuclear battlefield but in the world's markets.

The problems raised by such cooperation on our part almost equal those we now face on the military front. These problems involve the ancient and potent issue of tariff walls. The Common Market's tariffs operate against outsiders. In this instance we are as yet outsiders. We will continue to be unless we are prepared to make enormous adjustments.

When Britain enters the organization, as she is in the process of doing, the pressures on us to effect those adjustments will become acute. The time already seems ripe for us to inform ourselves fully. A commission made up of the best minds in labor, industry, finance and diplomacy should be put to work on an exhaustive study as to how this new challenge shall be met.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE PASSING OF A PATRIOT

Senator Styles Bridges was unusual in his total patriotism. His horizon was beyond party; his loyalties were beyond personal motive or interest. He led the Republican Party in the Senate during difficult years when the party was uncertain as to purpose and principle. Succeeding Robert A. Taft as a political philosopher, his interest was never limited to the success of his party but was designed to strengthen his country. Therefore, he was respected by Republican and Democrat alike.

I knew him well and admired him greatly and if I am slow in writing an obituary, it is only because his death pained me so. Styles Bridges represented a generation that inevitably must soon pass into history. It was the generation of the depression whose aspiration was mere survival, not only for our country but for each individual. That generation witnessed the passing of the traditions of America from the mores of those who founded the country to the confusions of change and alteration in imitation of novel European forms. It was a curious period, for the richest of all lands found itself the poorest spiritually with nothing to say of itself or for itself except defensively. In such a time, a man like Styles Bridges stands gallantly before the younger generations a courageous battler for truth and tradition.

The private lives of public men are often sad and lonely. They have little of time to offer their wives, upon whom is placed the burder of participation in the constant round of public affairs and campaigning. Some wives add to their husband's burdens by misunderstanding their roles; some become competitive with their husbands for public notice. The wives of such men live with husbands who are always tired; who have no periods of rest or recreation; who must answer the call of government and party and go battling for friend and colleague when they would prefer to remain at home with their children. Often the wife of the political personality has to drag along with him lest his days be filled with ugly and untruthful rumors. And a wife must be patient when the husband is unjustly attacked and abused.

Styles Bridges was most fortunate in a happy and comforting family life. His wife, Doloris, fitted his intellectual and spiritual mood and understood the responsibilities of the political life. Those who knew them saw a man and wife who were not competing against each other but who understood not only each other's character but their mutual responsibilities. They lived in frank and cordial affection which their friends knew and respected.

It is now being proposed in New Hampshire that Doloris succeed to her husband's seat in the Senate. Surely no one in New Hampshire, or for that matter, anywhere, could have had more Senatorial experience than Doloris Bridges who worked with her husband through many years. She was not only a wife to her husband, but a friend and colleague and one who could quietly add wisdom to the quality of womanhood which she so richly possesses. I can testify to her unusual breadth of view and wisdom for often I have listened to her comments on current events.

If New Hampshire should decide to give Styles Bridges' seat to his wife, Doloris, they will assure themselves of a continuous high quality in their representation in the Senate. New England has never been afraid to recognize able and strong women.

The passing of Styles Bridges weakens the leadership of the Republican Party in Congress. Bridges was chairman of the Republican Policy Committee which decided formally what the Republican Party believed and practised. The leader of the Republicans in the Senate is Everett Dirksen of Illinois. It was Bridges, however, who gave a philosophic tone to the Republicans in the Senate. This was particularly valuable during the Eisenhower Administration when the party was uncertain as to its character and its future. President Eisenhower provided no leadership in Congress, he perhaps not altogether understanding the relations of the Presidency to Congress.

Since the advent of the Kennedy Administration, the Republican Party has been split by factionalism ranging from the Conservatism of Barry Goldwater to the Liberalism of Nelson Rockefeller. Senator Bridges sought to establish unity of thought and a lessening of animosities. It is difficult to know who can take his place as the party peace-maker in these years of trial.

Body's Chemistry Is Nothing to Tinker With

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many self-styled "authorities on diet," who frequently seem to thrive on their ignorance of established principles of nutrition and of the miraculous workings of the human body, make their recommendations in the manner of a contractor ordering materials to build a house—so many feet of lumber. So many bags of cement. So many pounds of nails. So much paint. And so forth.

What they either don't know or choose to ignore is the important fact that the living body, to use a Biblical phrase, can "make bricks out of straw."

You put swill into pigs and get out bacon and pork chops. You put cattle out to graze and you get milk, cream, butter, beefsteaks and veal chops. You let your chickens peck away on feed you wouldn't put in your mouth and you get out slices of white meat and delicious livers for your scrambled eggs.

What all this means is that, with very few exceptions, the essentials for growth and maintenance of the living body can be obtained or made from the foodstuffs of the basic diet.

It means, for the most part, that the purchase of special foods for special purposes makes very little sense to the trained nutritionist or physician.

The same sort of ignorance of the workings of the living body is also profitable, at the expense of the public, to "gland faddists" and to those who exploit the sale of what may be useful products when put to proper use.

Witth few exceptions, and perhaps none, the glandular secretions (hormones) that enter directly into the blood stream are held in balance by a control center that's situated at the base of the skull (anterior pituitary gland).

Note the word, "balance."

Now, when a secretion is deficient, the master gland can usually exert a bit more pressure to raise the local production output, something like working a night shift. And when a secretion is produced in excess, the control center can reduce the working days to three a weeek.

What happens, then, when we start tinkering with this delicate adjustment may be just the opposite of what we set out to do.

For example, if a secretion is deficient and we try to make up the deficiency by feeding or injecting the gland extract in question, the master gland may take a nap. Then, up to a point, the more we feed the more we need.

Indeed, if we continue feeding until the body is loaded beyond capacity the control center may then reduce the work week of the local factory until it, too, takes a nap. And we have worsened the situation that we were trying to better.

Perhaps an example will illustrate what I'm trying to explain in words:

Recently, scientists of the Medical College of Georgia were given a product to test that was supposed to interfere with fertilization. To their amazement, it proved to favor the processes of fertilization. And, if these effects can be translated into human terms, the product may actually help some barren women to conceive.

Maybe these observations will partially explain why some unknown cynic once remarked "where ignorance is bliss, it's folly to be wise."

"We're a Little Behind the Russians and A Little Ahead of the Americans"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—The vast majority of American voters are now caught between two minority forces on the extreme left and right. On the right, a myriad of ultraconservative groups like the John Birch Society. On the left, organizations like Americans for Democratic Action. These are the whipping boys.

IF THE GREAT UPRISING of conservative political thought and action now manifest in many parts of the country follows the historic pattern of the last 50 years, it may not have much influence in the 1964 presidential elections.

For the 1962 congressional elections, the right-wing movements, stronger in some localities than others, could swing more marginal districts into the Republican column. The minority party usually makes gains in midterm elections, anyway.

In presidential election years, however, the right-wing movements never unite.

They never agree to back one candidate or one platform. Each splinter group that pursues its own pet goals instead of throwing it full weight behind the Republican party takes away from it that much strength.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY showed his instinctive political smartness as well as his idealism at his last press conference. He defended the right of anyone to give money to an extremist group so long as this is not an attempt to evade taxation.

Only a few days before, in his Seattle and Los Angeles speeches, the President had denounced extremist movements that shut their eyes to the dangers of international communism and try to deal with it blindly as a domestic evil.

To turn then and defend the right of anyone to give money to such causes may seem inconsistent. But why not?

Any contributions to splinter groups take that much money away from the GOP, which is already in bad enough straits.

REPUBLICAN SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER of Arizona has given the most frequently heard rationalization of the right-wing movements. He says that the danger to the United States comes not from the John Birch Society or the Minutemen, but from the 30-odd members of Americans for Democratic Action who now hold high office in the Kennedy administration.

This list was compiled by Robert Hartman of the Los Angeles Times. ADA headquarters admits all names on it are of members.

Included on the list of ADAers now in government are cabinet members Orville L. Freeman, Arthur Goldberg and Abraham Ribicoff, "Little cabinet" members G. Mennen Williams, Charles Murphy, Henry C. Fowler; Ambassadors Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, J. Kenneth Galbraith and Thomas K. Finletter; White House aides Theodore C. Sorenson and Arthur S. Schlesinger Jr. Others are less well known.

But to maintain that this group runs the Kennedy administration in some kind of a super-secret conspiracy may be an oversimplification.

Joseph L. Rauh, one of ADA's founders maintains that the Kennedy administration is not doing even 25 per cent of the things ADA wants, not moving 25 per cent fast enough. One word from Ada and the President does as he pleases. He was never a member. They think him too conservative.

SINCE THE UNITED STATES has never been a country of splinter parties, ADA, the John Birchers and the like seem to have only one function in the American political picture. They present the views of the extreme left and the extreme right.

That should make it easier for the great majority of the people in between to identify middle-of-the-road policies they can adopt and support.

Kennedy - Stevenson Talks Seen Resolving Differences

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's more than meets the eye in the newspaper reports of two long conferences last weekend between President Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

Washington has been buzzing with stories that Mr. Stevenson confided to friends recently that he is not in sympathy with the United States policy toward Red China, even though he follows the Administration's line in his public addresses.

On top of this came the speculation that Mr. Stevenson might want to run for the United States Senate next year against Sen. Dirksen, Republican of Illinois, leader of his party in the Senate.

So the big questions were these: Did President Kennedy possibly want to replace Mr. Stevenson with someone else in the all-important UN post and was the buildup of stories about the Illinois Senatorial contest a means of easing Adlai out gracefully? Or was it a means of ironing out differences between the President and Mr. Stevenson which culminated in the announcement that Mr. Stevenson would not run for Senator?

It looks as if the latter question was the crucial one. It was answered by the President himhelf as he announced yesterday his satisfaction over Mr. Stevenson's decision. Mr. Kennedy said he had expressed to Mr. Stevenson the hope that "he would continue at the United Nations and play an expanded role in the making and execution of our foreign policy."

There has been a lot of talk around here about the allegedly independent course that Mr. Stevenson follows as not altogether to the liking of Secretary of State Rusk.

From sources close to the U. S. mission to the UN, it is learned that Mr. Stevenson at first clearly favored the admission of Red China to the UN and that as late as March of this year he gave his own staff the impression that he wanted a change in America's policy. He is reported to have felt that admission of Red China to the UN was inevitable and that the United States should find a graceful way to bring this about. But the idea backfired in Congress, as Democrats and Republicans joined in passing a resolution reaffirming opposition to the admission of Red China to the UN.

After this, Mr. Stevenson is reported to have become more reluctant to discuss these matters with his staff, and a belief has prevailed in New York that he has been at odds with the President on the issue but was maintaining nevertheless a discreet silence. This gave rise to rumblings in the UN mission that American policy was not being clearly defined.

The President spent a good deal more time last Saturday and Sunday conferring with Mr. Stevenson than has been his custom, and coincidentally, there appeared news dispatches about the possibility of Mr. Stevenson's entry into the Illinois contest.

A Victory for Kennedy

Just why Mr. Stevenson would wish to give up a post of world-wide importance to become the junior Senator from Illinois was not clear to many of his friends. It was suggested, however—prior to his decision—that from a political standpoint a victory for Mr. Stevenson in November, 1962, would be widely interpreted as a victory for Mr. Kennedy, too.

There was always, on the other hand, the possibility that Mr. Stevenson might take a licking in the 1962 election and this would not have helped the prestige of the Kennedy administration. As a tactician in politics, Mr. Stevenson has not been rated too highly. An example of a bumble that may have cost him many votes in the 1956 Presidential contest is this extract from a speech delivered on the eve of the election when he said:

"Your choice tomorrow will not be of a President for tomorrow. It will be of the man—or men—who will serve you as President for the next four years. And distasteful as this matter is, I must say bluntly that every piece of scientific evidence we have, every lesson of history and experience, indicates that a Republican victory tomorrow would mean that Richard M. Nixon would probably be President of this country within the next four years.

"I say frankly, as a citizen more than candidate, that I recoil at the prospect of Mr. Nixon as custodian of this nation's future, as guardian of the hydrogen bomb, as representative of America in the world, as commander-in-chief of the United States armed forces. Distasteful as it is, this is the truth, the central truth, about the most fateful decision the American people have to make tomorrow.. I have full confidence in that decision."

Five years have passed since Mr. Stevenson delivered that speech. Not only did Mr. Eisenhower serve out his term, but the American people came close to selecting Richard Nixon as their President at the end of Mr. Eisenhower's second four-year term. It's risky even in politics to try to predict the life span of anybody.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The idiotic American obsession with craps-shooting and the ten-cent policy racket continues to fatten the reputation of politicians in Congress and county seats through the old, reliable investigation or probe. Senator John McClellan, of Arkansas, has just issued two volumes of "hearings" by the Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, on the Hoffiifying subject of "Gambling and Organized Crime." Conclusions are not yet ripe but they tell us, of course, along with Tom Dewey many years ago and Davey Crockett Kefauver more recently, that gambling is a great evil which sends wan and pallid children to bed hungry in rooms with patches of plaster off the walls.

These two green Congressional books have altogether 600 pages and they reveal in the glossary the awful truth that an ace is a one-spot on a die; that across-the-board is a bettor's term for win, place and show, and that a bust-out man is a dishonest character who switches crooked dice in and out of a game. The cost of collecting such information, reducing it to stenotype notes, transcribing, setting it in type and the Government Printing Office finally printing and binding it and sending it out to a mailing list across the country runs into enormous appropriations of the taxes of faceless Americans who run the risk of prison for refusal to pay a full share.

This kind of thing has been going on for a century to my certain knowledge and no new fundamental facts have been discovered since old-style, pot-bellied cops chopped down doors in up-stairs plants on Lower Broadway soon after the Civil War. My earliest memory of my devotion to the public's right to know is a file of seedy males chambering up the back stoop of a patrol wagon on Clark Street near Madison in Chicago on a Saturday night. They were not at all disturbed I understood why a few weeks later. As my education deepened and broadened. I learned that the bondsman at Harrison Street station had been waiting there for an hour by arrangement with Bathhouse John and Hinky Dink, the twin aldermen of the First Ward, who meant no unkindness to these prey but had sent the cops to throw some discipline into an unruly operator named Mike MacDonald.

The Bath and Hinkey Dink knocked MacDonald's joint apart and put the axe to much valuable furniture including gaudy wheels which spun on axels, faro layouts and tables for dicing and cards.

There was no moral problem anywhere in this feat. In fact the only moral problems that ever have been involved have concerned the corruption of judges, mayors, police inspectors and precinct commanders. The professional gamblers, such as Frank Costello and, long before him, the Reverend Edward Riley Bradley, of Palm Beach, were honest men who had to submit to extortion by politicians with a sworn responsibility to the public so that they could accommodate a popular desire. The same obviously goes for those who sell the policy slips for as as little as one-cent, but usually for a dime, in Harlem and similar New York neighborhoods.

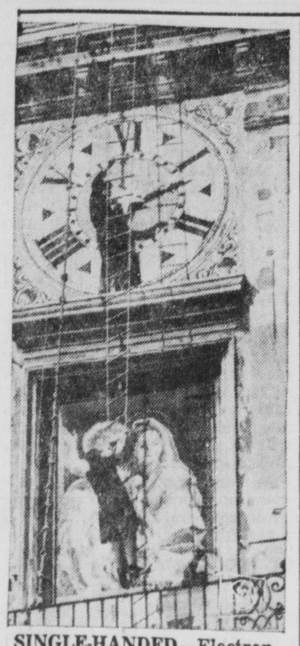
Costello got his kindergarten start shooting craps in Harlem which then had a predominant Italian population, but soon went into policy because he had cold nerve, a lightning mentality for simple mathematics, and a reputation for keeping his word. If he promised to do something good for a man it was as good as done. And if he promised to do something bad to a man, that was as good as done, too. He was an early adherent and accomplice of Fiorello La Guardia in Harlem and it was La Guardia, not Costello, who welecheed and double-crossed. La Guardia made the most of Costello's political revenue derived mainly from two-bit slot machines in slums but after he was elected mayor he took to the air to exhort his cops to kick the bums around. He meant his friend, Costello.

As the Negro population swamped out the turn-of-the-century Irish and presently the Italians, policy became a mania in Harlem. Dreambooks sold second to newspapers in circulation. These people were dirt poor. They would pool pennies to buy a ten-cent slip.

When Tom Dewey as District Attorney was popping his eyes at credulous reporters with highly incredible estimates of the probable profits which all this perfidy yielded to barons of that never-never land called the underworld, simple, two-times-two arithmetic showed that this was the stuff dreams are made of. The underworld would have to sell millions of one-cent and ten-cent tickets every day to vindicate this nonsense. But it was, after all, "official" and we could quote him. As one result, he thought for a few hours one November night in 1948 that he had been elected President.

If gambling were legal as it is indubitably moral, we all might have the pleasant right to drop in on a craps game on the way home at night or to take mama around to play a little bingo, while Pop tried a few bets at faro or Klondike. It would cost no more than booze and there would be a chance of walking home with a bundle now and again as distinguished from a load.

We are penny ante gamblers at worst. In Reno and even Vegas, there are nickel slots and ten-cent roulette. Bnt in Monte Carlo the cheapest chip sells for two of the new francs, or 40 cents, and the Germans in gambling joints along the Rhine have a minimum of two marks or about 52 cents. Just as boozing was immoral and dangerous under the 18th Amendment, so is gambling wrong though enormously prevalent among us today.



SINGLE-HANDED—Electronics instead of a counterweight system now operates the historic one-handed clock on the facade of Rome's Quirinale Palace. The magnificent mosaic face and gilded hand remain in the original form.

Committee Plans Help for Needy

At the recent annual meeting of the Christmas committee plans were formulated to carry on again the work for the season as well as throughout the year.

Mrs. Edna Brannigan gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Edna Beatty gave a detailed report as to the sources of funds, the various expenditures for the year as well as the extra items last Christmas.

Mrs. Gertrude Elliott reported on the services at the County Home.

A new, joint effort by the Christmas committee and the Jayncees is under way whereby needy children would be remembered at their birthdays. Already some eight children have been remembered in this way and the Christmas committee has donated $25 to the Jayncees for purchases of this kind for the coming months. The Jayncees are represented in this work by Mrs. Lucille Snow.

Home visitations this year will again be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Elsbree with the assistance of Mrs. Charles Mackey and Miss Lucille Stephens. Anthony Lenaz has again volunteered to pick up supplies. Mrs. Gertrude Elliott will take charge of dressing dolls and would be glad of the assistance of anyone who would care to help.

It was suggested that those donating clothing mark boxes or bundles with type of articles, sizes and if for boy or girl.

Anyone with useable clothing or toys that can be repaired may aid this worthy cause.

Yule Activities Begun by Senior Citizens Group

The Senior Citizens Group of the New Paltz area will meet Dec. 6 when they will begin their Christmas activities by making their talents available for Christmas crafts.

On the following week edible tray favors will be made for the Jennings Nursing Home residents in Highland. The group have adopted this nursing home as one of its projects. At an earlier meeting Thanksgiving favors were made and presented to the home.

Recently the Senior Citizens went to Kingston to learn about Kingston's Golden Age Club. Arrangements were made by Edwin Kolts, president of the Kingston club. The New Paltz Senior Citizens were met at the YWCA and were entertained by the host group.

Campus School Notes

The junior high school students at the Campus School here heard a lecture Friday, by Mrs. Gerald DuBois on the History of Sound.

Mr. DuBois demonstrated sound to the human voice and ear, and showed how sound can be modified to produce various effects and how high fidelity and stereophonic sounds are attained. He used special tape recordings and records in his demonstration.

Mr. DuBois spent a number of years as an equipment engineer for the New York Telephone Company and has been employed by the International Business Machines Corporation since 1951. At the present time he is doing developmental research at IBM, Poughkeepsie.

Monday the Campus School Board and Principal George Bond attended the fall meeting of the Mid-Hudson Study Council held at the college here.

The Parent-Teacher Association executive committee held its regular meeting Monday.

Salvation Army Appeal

The Rev. Willett Porter Jr., chairman of the local Salvation Army Service Unit Committee, has announced that the annual Christmas appeal for funds for the Salvation Army have been mailed out.

It is hoped that this letter may serve as a note of thanks to all who contribute to the work of the Salvation Army through the Community Chest—as well as an invitation to others to share in the traditional Christmas appeal.

Local contributions may be sent to the Rev. Dudley Bennett at 161 Main Street, treasurer of the local fund. A part of this will be used by the local committee to help the seasonal and emergency relief in New Paltz.

Commended for Study

Frank Hamilton, Business Manager at the New Paltz Central School, served on a committee which studied school transportation costs for the New York State Education Department. Recently the school received a letter from Arthur W. Schmidt, Assistant Commissioner for school Finance, commending Mr. Hamilton for his work.

The letter reads in part "I am convinced that this committee has contributed a great deal to the understanding of transportation problems and the cost. Your many suggestions and criticisms were most helpful in formulating a report which is probably unprecedented in its thoroughness."

The report of the committee is one of those which have been submitted to the Diefendorf committee for consideration.

Scout Activities

The explorer Scouts of Troop 77, through the courtesy of Smiley Brothers of Lake Mohonk, recently took a 10 mile hike to Mohonk where they tried out their newly acquired 2-Way Trnasceivers. They used the set of walkie-talkies under various conditions. The range of the set is limited to one mile. The group search for an imaginary person. Their goal is to learn the ways and means of searching for lost persons and rescuing devices. In learning the proper methods, all the kinds of scouting skills are to be employed, such as map and compass reading, knot tying, first-aid and hiking methods.

Dan Smiley talked to the group about his personal experiences in aiding and conducting searches.

When Post 77 is trained efficiently in rescue work, it will be able to work with the New Paltz Fire Department and other organizations in the search for lost persons.

Betrothal Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Nostrand of the Plutarch Road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sheila, to Brian Mallette. Shelia is a senior at the New Paltz Central High School. He is stationed with the United States Navy at Norfolk, Va. The wedding is planned for August, 1962.

Foil Cranberry Stains

The best way to handle cranberry spills on the tablecloth is to tackle them right at the table. Rub the stain with an ice cube from a water glass to prevent "setting," before you have a chance to launder the cloth.

Christians Wind Up India Parley

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The international get-together of Christians was over today with a prayer, a promise, and a record.

The record of the 18-day general Churches took up 6½ tons of paper.

The prayer and promise were couched in words uttered in unison in closing devotions Tuesday night by churchmen of nearly every nation.

Planned for use in home congregations, especially in interdenominational services, the text included this petition and pledge to Christ:

"Together, we commit ourselves anew to bear witness to Him among men. We offer ourselves to serve all men in love, that love which He alone imparts.

"We accept afresh our calling to make visible our unity in Him. We pray for the gift of the Holy Spirit for our task."

In its final business session, the assembly adopted a message to the farflung congregations of its 198 member denominations.

It said that amid sweeping technological, political and social revolutions in modern life, there are both new possibilities for good and threats of destruction.

"God is at work in opening possibilities for mankind in our day. He is at work even when the powers of evil rebel against Him and call down His judgment," the message said.

Defense Dept. Is Hit for Losing Time on Funds

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—A Wisconsin congressman accused the Defense Department today of "incredible mismanagement" in the length of time it took to make funds available for units recently called to duty.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., told a news conference that Congress granted the department the needed authority for such expenditures on Aug. 17.

Limiting his comments to the 32nd Infantry Division, a Wisconsin National Guard outfit training here, Laird said the Pentagon did not make this authority available to the Department of the Army until Oct. 31.

He said it took the Army until Nov. 16 to transmit this authority to the field command.

"This incredible mismanagement will be called to the attention of the highest officials in the Defense Department with the request that appropriate corrective action in mobilization planning be taken immediately," Laird said.

Laird, who arrived Tuesday on an official visit as a member of the House Military Construction subcommittee, said his full report would be given to the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee and would contain a list of all the complaints made by members of the 32nd Division. He said all of them are going to be answered in detail.

U.S. Offers 21 Planes to U.N. Against Katanga

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States offered 21 additional Air Force transport planes today for support of U.N. operations against secessionist Katanga forces in the Congo.

The U. S. Air Force is now operating six of the big four-engine troop and equipment carrying planes in the strife-torn central African nation.

The State Department, announcing the offer of additional planes, said that the commander in chief of U.S. forces in Europe has been ordered to provide up to 15 C124 planes and up to six C130s as requested for use by the United Nations.

Press officer Joseph W. Reap said these planes now are based in France or Libya but if needed would operate in support of U.N. forces out of the Congo area around Leopoldville.

Reap said also that the aircraft may be used by the United Nations to fly U.N. troop reinforcements directly from the country of origin—for example from Sweden, Ireland or Nigeria—into the combat area of the Congo which presently is around Elisabethville.

Shallots are often called for in French recipes: if they aren't available, substitute the white part of scallions or mild white onion.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband and our father Frank Fiore who passed away two years ago today, December 6, 1959.

Two years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away;
God took him home—it was His will Within our hearts he liveth still.

New Yorkers Get Scores of Patents From Washington

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) --There's a woman in Vestal, N.Y., who thinks she has just the thing for housewives who fumble with soap powder boxes on wash day.

She invented and patented a plastic soap powder dispenser that fits over one corner of the box and dispenses just the right amount of soap each time.

But Orla Nielson is only one of perhaps thousands of New Yorkers whose brain children won government patents this year.

The Patent Office said New Yorkers won 9½ per cent of all patents issued by the government last year. A total of 5,292 patents went to New York residents for inventions or new processes and designs they developed.

Nationally, more than 53,000 patents were issued by the government during 1960.

A spot check of patents issued late last month showed that scores of them went to New Yorkers.

Some bore such complex names as "triggered transistorized blocking oscillator with saturable transformer" by Robert William Carney of Utica, "production of hydrogen peroxide by anthaquinous process in the presence of fixed bed catalyst" by Donald H. Porter of Tonawanda, and "trigonometric function generator" by Donald M. Merz of Schenectady and Thom R. Greene of Troy.

There were New Yorc inventions for the layman too.

In addition to the soap powder dispenser, which can be used on any box of granular material, there were a vegetable peeling appliance for the housewife, a fishing harness for the sportsman, a cocktail mixer for the social set, a multiflavor drink-dispenser for the teen-ager, and a modernistic chair for the man who just wants to set and relax.

Why We Say--

GLASSMAKER: When something is described as a fiasco it is a ridiculous failure. The word came from Venetian glassmaker. If in blowing, the slightest flaw was detected, the bottle was turned into a common flask called a fiasco.

Without Stuff Do Not Bid

By OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When your opponents have a part score, you want to compete if you can. Such competition may prove very expensive, but it is just as costly to sit back and let them run off with a game.

One way to compete is to open the bidding first. Therefore, most players will open any doubtful hand in first or second seat when the opponents have a part score.

If North had opened the bidding, his opponents would have run off with the rubber. Instead he passed and backed in with a takeout double of West's fourth hand spade bid. East redoubled, South bid two hearts and East doubled it.

West cashed his two high spades and gave East a ruff. East led a diamond to his partner's ace and West continued the suit. South went up with dummy's king and threw East in with a third diamond, but East got out of the lead with the nine of trumps.

West took his king and led a club. Dummy's queen lost to East's king and East still had to make two trump tricks.

North and South lost 1100 points and East and West still had their part score.

Legionnaires Are Against Speech Of Red at College

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—An American Legion group is protesting a scheduled lecture Thursday night by Gus Hall, general secretary of the American Communist Party. The group says Hall "is dedicated to the destruction of our American way of life."

The American Legion of Tompkins County made the protest Tuesday night in a statement by Harry Cirulli, commander of the county group.

The Cornell Faculty has reaffirmed its decision to allow Hall to speak at the University despite a federal indictment that charges Hall with failure to register the party as an arm of the Soviet Union.

The faculty committee had approved two weeks ago Hall's invitation by the von Cramm Association, a scholarship group, and the Cornell Forum, a student organization.

Advice Is Given On Vets Pension

All veterans and survivors who are receiving non-service connected pensions, will receive annual income questionnaire forms with their Dec. 31 pension checks, according to Charles L. Culver, veterans counselor, State Division of Veterans affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

Recipients of the questionnaire are advised to make arrangements to return the form promptly. Each questionnaire must be completed and returned to the office indicated on the form within 30 days from the date printed thereon.

Failure to return the questionnaire within the allotted time, may result in having pension payments stopped.

Any questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted to the Main Street office for attention.

Clothing Drive Due in Schools Starting Dec. 11

The 20th annual bundle day collection of wearable used clothing will start December 11 in the Kingston School system, it was announced today.

Clothing collected through the sponsorship of the Save the Children Foundation, a 30-year-old international organization, will go to the American Southern mountains and elsewhere.

"This is an important annual community operation," said Franklin H. Hazard, associate suerintendent of schools here.

He said children and their parents in the southern mountains and in other depressed and disaster areas are in dire need of clothing.

Children here, their parents and friends are urged to join the drive to help keep young bodies warm on the cold roads to school and to bolster their spirits.

All items of clothing and shoes are acceptable so long as they are wearable, but not worn out.

The Save the Children Federation of Norwalk, Conn., serves the interest of children throughout the world in cooperation with leading educators.

Hunt the Hunters

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Pima County searchers got in a lot of practice recently when high schoolers Larry Wooster and Daniel Feldman became lost in the Catalina Mountains. Shortly after the two boys were found unharmed, a 22-member contingent of the search operation became lost. They struggled out later, but then it was realized that two more searchers were still missing. They, too, were founds after another search.

Bomb Shelters

We the undersigned feel we cannot be silent any longer. We wish to express our feelings regarding bomb shelters.

We are primarily prompted by moral and spiritual motives.

However, we are not simply against bomb shelters but are aware of the realistic and practical aspects of the problem and the need for a postive peace program.

We believe the shelter program leads to a negative approach to solving the war dilemma. Shelters are false security at best, involving our energies and funds, which might more fruitfully be applied to programs for world order.

If even a portion of the 200 billions of dollars required for a national network of underground shelters were applied to the United Nations work for peace, imagine the support we could give morally and physically toward world leadership.

We are seeking and working in any way open to us toward a positive peace through world law and understanding, realizing the tremendous economic and social adjustments involved.

Above all, we are led to speak from our moral obligation to the generations to come.

Special Check Is FHA Ruling on Fallout Shelters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration today announced special inspection and approval requirements on home improvement loans when the money is to be used for family fallout shelters.

The new regulations require banks, savings and loan firms and other lenders to take responsibility for inspecting the completed shelter and to certify that the job conforms with FHA and Defense Department standards.

In advance of the loan, the bank must submit the plans for the shelter to the nearest FHA office for approval. Only after the FHA office issues a "certificate of eligibility" can the lender authorize the householder or the contractor to proceed with the loan insured under FHA home-improvement program.

For single-family homes, the maximum loan amount is $3,500, with five years to repay. In multi-family structures the loan for each living unit may not exceed $2,500. A seven-year repayment term is provided.

LIVELINESS AND LUXURY AT A LOW, LOW PRICE

NEW CHEVY II

Never before such a team of totally new cars! Sedans, hardtop, station wagons, even a convertible . . . you name it, Chevy II has it. Nine models in all now in production. What are they like? Well, imagine all the solid virtues you've always counted on from Chevrolet . . . the steadfast dependability, the tried and true economy, the dyed-in-the-wool comfort . . . all dressed up in a new just-right size and built a modern new way. That's Chevy II . . . but that's only the beginning. It's easy on the eyes, easy on the road and easy on your pocketbook. It's built to be ultra-easy to service and maintain. Front fenders, for instance, bolt on and off for easy repairs. Two spunky engines, a four and a six (your choice in most models), purr along merrily on regular gas—and darn little of it, too. Thanks to Mono-Plate rear springs, the ride reminds you of the big Chevrolet—and you know how smooth that is. The space inside for people and things puts you in mind of big cars, too. So does the cushy comfort. But Chevy II parts company from anything else around when it comes to offering all these fine features—at a sensible low price. Fact is, luxury and low price have never been blended so beautifully. Check your Chevrolet dealer and see for yourself.

Experts Believe Soviets Would Hit All Bases

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — American intelligence experts believe that if the Soviet Union were to strike in Europe the Soviets would launch sudden, simultaneous nuclear attacks on all of the continent's Western defenses.

The intelligence men expect rapid, deep armored Soviet thrusts would come next.

Once the ground attack was in motion, the Soviets would send in units in waves in an effort to keep their advance moving day and night.

The Russians could be expected to try to maintain constant contact with Allied forces so Western commanders would have to hold their own atomic fire or risk the destruction of their forward troops.

Maj. Gen. A. R. Fitch, the Army's assistant chief of staff for intelligence, sketched current Soviet tactical doctrine earlier this week at a meeting of civilian aides to Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. at Ft. Monroe, Va.

Fitch's talk was confined to an evaluation of Soviet military concepts. He did not commen on moves the United States might make in the event of a Soviet attack on the European allies.

He said Soviet tactical doctrine has been modified to incorporate nuclear weapons delivered by aircraft or missiles, but conventional artillery retains a prominent role.

The emphasis in Soviet tactical planning is on the use of armor, dispersion of forces and mobility, both to exploit Russian nuclear firepower and to minimize casualties from opposing atomic weapons.

Rebels Ambush Train

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Communist Viet Cong rebels derailed and ambushed a passenger train in mountains between Saigon and Nha Trang Tuesday. The government reported two passengers and a soldier guard were injured and seven other soldiers were missing.

Amish Must Comply

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — For the first time ever, the Amish people are having to put electric lights on their old-fashioned buggies. A new state law requires it. Most of the Amish heretofore have relied on red glass reflectors.

Po'keepsie Man Gets Jail Term On Gaming Count

A 47-year-old Poughkeepsie gasoline station operator was sentenced to three months in the Dutchess County jail Tuesday and fined $250 on a gambling conviction.

Julius V. (Spot) Meyer was convicted recently by a trial jury of bookmaking and keeping a place for bets.

County Judge John R. Schwartz also suspended a six month jail term on two other county of an indictment,

Recommending a jail term for Meyer, District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta said "fining these men is giving them a cheap licence to continue their operations."

Meyer's attorney, Edward Filipowicz told the Court the defendant was a "hip pocket" not a professional gambler, that Meyer was being forced to vacate his gasoline station at 51 Fairview Avenue, Poughkeepsie, and recommended leniency.

Before passing sentence, Judge Schwartz said, "We don't sentence bachelors only around here."

Meyer told the Court he has two children and his family has undergone hardship.

Takes His Flea Circus To Warmer Climate

BRIGANTINE, N.J. (AP)— The performers in John Torp's circus have been dying off like fleas lately.

Matter of fact, the performers in John Torp's circus are fleas.

The little varmints live only four or five months, and they won't breed in cold weather.

So Torp, 29, a native of Denmark, and his partner, Max Kitson, left their headquarters here Tuesday with about 40 tiny performers, headed for warmer climes.

"Nationwide, there's no shortage of fleas," Torp said, "but they're hard to find here right now."

Just any old flea can't join the circus. Cat and dog fleas, which will breed almost any place, won't do.

"What I want are the large black, six-legged fleas—like you find on people," he said.

Auto Renting Firm Gets 675 Summonses

CHICAGO (AP) — A company named Courtesy has been served with 675 summonses for traffic violations from 1958 through 1960.

The firm is Courtesy Lease-Save Plan, Inc., a division of Courtesy Motor Sales, Inc.

Police Capt. John J. Nelligan said each offense carries a maximum fine of $200 upon conviction.

Jim Moran, owner of the parent firm, said he doesn't know whether the leasing company or its customers can be held liable for violations by drivers of rented autos.

Green was elected treasurer for three years. He received 59 votes, Maurice Martin had 27, Maurice Wright 1 and there were 27 void or blank ballots. The electorate approved 94 to 10 a proposition permitting the commissioners to expend $2,780.50 from the established capital reserve to be applied toward the purchase of a new International ambulance to cost about $4,565.

Five fire districts in the town of Saugerties held elections. In the Mt. Marion-Ruby district, George Becker of Mt. Marion was elected without opposition for a five year term as commissioner.

George Saile of Saxton was re-elected commissioner for five years in the Saxton District. Irving Oltman was unanimously elected treasurer in a surprise election. He was nominated unopposed when Victor Hommell of Manorville, unopposed for re-election, declined at the last moment. Some 34 balloted.

Lomontville which had two propositions up for consideration as well as elections for commissioner, reported a good turnout. Charles A. Groeters, who was nominated from the floor, defeated Otto Kern, nominated by the commissioners, by a vote of 41 to 21. A proposition authorizing issuance and sale of $6,000 of bonds for purchase of a tank truck was approved 61-2. The voters also carried by 56-7, a proposition seeking $2,000 for the purchase of a siren for the firehouse.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are smoking more cigars this year than any time since 1923—fewer from Havana this year than last, but more made of tobacco grown in the Philippines, Sumatra, Java and Puerto Rico.

No Tobacco Ban

Uncle Sam's troubles with Fidel Castro as yet have brought no ban on tobacco imports—as they did long against sugar, an embargo extended Monday by President Kennedy until next June 30.

But Carl J. Carlson, president of the Cigar Manufacturers Association of America, said in an interview that legal disputes over ownership of Cuban trademarks registered here have cut cigar imports by 48 per cent this year. He said crop difficulties in some Cuban districts may have caused the 12 per cent drop in imports of Cuban tobacco to be made into cigars here.

Cigars of Cuban tobacco are only a small part of the big American market. They have been a top item for many small cigar-making shops around the country, and especially for the makers concentrating in the Tampa, Fla., area.

In the first nine months of the year, U.S. Bureau of Census figures put total value of Cuban tobacco imports at $19.6 million, compared with $23.5 million in the same period last year. The total for 1960 was $31 million.

Leaf Stocks Up

Total cigar leaf tobacco stocks are well ahead of a year ago. Department of Agriculture figures put stocks at 354.3 million pounds of which 40 million pounds are of Cuban origin. This compares with a total of 342.9 million pounds a year ago, when Cuban stocks were 43.4 million pounds.

While Cuban stocks were slipping in the 12 months, holdings of Philippine tobacco gained 1.9 million pounds and Sumatra-Java and other foreign cigar types 7.3 million pounds.

The headlines go to occasional rumors that imports of the Cuban product may be cut off to chastise Castro, but what the cigar men themselves most like to talk about is the steady comeback in sales of cigars—all cigars, of which the Cuban product is only a fraction. Total sales had slipped badly after the first World War when Americans flocked to the cigarette instead.

Eugene L. Raymond, president of the Cigar Institute of America, said in an interview that the comeback has been due to the industry's turning to making cigars of the size and type young men will buy, and to pounding home the idea that cigar smokers are acceptable in all circles.

The best seller is the five-cent cigar, about 24 per cent of the total, and next is the 10-center, 19 per cent of the total, with most of the rest priced in between, and only 11 per cent costing more than a dime.

Cesspool for a Town

BUTTERFIELD, ILL (AP) — The cesspool — with a difference — is being tried experimentally as a sewage processing and disposal facility for a small community.

Preliminary reports on a 250 by 450-foot lagoon, serving some 90 households of Butterfield, west of Chicago, are encouraging, says Orville Meyer, sanitary engineer of the DuPage County's public works committee.

The pool was planted with algae and fed air which is pumped into perforated plastic lines spaced along the bottom. Oxygen content of the water was maintained at about seven parts per million. It was stocked with minnows which apparently thrived.

No contamination was found in the ditch runoff.

Foam from household detergents remains an unsolved problem, Meyer said. It collects on the surface.

Curfew

The curfew originated in the fear of fire when most cities were built of timber. It was the tolling of a bell to warn inhabitants to extinguish their lights and fires.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Very often I am asked for pictures of the boats that plied up and down the Hudson River. I do not have these films, but now and then am given photographs. Miss Short, who had a photograph shop on the Strand had some fine pictures, as I remember, and I think they were from glass plates.

When she was going out of business, I asked her once, what she did with those plates of scenes and boats, and as I remember, she told me, she sold them in bulk, not for the picture value but for the glass.

William Longyear's son, brought me some photographs of Kingston Point Park and such, and for a time, his mother made copies for those who desired them. Once there was mention of it in this column, I remember former Kingstonians learned of it, and sent for copies. That was a number of years ago.

I see the Central Hudson, Gas and Electric Corp. in sending out bills enclosed recently a fine picture of the Sidewheeler "Alexander Hamilton" of the Hudson River Day Line. This is the last sidewheeler steamer up and down the Hudson from New York City to Poughkeepsie, from May through September.

I thought I would tell my readers about this picture, so they can save it now, because very often these items are thrown out, and then it is difficult to find them. Perhaps the Central Hudson will put out more pictures, of our popular steamers of former years, so we can save them

Miss Wilcox of New Paltz often sends me interesting items such as the souvenir magazine, "Hudson River Day Line" of July 1911. One item in that illustrated booklet reads in part: "Andrew Carnegie recently sent $100 to Miss Margaret Knox, principal of P.S. No. 15, New York, as a token of his pleasure in seeing some of the children of that school dance the Highland Fling at the May Day festivities. (Mr. Carnegie was a Scotchman, and that was one of the Scotch dances. Incidentally, in 1902, the late Andrew Carnegie, gave a contribution, large enough, to build the brick building of our own Kingston City Library, which we still enjoy.)

To go on with the story of the $100, the children and principal of that school took a vote as to what to do with that money, and 179 voted on a trip up the Hudson on the Day Line, and one voted against it. The little girl who voted against it was afraid she would be seasick, but was finally convinced that the Hudson River trip would be as smooth as the palm of one's hand. The little girls and their teachers and principal went to Newburgh and returned one fine day in June, on Mr. Carnegie's gift.

Here is an item from the 1911 booklet that may bring back memories "To the people of Rondout, Kingston and vicinity, the Day Line offers a one day trip to Mount Beacon, going by Day Line Steamer from Kingston Point and returning by steamer, "Mary Powell" from Newburgh to Rondout, in the evening at the rate of $1.45 for the round trip."

Gas Leak Blamed For House Explosion

BURNT HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—A new, unoccupied house was wrecked Tuesday night by an explosion and fire apparently caused by a gas leak.

No one was injured.

Debris was blown 50 feet by the blast, which destroyed the frame house. The building, in this Saratoga County village, was completed late in the summer and was heated.

Firemen said John Martin, 24, a backhoe operator, dislodged a gas pipe while digging a trench and the furnace apparently caused the gas to explode.

Firemen estimated the damage at $26,000.

Accept 2 Chinas In UN: Nigeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Jaja Wachuku, foreign minister of Nigeria, today called on the United Nations today to recognize the existence of two Chinas and to accept both the Nationalist and Communist governments as U.N. members.

The two-China plan was advanced by Wachuku in a speech before the 103-nation General Assembly in which he appealed to the Peiping regime to drop its demands for the expulsion of the Chinese Nationalist government and to apply for membership as a new country.

Meanwhile, a concerted Asian-African attack on the U.S. attempt to bar Red China built up steam.

Steel Output Will Hit 80 PC Capacity

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's steelmakers will hit a production rate of nearly 80 per cent of capacity later this month, The Iron Age predicted today.

The metal working weekly said output will be boosted to that level largely by heavy demand of auto manufacturers, but also by a strong pickup in general business.

Inventory building as a hedge against a possible steel strike in mid-1962 is playing a part, it said.

The steel industry currently is operating at a little over 70 per cent of capacity.

Cavanagh Will Be N. Y.'s Deputy Mayor

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr., who managed Mayor Robert F. Wagner's successful reelection campaign, will assume the post of deputy mayor on Jan. 1.

Cavanagh, appointed by Wagner Tuesday, will succeed Paul R. Screvane, who won the post of city council president in the Nov. 7 election.

Area Residents Urged to Reply To Seals Letter

In an effort to encourage all Ulster County residents to answer their Christmas Seals letters, Robert S. Russell, chairman of the Christmas Seals campaign, has designated Friday, Dec. 8 "Do-It-Day."

Christmas seals, sole support of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, went into the mail on Nov. 13.

Figures released from the Association's office in Kingston show that the County Christmas Seals returns total $17,567.92 as of December 1. The amount is slightly ahead of last year's total received on the same date. Final total in the 1960 drive was $35,390.29.

"I know," said Russell, "that many people, beset by the hustle and bustle of preparing for the holiday season, put off their Christmas Seals letter. I hope that 'Do-It-Day' will serve as a welcome reminder that the fine work being carried on by our Ulster County TB and Health Association depends upon all of us. If you haven't joined this worthwhile cause, I sincerely urge you to do so now."

Funds raised in the annual Christmas Seals campaign are used for local and state programs in the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases such as pneumonia, emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma.

Eighty-two per cent of the funds raised remain in Ulster County to finance the local Association's program which includes co-operation with the Department of Health and the TB Hospital in the annual mass X-ray surveys and use of the tuberculin test in schools; in educational and informative programs on health in disseminating health education and information; in providing patient services for the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and Ulster County Infirmaries at Kingston and New Paltz.

Of total funds raised, 12 per cent is allocated to the New York State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, and six per cent to the National Tuberculosis Association to carry on vital research and informational programs.

Freeman Pledges Program Dealing With Surpluses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A substantial legislative program dealing with surpluses and low prices for grains, dairy products and poultry is promised by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

He told a news conference Tuesday that such a program probably will be offered congress by President Kennedy in a special message early next year.

Freeman indicated that the administration has no intention of retreating from its so-called supply management policies despite opposition from some farm groups.

Under this program, various devices would be used by government and producers to balance production with demand.

It is hoped that such a program will eliminate surpluses with a consequent reduction in farm program costs and an increase in farm prices.

A GROWING NATION—Americans are not only growing in numbers but in size, as well. If trends of the past half-century continue—and advances in diet and nutrition make this likely—the average male in the year 2000 will be four inches taller and nearly 20 pounds heavier than his counterpart today. Newschart, based on statistics and predictions by a men's knitwear maker and a foundation garment manufacturer, shows how both women and men have grown taller and heavier since 1900 and 1917, respectively. Figures on men's waistlines show the same trend: 1917—28 inches; 1960—35 inches; 2000—42 inches.

Big Income Loss Seen in Dropping Of Ogdensburg

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Eliminating Ogdensburg from the northern New York area the St. Lawrence Gas Co. proposes to serve could cut St. Lawrence's income by more than $100,000 in three years, an engineer maintains.

George Carpenter, a consulting engineer, testified Tuesday at a Public Service Commission hearing on competing petitions by St. Lawrence and Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. to supply natural gas in the area.

He said St. Lawrence's income would drop from $140,000 to $25,000 in the third year if Ogdensburg were eliminated.

Niagara Mohawk seeks to serve a wider area of St. Lawrence and Jefferson counties than does St. Lawrence. Ogdensburg would be removed from the St. Lawrence franchise area if Niagara Mohawk's petition were approved.

No natural gas is available now north of Watertown.

Niagara Mohawk sells propane gas at Ogdensburg and seeks to substitute natural gas by extending its pipeline from Watertown to Ogdensburg.

The Federal Power Commission has approved St. Lawrence's request to import natural gas from Canada and has refused Niagara Mohawk's request for more natural gas from United States sources.

Niagara Mohawk proposes to purchase natural gas from Canada if the state agency approves its projected gas franchise.

NARCE Will Dine, Elect Saturday

The regular meeting of Ulster County Chapter, 461, National Association of Retired Civil Employes, will be held Saturday following a Christmas banquet at Mid-Town Chop House, Broadway and Downs Street.

Members will meet at the local restaurant at 1 o'clock for the banquet.

All will return to the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, for the regular meeting scheduled to start about 2 p. m. Election of new officers will highlight the meeting.

matter of Fact

"Doughboys" was a favorite nickname for American soldiers in World War I. During the Civil War the same nickname was applied to brass buttons on uniforms and consequently to the infantrymen who wore them. In the 17th century, however, "doughboy" did not have a military connotation but meant "dumpling."

Name Your Candidate for 'Most Annoying Noise'

BY RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The scraping of a knife against a saucepan is the most annoying sound in the world. That's right.

At least that is the conclusion reached by researchers at England's National Physical Laboratory after an exhaustive study of the effects of unpleasant noises on human beings.

Somehow, it doesn't seem possible that sound could have won first place if the scientist had tested for any of the following:

The sound of a telephone when you're in the bathtub and there's no one else in the house to answer it.

The sound of a TV housewife squealing over how light and bright her laundry is now that she has switched to the sponsor's washday product.

The sound of auto horns from cars piled up behind you when your car stalls at a traffic light.

Sound track laughter that splits its sides when the TV comedian is anything but funny.

The screech of brakes that stops the car driven by a smart aleck who roars right up to you when you are crossing a busy intersection.

The warning clap of thunder that heralds a shower just as you are ready to float out to a party in your most perishable gown.

The blood curdling whine that means one of your silver teaspoos has fallen in the garbage disposer.

The repeated buzz that means your battery is down and your car isn't going to start when you're in a rush to keep an appointment.

The long, lonely rings of an unanswered telephone when you have put in an important long distance call.

Surely NOTHING scraping against ANYTHING could be as annoying as any of these sounds to the human ear.

A PROPER BEEF STEW SHOULD ALWAYS BE MADE IN THE MORNING. After the beef chunks are half cooked, the vegetables should be added and cooked right in the beef flavored water. A BEEF STEW SHOULD CONTAIN white potatoes, carrots, onions, turnips, just a bit of cabbage and plenty of sweet potatoes. AFTER THE STEW IS COOKED, it should be set aside to cool for it is in the reheating that the utterly delicious and completely satisflying flavor comes out.

THE HOVER-BUS — Britain's first passenger-carrying air-cushion vehicle is the 70-seat Saunders Roe Hovercraft N2, which is undergoing tests at Cowes on the Isle of Wight. The SRN2, which rides at 80 m.p.h. on a downward blast of air, is the first such craft designed to carry passengers. Four 815-h.p. gas turbines provide the air cushion, while propellers mounted atop the body give it forward thrust.

Closed Showdown Session

Labor Chiefs Meet To Iron Out Feuds

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders called a closed showdown session today to try to compromise conflicting proposals for settling labor's internal wars.

There appeared to be at least four, and possibly more, plans advanced as systems for refereeing controversies over inter-union jurisdictional feuds.

Compromise Sought

Some compromise was sought to avoid an open fight after the AFL-CIO convention opens here Thursday with President Kennedy as the chief speaker.

With top federation leaders widely split on the various disputes settlement plans, one of the key figures in the controversy said, "It's going to be murder. Everybody's red hot over this."

Rival building trades and industrial unions have come up with separate plans. Al Hayes, Machinists Union president and the chairman of a special committee charged with framing a disputes settlement formula, had still another proposal. George Meany, AFL-CIO president, seemed to have a fourth.

Hayes called a special meeting of his five-man group to try to come up with a single proposal. Meany arranged an afternoon session of the 29-man AFL-CIO executive Council for a further airing of differences.

Meaney, Reuther Rivals

Meany and Walter Reuther, the head of the Auto Workers Union and chief spokesman for the industrial unions, were the major rivals in the political maneuvering.

Reuther has insisted on all federation unions being compelled to accept arbitration of all job rights disputes among unions, with decisions subject to court enforcement.

Sarnoff Predicts More Color Video Shows Next Year

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff of the National Broadcasting Co. predicts for next year's TV watchers: More and better color shows, more drama and variety programs, more new writers and actors and more public affairs programs.

Sarnoff, in town for celebration of NBC's 35th anniversary, held a news conference Tuesday.

Dutchess Jurors Indict Four Men At Poughkeepsie

A Dutchess County grand jury on Tuesday handed up four indictments to County Judge John R. Schwartz.

Frank A. Williams, 32, a window washer, 441 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, who was wounded in a police chase Nov. 12, was indicted on charges of burglary third degree and attempted grand larceny first degree. He was accused of entering the Moose Club, 339 Mill Street, Poughkeepsie, Patrolman Stanley Dahowski shot Williams in the right leg as the defendant attempted to escape.

Andrell Nelson, 19, of 88 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, was indicted on charges of robbery first degree, assault second degree, conspiracy and grand larceny first degree. Nelson was accused of hitting Donald Losee, 24, of 174 Mill St. Poughkeepsie and taking his wallet last October.

Marine Timothy Eugene Shea, 18, formerly of Poughkeepsie, was indicted on charges of grand larceny first degree, robbery first degree and second degree assault. Police accused Shea of pointing a pellet gun at James P. Kearney, 25, of Beacon, and taking his 1961 car and wallet containing $4 last month.

Peter William Smith, 36, of 217 Union Street, Poughkeepsie, was indicted on charges of grand larceny second degree and forgery second degree. Smith is accused of forging and cashing a $103 check in Poughkeepsie Oct. 26.

Reforms to Clear Way for Extra Aid to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of South Viet Nam has agreed to internal reforms, clearing the way for more U.S. aid in the Southeast Asian nation's battle against Communist guerrillas.

Officials said Tuesday President Ngo Dinh Diem had agreed to the reforms after several weeks of negotiations with U.S. Ambassador Frederick Nolting Jr.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, military adviser to President Kennedy, toured South Viet Nam in October. He reportedly recommended that before any U.S. increase in military and economic assistance, President Diem should be prevailed upon to make some internal reforms.

Collie Wins Keep

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Dixon, 9, repeatedly egged his father to allow Anne, the family pet collie, to stay in the house. A few days Nixon gave in.

Tuesday night when Dixon was home alone, taking a nap, Annie jumped on his chest and woke him minutes before the house went up in flames.

"There isn't anybody who could get together enough money to buy that dog," Dixon said.

Bloomington Vols Elect Officers, Schedule Events

BLOOMINGTON VOLS HD

Election of officers for 1962 highlighted the monthly meeting Tuesday night of the Bloomington Fire Co. Inc., during which Fred Sauer, incumbent president, agreed to resume that office another year after a unanimous draft was approved by the members.

Sauer has served as the company president for 15 years.

Others re-elected were: Warren Prandoni, vice president; Herb Faurote, treasurer; Joseph Hafner, secretary; Oscar Hahn, chief, and the Rev. Richard Brown of the Bloomington Church, chaplain.

Otto Loekle was reelected a director for a term of three years. Charles Petersen was appointed director of publicity for 1962.

Chief Hahn will name line officers of the department at the January meeting.

Charles Peterson, chairman of the committee, announced that the third of a series of round and square rances sponsored jointly by the Bloomington and Rosendale Fire Companies would be held this Saturday evening at the Bloomington firehouse. Festivities will begin at 9 p. m. with music once more being supplied by Floyd Barringer and his band. Peterson made it a point to specify that these dances are not limited to any particular age group and everyone is welcome to attend. Refreshments will be available and there is plenty of parking available on the grounds. Aiding on the committee will be Herb Faurote, Joseph Hafner, Leslie Evory, John Markle. Howard Slover will be in charge of traffic.

Chief Hahn reported one fire in the district during November. On November 22, the old, abandoned Catholic Church in Whiteport was destroyed by fire. The cornerstone of the building was laid in 1896 and it was dedicated as St. Patrick's chapel. After its desanctification by the Archdiocese about 20 years ago, the building changed hands many times being used mostly as a warehouse. The present leasees had been making arrangements to use the cellar to cultivate mushrooms when the fire broke out and spread. When finally brought under control by the six companies fighting the blaze, only the brick walls remained, spelling the end of another area landmark.

President Sauer announced that the organization's annual Christmas party for the children of the district would be held this year on Saturday, December 16 at 2 p. m. at the firehouse. Sauer stated that this year's affair will feature movies, games and prizes culminated by a visit by Santa Claus with gifts for all children present. All children of the district are invited to attend this annual party. Admission always is free. The Bloomington fire district includes Bloomington, Maple Hill, Eddyville, Whiteport, Creek Locks, DeWitt-Mills Road to the Hurley town line and Route 32 north to the city line.

In order to raise funds for the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention to be sponsored by Bloomington and the Town of Rosendale Volunteer Firemen's Association in 1964, Herb Faurote, past president of the Town Association and current second vice president of the county association has stated that a combined five fire company bazaar will be held on the grounds of St. Peter's R. C. Church in Rosendale on July 6 and 7, 1962.

The companies involved are Bloomington, Rosendale, Tillson, Cottekill and Binenwater. Faurote stated that Charles Peterson of Bloomington has been appointed general chairman of the affair to be assisted by a committee from each company. As soon as plans are formulated, they will be announced.

President Sauer announced that plans are now under way for a pre-Lenten buffet style supper and dance at the Alpine Restaurant on Saturday evening, March 3, 1962. He also stated that plans are being formulated for a 15th anniversary celebration of the dedication of the firehouse. June 3, 1962 will mark the anniversary. He stated that an open house and many other events will be scheduled for that time.

After a prayer led by the chaplain, refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned until January 2, 1962 at 8 p. m.

Completes Course

Army Pfc. Anthony J. Scarselli, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Scarselli, Route 4, Saugerties, recently completed a five-week traffic accident prevention course conducted by the Military Police Department, U. S. Army School, Europe, in Oberammergau, Germany. A policeman in the 202d Military Police Company in Chinon, France, Scarselli entered the Army in October 1960, completed basic training at Fort Benning, Ga., and was stationed at Fort Gordon, Ga., before arriving overseas last March. He is a 1956 graduate of Saugerties High School.

Court Pays Honor To the Memory Of Fred W. Bruhn

At the opening of the December trial term of Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth, presiding justice, paid tribute to Fred W. Bruhn, Supreme Court stenographer, who died November 27.

In his remarks Justice Elsworth said it was seldom that recognition beyond the area of the judiciary or members of the bar is taken by the court but in this instance Fred W. Bruhn had been so much a part of the courts of this county and as Supreme Court reporter throughout the Third Judicial District, that he felt it fitting and proper to place upon the record of the court a tribute to his memory.

Fred W. Bruhn had served as grand jury stenographer and as Ulster County Court stenographer prior to becoming a Supreme Court stenographer, a position which he held at the time of his death.

A well known figure in local sports for many years and later as a judicial figure, Justice Elsworth paid a high tribute to his services. The remarks of Justice Elsworth will become a part of the court record.

Dutchess Phone Hike Approved

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today granted the New York Telephone Co. a rate increase and permission to establish toll-free service Dec. 17 between North Clove and its exchange in Millbrook and the Sylvan Lake Telephone Co. exchange at Hopewell Junction, Dutchess County.

New York Telephone said higher exchange rates would produce approximately $2,100 a year in additional revenue. The loss in toll revenues between the exchanges would cost about $1,600 annually, it said.

Policy to Cover Carefree Yule Shoppers in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Think you might get maimed in the Christmas shopping rush?

A travel insurance agency here — California Secure-Ur-Trip — has made provisions for it. A spokesman said Tuesday some of the agency's policy-vending machines will issue a $1 policy paying up to $5,000 to holders who lose life, sight or limb in holiday bargain-basement brawls.

Hunter, 80, Is Safe; Cut Off by Snow

SALISBURY CENTER, N.Y. (AP)—An 80-year-old hunter, who became separated Tuesday from his companions during a snow storm, was found early today in Adirondacks woodlands, apparently in good condition.

Jacob Miosek Sr. of Little Falls was found about 1 a.m. by his son, Jacob Jr., and another hunter in the Jerseyfield Lake area nine miles north of here. They did not emerge from the forests until about 6 a.m., however, because of difficult traveling.

Miosek, a veteran hunter, was reported missing Tuesday afternoon.

Passes Up Illinois Senate Race

Bigger Policy Role to Keep Stevenson in Assembly Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —With President Kennedy's "delighted" approval and promise of a bigger part in U.S. foreign policy, Adlai E. Stevenson decided Tuesday to remain at his United Nations post and to pass up an Illinois race for the U.S. Senate.

Stevenson disclosed last Saturday that he was considering running for the seat held by Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican Senate leader, at the request of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

His decision to continue as chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations surprised political experts who believed Stevenson had not been in full agreement with some of the Kennedy administration's foreign policies. It was understood that in exchange for his agreement to remain, Kennedy would consult him more often.

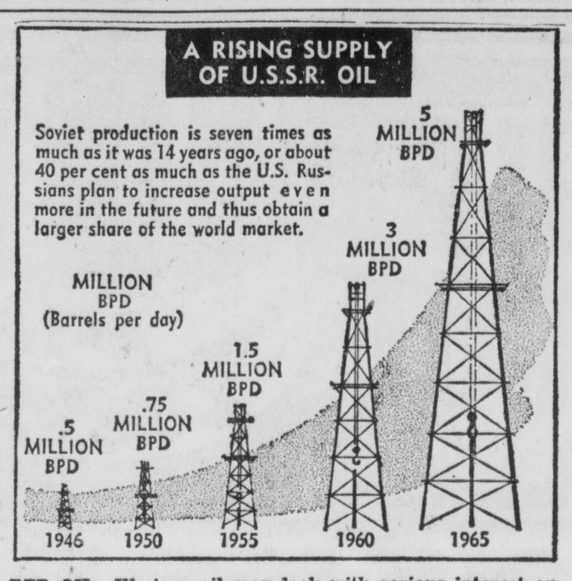
The former Illinois governor, twice an unsuccessful Democratic presidential nominee, announced his decision as Kennedy flew to New York for a speaking visit.

"I have today informed Mayor Daley of Chicago that I cannot be the Democratic candidate for the Senate," Stevenson said. "In recent conferences, the President has greatly reinforced my view that I can best serve him and the country in the field of foreign policy. I am most grateful for the good will of my party leaders in Illinois and am mindful of the great honor they have done me."

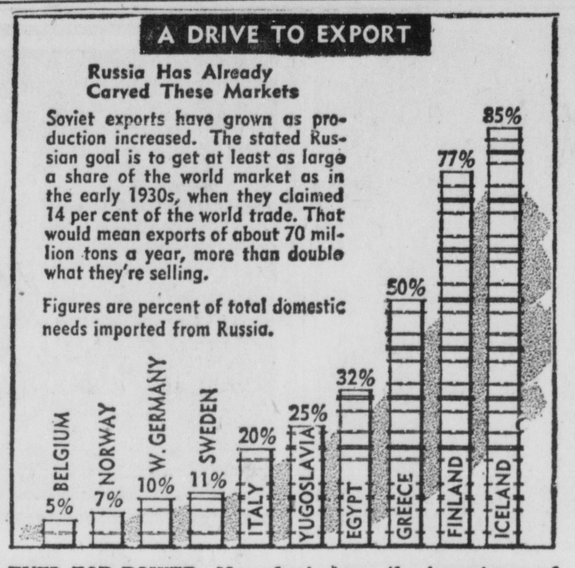
Kennedy, who discussed the matter with Stevenson twice last weekend, issued this statement: "I am delighted at Gov. Stevenson's decision. I expressed to him this weekend my emphatic hope that he would continue at the United Nations and play an expanding role in the making and execution of our foreign policy.

"I believe that his work is vital to the cause of peace and of top importance to the country."

Press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to clarify the President's reference to Stevenson's "expanding" foreign policy role.



RED OIL—Western oil men look with serious interest on Russia's current expansion of her oil producing capacity. In 1950, the U.S. produced seven times as much oil as Russia; in 1960, it was less than 2½ times as much. Plans call for the U.S.S.R. to export 900,000 barrels a day by 1965. The fear is that the Soviets intend to flood the world market, undercutting prices, as a form of economic and political warfare. Data in chart is from the Ohio Oil Company.



FUEL FOR POWER—Newschart shows the importance of oil exports to Russian plans for economic power. Though her share of the world trade is small—4.5 per cent—Russia is already offering some oil at cut-rate prices, an attempt according to some to obtain an economic stranglehold on other nations. The loss is made up by selling oil at inflated prices to the satellites. The U.S.S.R. plans to boost its present 14,000 miles of pipelines to 70,000 miles by 1975.

No Commies Allowed In Tampa Housing

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Tampa housing authority has tied the can to tenants who refuse to sign a non-Communist oath.

Authority director Thomas Dyer said his agency is requiring heads of family to sign an oath that they are not members of the Communist party. If they don't, said Dyer, out they go. Or if they are applicants for future housing, they don't get in.

Ulster Vols to Pass Out Fire Call Data

Members of Ulster Hose Company No. 5, Town of Ulster, will canvass the fire district and the Fire Protection District Sunday, Dec. 10, beginning at 1 p. m. to distribute cards to be placed near telephones indicating the number to call in case of fire. There will be solicitation of funds.

At the same time they will also canvass the area to locate any home where an invalid may reside so that the home may be recorded and identified and the invalid quickly removed in case of fire.

This service is being done as a community project and is under the chairmanship of Chief Harry Lowe.

Fallout Village Eyed

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A group of private investors announced plans Tuesday for a $2.5-million "fallout village" in Tulsa.

A spokesman said plans call for construction of a 1,000-foot-long shelter with 831 family units accommodating up to 4,400 persons.

Wallace Company To Merge With Other Big Firm

Officials of the Wallace Company Department store, which is building a branch in the Town of Ulster, made known Tuesday that two controlling companies—Forbes and Wallace Inc., and Consolidated Dry Goods Co., both of Springfield, Mass., plan to merge.

The merger is expected to become effective Jan. 27, 1962, providing greater strength to support expansion plans of the Wallace chain, officials said.

The combined annual sales volume of the concerns is in excess of $25,000,000.

The chain operates stores in Poughkeepsie, Springfield, Northampton, Mass., Holyoke, Mass., Schenectady and North Adams, Mass.

Andrew B. Wallace 3rd, president of the company, noted the fact that a Wallace Company branch store is now being built in the Town of Ulster, near Kingston.

Forbes and Wallace Inc., the new name of the controlling company, owns land in Springfield, on which the company proposes to build a suburban branch.

Wallace and Forbes Co., which operates the largest department store in Springfield, has had the controlling interest in Consolidated Dry Goods Co. and has been active in its management for many years, Wallace said.

The company president said the plan is subject to approval of the stockholders of both companies at meetings scheduled for Jan. 15, 1962.

"The plan will make possible better use of financial resources in the expansion of the combined business, and provide a broader base from which to operate," Wallace said.

Overwhelming Lesson Since Pearl Harbor

Earth People Find Quicker, Easier Ways to Kill Selves

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If an outer-space psychiatrist had been watching earth people these past 20 years, he might conclude: "Get them a doctor; they look disturbed."

Thursday, 20 years after Pearl Harbor, earth people who were in a dreadful mess then are in an awful mess now, although now they're not shooting at each other, except for here and there. But they're prepared to shoot, and they tell each other so.

No Solution in Sight

There's no solution in sight. As President Kennedy said when he took office, there may be none in our lifetime.

In these 20 years the most overwhelming lesson earth people have learned is how to kill themselves quicker and easier. They've graduated from TNT bombs to nuclear ones, from hitting a railroad center to wiping out cities.

Only an outer-space man, with an upside-down look at the earth, could appreciate how down-side up it is.

Old friends have become new enemies. Old enemies are new friends. Capitalism and communism, which had not trouble teaming up to wipe out fascism, now, when there's no one else to fight, can't bear each other.

Cave Days Return

Half the history of mankind was spent in learning how to get out of caves and live in the open. Now mankind is building new caves, called bomb shelters, in his back yard, just in case.

Russia, which proclaims its communism, isn't Communist at all and probably never will be. Communism means giving to each according to his needs. In Russia there's a caste system, with the elite living highest off the hog.

The Soviets, who call themselves a people's democracy, don't practice it and don't want it. They don't permit the people free elections or, for that matter, anything to say about their government.

The United States, which prides itself on its free enterprise system, practices it only in a limited way and it isn't entirely free at all.

The government has to bail out the farmers with price supports, helps various enterprises with subsidies, puts up tariff walls because it dreads outside competition and puts all kinds of restrictions on business.

Just Cleared Decks

And this country, where every 4th of July orators pay homage to the Declaration of Independence which says all men are equal, had slavery for almost half its existence and still discriminates against people, and segregates them, because of race.

Earth people, seen in a 20-year backward look, felt at the time that in defeating Hitler's Axis that they were cleansing the world, giving it a new and innocent birth.

But, as events showed, they only cleared the decks for a longer and perhaps more deadly struggle between the West and communism.

On Pearl Harbor Day in 1941 communism was limited to about 140 million, almost all within the Russian frontiers. Today, although Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson says this country is winning the cold war, there are one billion people, one-third the earth's population, living under communism.

Began Before Struggle

This struggle between capitalism and communism began before their joint war against fascism was over — when Stalin's armies took and held the satellite nations in Europe.

Within five years of the war's end—by 1950—the West had set up a new military alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, against its old friend and new enemy, Russia, which set up the Warsaw Pact, a Communist military alliance, against the West.

In old-fashioned wars like the last big one, which stretched over six years, there were 37½ million casualties, at least 8½ million of them killed. But now scientists debate whether in a new war a nuclear attack will wipe out 50 million.

True, there's a lot more of everything and everyone. In this country 20 years ago there were only 133 million people and 170 million in Russia. But now there are 185 million here and 220 million there.

The Russians are ahead in space development — they've hit the moon with a rocket and sent two men into orbit around the earth—but this country is trying to catch up, and may well do so.

Old Age Possible . . IF

Whether any of this will add to man's ability to get along with himself on earth is highly doubtful unless, in his further interstellar explorations, he gets into a war with another planet and has to team up here, perhaps only temporarily, to survive.

And, if the inability of communism and capitalism to get along on this planet were not enough, 42 new nations have come into existence since Pearl Harbor, which just adds to the confusion. Still, there is still some consolation from these 20 years. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says an American's life expectancy in that time has risen from 64 to 69 years, which is nice to think about, if he can make it.

SWEETY PIE By Nadine Seltzer

"Pull your shade down for a minute! I hear my mother coming!"

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Paramount and Warner Bros. are supplying their own brand of cheer for the holiday season-films from early Tennessee Williams works.

They may be early, but the standard Tennesseans are all there: the frustrated, middle-aging women, the sex-minded, insensitive younger men, the dotty mothers, the stern fathers, the rapacious townspeople.

You know—the kind of people you meet in everyday life.

"The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" is the more artful of the two offerings. It was adapted from Williams' early (1937) and only novel, which somehow anticipated "La Dolce Vita."

Flaming Romance

Mrs. Stone is a fiftyish, widowed stage star who goes to Rome to forget or find herself or some thing. She gets involved with a crone who acts as a kind of casting agent between Roman boys and rich, middleaged American women. The result: a flaming romance between Mrs. Stone and the twentyish, no-good Paolo.

The flaw in the fable is Vivien Leigh, but only because she is so good. One cannot imagine a woman of her beauty, taste and sensibility throwing the key to her apartment to a youthful stranger.

Warren Beatty is somewhat more articulate than he was in "Splendor in the Grass." But no actor can preserve much grace in the role of a gigolo, especially when handicapped with a phony accent.

Scenery Major Asset

The major assets of the film are some striking shots of Roman scenery and the promise shown by Jose Quintero, already one of Broadway's best directors.

The other entry in the holiday festival is "Summer and Smoke," which offers the more native Williams. The film smells of cornpone and magnolia, along with musty lavender.

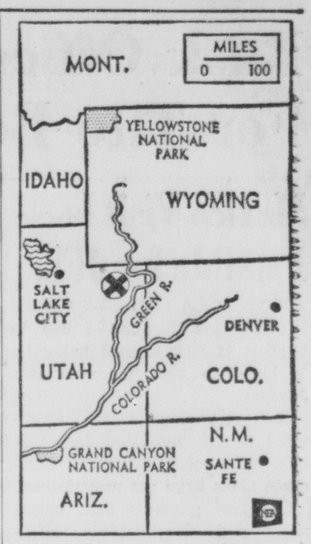
In this one, the heroine gets kissed and sighs, "I'm beginning to feel like a water lily on a Chinese lagoon." She usually prefaces her remarks by "I do declare," and her lifelong next-door neighbor calls her "Miss Alma." He scoffs at her aloofness and declares, "There's another person inside you, dying to be freed."

Same Ending for Two

If you have been exposed to the Tennessean art, you may feel you have covered this territory before. You're right. Though Geraldine Page is a gifted actress, there's little she can do to make the cheerless old maid interesting either to the young doctor next door or to the movie patron.

Nor can Laurence Harvey do much with the doctor, who turns from libertine to idealist in an unconvincing conversion. Best of the bunch is Una Merkel as the mother with a passion for ice cream cones and kleptomania. She seems almost the normal one.

Both films end with the same scene. The Misses Leigh and Page throw themselves into the arms of lads they don't even know. What all this proves, I don't know.



RECREATION MAGNET—Black X on Newsmap locates a new recreational area, Flaming Gorge Lake, near Utah-Wyoming border. A huge lake will start taking shape late next year when Flaming Gorge dam backs up Green River waters behind it.

Rusk Office Says Jets For Tito Benefit U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department describes the sale of 278 jet aircraft to Yugoslavia as beneficial to the United States because the planes help the Yugoslavs maintain their independence from Moscow.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., today made public a letter in which Brook Hays, as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, asserted "it is clear that Yugoslavia's independence and resistance to Soviet imperialism have directly benefited the United States."

The letter, dated Nov. 28, was in reply to Tower's request for a recapitulation of the history of the Yugoslav aid program. The senator said there had been complaints from his state against the sale and against the training of Yugoslav pilots in Texas in the use of the jets.

Hays said the contract for sale of the jet aircraft was signed last March after approval by both the State and Defense departments on the grounds it was in accordance with the best interest of the United States.

He said the aircraft are outdated from the standpoint of U.S. military needs and any assumption that they have any strategic significance to this country is illfounded.

Since the date of the letter, Hays has been shifted from the State Department to President Kennedy's White House staff.

Mexico Visit Is Possible for JFK

NEW YORK (AP) —President Kennedy has in mind a trip to Mexico. It was learned today he is likely to visit there in late January.

Both governments are understood to have discussed the possibility of a unity visit, but no concrete plans have yet materialized.

The best guess is that, unless unexpected developments interfere, Kennedy will fly to Mexico City or some other point in Mexico toward the end of January.

This would time Kennedy's visit after the meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers scheduled for Jan. 10 to explore measures aimed at the Communist threat of Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba to other Latin American lands.

The Organization of American States voted 14-2 this week to hold such a conference. Mexico joined Cuba in opposition, citing jurisdictional reasons.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy will visit Colombia and Venezuela Dec. 16 and 17 on a trip designed to dramatize U.S. interest in the Alliance for Progress program to raise Latin American living standards and achieve social reforms.

Three Die . . .

Francis Donnelly of the Millbrook barracks.

Howard W. Travis, 47, of Hyde Park operator of the bus, owned by the Hyde Park Central Schools, apparently escaped unharmed. State Police were of the opinion that Horton was blinded by the sun and failed to see the bus come to a halt.

State police of the Rhinebeck barracks reported that at 8:05 p. m. Tuesday, a foreign sports car operated by Donald Junceau, 18, of Staatsburg, traveling west on Route 199 in Red Hook crossed the highway, rode about 60 feet along the left shoulder and then pjlunged down a five-foot embankment, ramming a concrete culvert and tree. Junceau was killed instantly, according to Dr. William Thompson of Rhinebeck, medical examiner. A passenger in his car, Michael Chandler, 21, of Red Hook, was rushed to Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck suffering from a fractured elbow multiple lacerations of the body and a possible fractured spine. His condition was reported as fair today. The accident was investigated by Trooper Jerry Pine of the Rhinebeck barracks. The car is owned by Formula Two, Inc., of North Road, Poughkeepsie.

The third fatality occurred on Route 100 near the Taconic Parkway in Westchester County when an American compact car, operated by Stephen E. Tilson Jr., 44, of Wheeler Drive, Peekskill, hit a rock on the right hand side of the highway, state police of the Putnam Valley barracks, reported.

The said that the Tilson vehicle flipped over and landed on its top pinning the Peekskill man in it. Then it burst into flames. Dr. Caroline Lydecker, who is conducting a post-mortem, said Tilson apparently died of a crushed skull and burns. Trooper Robert Sherman of the Putnam Valley state police barracks investigated.

In the town of Rosendle in Ulster County an automobile operated by John Napoli, 18, of Rosendale ran into the rear of a school bus, operted by Roy Webber of Stone Ridge, which had halted on Route 213 in Rosendale to discharge pupils. John's brother, Lawrence Napoli, 16, was riding with him. Both boys suffered cuts on the head and were admitted to Benedictine Hospital, where today their conditions are fair.

According to Trooper Robert Mackey of the Kingston Barracks, who investigated, the Napoli boy came over the rise of a hill and apparently was blinded by the sun and failed to see the bus.

In another Ulster County mishap, Hugh Mulligan, 44, of Woodstock hit a culvert on Route 212, in the town of Saugerties. He was arrested by Troopers Richard Ryan and Harry Saunders on a charge of being an unlicensed operator. He was fined $50 by Justice of Peace Glenford Myers of Saugerties. Mulligan was treated by Dr. Kenneth M. Bremer of Woodstock for a lacerated forehead.

JFK for Tariff

with France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Neither, Kennedy said, does he propose "that in setting new policies on imports we do away altogether with our traditional safe guards and institutions." He said tariffs can be used to cushion the effects on competitive U.S. industries instead of solely to shut out competition from abroad.

Moreover, he said, the federal government can help affected companies, workers and communities. He told the industrialists he would have more to say on that subject when he addresses the AFL-CIO in Miami Beach, Fla., Thursday.

Tip Off to Labor

Kennedy tipped off organized labor that he also would stress in his AFL-CIO speech "its responsibility for price stability" to enable the United States to compete on world markets.

The President acknowledged that his new policy would increase imports but said exports would mount even more. "And we need those imports if other nations are to have the money to buy our exports and the incentive to lower their tariff barriers," he said.

Kennedy made clear that he would press for his administration's proposals to stimulate investment in new equipment by giving tax credits and to close tax loopholes which encourage businessmen to send capital abroad.

At the same time, he said his administration has no thought of "imposing exchange controls, devaluing the dollar, raising trade barriers or choking off our economic recovery."

Kennedy set forth his ideas on global economic fitness after encouraging his countrymen to pay more attention to their own physical fitness.

That was his theme in a speech Tuesday night at the annual banquet of the National Football Foundation. Eight famed players and two distinguished coaches of the past were inducted into the Hall of Fame, and Kennedy found himself rising from the obscurity of Harvard's junior varsity—as he recalled his playing days—to honorary membership in the circle of grid greats.

Drops In on Relatives

Kennedy dropped in on a gathering of relatives and friends in a Park Avenue apartment for an hour or so after the football banquet. The hostess was Mrs. John Fell, widow of an industrialist, who visited the Kennedys at Newport, R.I., last summer.

Two of the President's sisters, Eunice Shriver and Pat Lawford, were there with their husbands. Peter Lawford is the film and television actor. Sargent Shriver heads the Peace Corps. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spalding of New York and Christopher Dunphy, a retired businessman who plays golf with Kennedy at Palm Beach.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Wesley Powell said today that he would not name himself to succeed the late Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H.

Powell declined to name anyone he would name to fill the late senator's seat on an interim basis until the 1962 elections.

The governor also told a news conference that he would not run for the Republican nomination for senator in the September primaries.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery by the savings and loan shares and a firm tone among aircraft-missiles highlighted a mixed stock market early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 at 265.70 with industrials down .50, rails up .10 and utilities down .40.

Most key stocks showed gains or losses of fractions to about a point. The badly battered savings and loans rebounded from fractions to about 4 points as traders picked them up at depressed prices.

The aircraft-missiles were bolstered by a news report that the Pentagon is understood to want $51 billion in appropriations for the next fiscal year compared with an estimated $47 billion in defense spending in the current fiscal year. The fighting in Katanga underlined the importance of preparedness.

A moderate recovery by the electrical equipment stocks and an advance by Big Three motors as reports came of higher auto sales were other features. Steels, tobaccos, drugs and chemicals were mostly lower.

Financial Federation gained more than 4 points while San Diego Imperial came back fractionally. Recoveries exceeding 2 were made by United Financial and First Charter Financial. Great Western Financial recouped more than 1.

Douglas Aircraft, up more than 1, showed the best response to the Pentagon news.

Chrysler, up more than 1, was the star among the big automakers. General Motors gained about 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .33 at 730.98.

LIBRARY OF SCHUYLER HOUSE, built in 1859 according to deigns made by Daniel Webster, is one of more than 20 rooms which will be redecorated to accommodate women students at Bard College. The historic site was built in 1859 and its visitors included such notables as George Washington, Lafayette and other top government officials. (Sass photo).

Historic Schuyler

ed into apartments for faculty and staff housing.

Commenting on the gift of this property to the college, President Kline stated:

"We are most grateful to Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hoffman for their splendid gift to Bard College. Schuyler House represents one of the principal additions to plant and capital received by the college in recent years. The historic associations of the property make particularly appropriate its use for the educational purposes of a liberal arts college. Fortunately, the building is almost perfectly suited for residence of women students, because of the charm of its setting and grounds, its fine furnishings and gracious atmosphere, and its unusual number of small rooms which make ideal student 'singles.' Having this new facility means not only that we shall be able to accommodate 35 to 40 additional students next year, but that the students housed in Schuyler House will occupy one of the most beautiful and historic buildings in the Hudson Valley."

GIs Cross Over Autobahn Again Without Hitch

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army reported that an infantry company left Berlin today over the 110-mile autobahn connecting West Berlin with West Germany and cleared Soviet controls without a hitch. It was another in a series of almost daily U.S. troop movements—despite Soviet complaints—over the superhighway through Communist East Germany.

The move through East Germany to the West German border at Helmstedt was completed without incident, Army officials reported.

The unit which travelled the autobahn today had been stationed in Berlin temporarily, replacing a company of the regular garrison which had gone to West Germany for field training.

Forward units of the 1st Battle Group, 19th Infantry, are scheduled to make the eastward trip from the Helmstedt border checkpoint to West Berlin Thursday. The 1,500-man force will replace a battle group which was rushed to Berlin after East Germany started building its wall dividing the city last August.

Rutland Asks ICC For Authority to Abandon RR Line

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — Directors of the Rutland Railway Corp. have petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon the strike-bound line.

Corporation counsel Thomas W. Lynch said today the petition, sent to Washington on Monday, will have no effect on the forthcoming state-sponsored survey of the troubled line.

Gov. Keyser announced Tuesday that a New York consulting firm has been retained to undertake a $10,000 survey of the Rutland. One of the purposes of the study will be to prepare state objections to the proposed abandonment, Keyser said.

Glenn's Orbital Shot Scheduled Early '62

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first U.S. attempt to send a man into orbit was scheduled today for early January.

The postponement until after the Christmas holidays was announced by the space agency which already has assigned astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. for the attempt to orbit a Mercury capsule.

Previously the hope had been to make the manned shot this year, perhaps as early as Dec. 20.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the next Mercury orbital launch definitely will be a manned flight, ruling out any more tests with animals.

Space officials had worked hard to try to get the U.S. orbital shot off during 1961 in order to achieve that goal in the same year as the Soviet Union.

The announcement said that, based upon all available data including a preliminary analysis of the recent orbital flight of the chimpanzee Enos, "it appears no further animal or unmanned flights are needed before attempting the specific Mercury mission—manned orbital flight."

The agency added:

"Analysis of the Mercury-Atlas chimpanzee flight performance and postflight physical condition of Enos, together with detailed study of the spacecraft, booster and tracking network operation, confirms that the Mercury-Atlas system is ready for manned orbital flight.

"Final preparations for MA6—Mercury-Atlas Shot No. 6—are progressing satisfactory for a launch attempt early next year.

"As announced earlier, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. will be the pilot for the first manned Mercury orbital flight attempt with astronaut M. Scott Carpenter acting as his backup pilot."

Glenn is a Marine Corps captain.

Blowby Devices Due on '63 Cars To Cut Pollution

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry agreed today to equip all new cars and trucks with anti-air pollution devices starting with the 1963 model year.

The action came less than four months after Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, told the industry to come up with a voluntary solution or face congressional action.

The board of directors of the Automobile Manufacturers Association today recommended positive crankcase ventilation systems, often called blowby devices.

Such devices have been installed on all new cars offered for sale in California since the start of the 1961 model year.

Blowby fumes are gases that slip by the pistons during the combustion process. Normally they are drawn into the air by the movement of the car.

The positive ventilation system recirculates these vapors from the crankcase back into the engine.

The system used is manufactured by the AC Spark Plug Division of General Motors. It is the only one so far certified by the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board.

Such a device normally adds from $4.50 to $6.50 to the price of a car.

The AMA board said tests by the U.S. Public Service had shown blowby devices on new cars and trucks nationally would be beneficial in reducing community air polution.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Takes Friends Advice, Then Takes a Beating

Q) "I bought Bevis Shell Homes, Jamesbury, Birtcher Corp,. Capehart Corp., National Telepix, Houston Fearless, and Shield Chemical Ltd., all on friends' advice. What should I do to get out of this bad situation where my losses now total 40 per cent? Should I "even out" by purchasing more of these stocks at low prices or should I sell them all and take a beating? If I sell, what should I buy with what's left?" T. P.

A) Our friends always mean well but they're very rarely the best source of investment advice. I'm extremely sorry that you've taken such a beating. Your experience has been pretty costly but perhaps not too much so if you've learned the danger of haphazard buying, particularly in low-priced stocks. I do not advise you to "even out"—or average down—the cost of your holdings. Not all of them are bad, but I believe that any new money you have should be placed in securities of higher quality.

I would certainly retain Jamesbury, which in my opinion is your best holding and one that should continue to show recovery. Of the balance, the two that seem to me to have the greatest speculative appeal are Birtcher and Houston Fearless, and I would hold them. I suggest that you sell the rest and put the proceeds into Fairmont Foods and Colgate-Palmolive. Over a period of time these stocks might very well make up your losses.

Q) "What do prominent newscasters mean when they report that 'stocks rose 2½ points'?" W. B.

A) They mean that the market—as measured by the widely followed Dow-Jones Industrial Average—rose 2½ points. While a 2½-point jump in most individual stocks would be meaningful, it is much less so with the Dow which is now well over 700—where a 2½-point gain represents an advance of less than one-half of 1 per cent.

Democrats Are

Kingston, and expressed confidence in my dedication to the responsibilities that come with the office of mayor.

Hopes They'll Remember

"I hope that the Democratic majority in the Common Council shall accept the will of the people for the four short weeks remaining until I take office, and permit me the courtesy of assuming my post without imposing heavy new financial burdens on the city in the last minutes of their legislative responsibility.

"I assure all the members of the present Common Council that my desire to achieve the best possible municipal services for all segments of our population at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayers, has been strengthend by intensive planning since election day.

"I ask only that I, like any other mayor-elect in the history of Kingston, be permitted to prepare for the start of my administration without the imposition of additional financial committments between election day and the new year.

Salute to Perry

"My best wishes to you Sam in your retirement from public office after 12 years of outstanding public service as alderman. Your judgement and voice as minority leader in the next Common Council will be sorely missed."

Republican alderman emphasized last month that the Schwenk plan would not require removal of properties from the assessment roll. Details of the uptown parking plan have not been revealed by the special committee, but its understood that North Front Street buildings would be razed to provide access and egress to the proposed parking area on the North side of the street at points between Fair and Converse Streets.

Democratic aldermen last month asked for a report on the Schwenk plan, but the mayor-elect held it would be presumptuous of him to reveal it until he takes office.

Finds Public Opposition

Alderman Davis said he had conducted a survey on the parking proposal and found most persons with whom he talked opposed to it.

Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, chairman of the special committee on the fallout shelter proposal indicated last month that the committee would ask for money at last night's meeting. He indicated last night, however, that because of the lack of detailed estimates, the committee was required to postpone its plans.

Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th Ward, majority leader, in announcing the recessed meeting, said it would be for consideration of unsettled claims as requested by Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly. He indicated later, however, that the aldermen would probably act also on off-street parking.

Tshombe Returning

In Paris, Katanga President Moise Tshombe said Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba had informed him U.N. troops had attacked Katanga forces in Manono, 275 miles north of Elisabethville, and the fighting in Katanga apparently had become general. Tshombe said he would leave for Katanga today.

More than 40 dead were reported from the fighting so far, but there was no possibility of an accurate count.

Heavy fighting was reported around the old airport just northwest of the city, where U.N. troops apparently were trying to clear out dug-in Katangan paratroopers. Correspondents David Halberstam of the New York Times and Virgil Berger of Reuters were holed up in a villa near there, cut off since Tuesday afternoon.

Fighting Nearer Capital

Late reports indicated that the center of fighting was moving nearer to Elisabethville.

Sporadic rifle and mortar fire had continued through the night, breaking an uneasy silence which fell on Elisabethville early in the evening after the new outbreak of hostilities.

The International Red Cross representative charged that U.N. troops were firing on Red Cross ambulances. A local Red Cross official, Andre Roey, reported a mortar shell hit a truck evacuating women and children from a police camp and that two children were killed and 14 women injured.

The Katanga Red Cross appealed for a short armistice to evacuate the dead and wounded, but there was no immediate response from the U.N. command.

Five hundred Swedish reinforcements reportedly arrived in Elisabethville Tuesday night, bringing the total Swedish contingent in the area to two battalions. The United Nations has about 6,000 troops in all of Katanga. The Katanga government's total force of police and soldiers number about 12,000.

A letter from City Judge Aaron E. Klein announcing the appointment of Mrs. James F. Kelly, of 412 Albany Avenue, as city court clerk, was read and filed. She has held the post provisionally for more than two years.

Letters from Mayor Radel announced reappointment of George E. Yerry Jr., of 133 Highland Avenue to the Kingston Housing Authority and of appointment of Ernest L. Smith, 50 Westbrook Place, as weights and measures inspector.

Alderman Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward, was more than a little bit late for last night's meeting, but when he arrived he was congratulated by the councilmen and others as the father of a newly arrived daughter who was born at Kingston Hospital shortly before 7 p. m.

Wagner Program

Sen. Lawrence M. Rulison of Syracuse said he was amazed that Democrats held a public hearing in Rochester Tuesday on proposed legislation.

Rulison said the Democratic party never before had exhibited interest in Upstate problems.

He said Democrats "committed to Mayor Wagner's soak-the-upstaters fiscal program...which would siphon off (Upstaters') hardearned tax dollars to pay the bill for the wasteful and prodigal Wagner administration."

Africa Is Topic At Monday Club

"Our Stake in Africa" was the program presented by Miss Jane Ziegler to the members of the Saugerties Monday Club when they met this week at the home of Mrs. Henry Hartley, Finger Street. Mrs. Milton Armstrong, president, presided at the business meeting when the Christmas observances for the club were discussed.

Miss Ziegler's informative talk was given, in part, as follows: "Africa which used to be known as the dark continent has now seen the light and is dazzled by it—dazzled by being the focus of world attention—by the prospect of freedom, and its ability to oppose those who considered themselves superior.

"We have much at stake in Africa — our prestige in the United Nations — our need for trade agreements — our use of many of her products and the growing investments by American business interests.

"Besides the great need for education and hygiene in Africa it is necessary for Africa to give up her devotion to tribalism and her faith in black magic, to which many intelligent leaders still subscribe. Our government is giving financial aid in many ways and individual doctors, teachers and missionaries at personal sacrifice are striving to lead the African to a better and richer life. The Peace Corps should convince Africa of our sincerity."

The club will meet with Mrs. Joseph Rainear, Finger Street, Dec. 11.

Fiteen cartons weighing 770 pounds of used clothing contributed by the members of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor, were shipped to Lutheran World Relief for distribution in 17 countries of critical need. The church through Lutheran World Relief and Lutheran World Service is carrying on programs of milk and food distribution, job training, medical and hospital programs in Korea, Hong Kong, Chile and the Holy Land.

Children of the Sunday school for the last nine weeks have been bringing useful articles for children in other lands. Sixty-one kits were completed and shipped to Lutheran World Relief. It is expected that an additional ten will also be sent.

Plan Yule Party

The Lutheran Women of Atonement will hold their December meeting, Thursday, Dec. 14th at 8:00 p. m. Business meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Hubert Legg, Finger Street, president of the organization.

The program How to Make Christmas Music, a skit, will be presented by members of the group directed by Mrs. George Hano, of Second Street. All women of the parish may attend. Those attending are to bring a gift for exchange.

Carols of many nations will be sung by the group. Refreshments will be served by a committee composed of Mrs. Lyman Wynkoop of Elm Street, Mrs. Paul Tracey of Main Street, Mrs. Merlin Snyder of Robinson Street and Mrs. Roy Weber of Mt. Marion Park.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held.

The group is the only women's organization of the congregation and was formed by a merger of Mission Guild (ULCW), Ladies Aid and the Amicitia. The group has a program of study of topics that are church related, as well as missionary subjects, are responsible for programs of social welfare, visiting shut-ins, making of bed pads and bed jackets for institutions, and supplying material aids to groups. The group also assists in the conduct of dinners such as mother-daughter, father-son, annual meeting and stewardship.

A quarterly thank-offering is received which goes to the greater work of the church for home, foreign and social welfare missions of the church, as well as a percentage of regular offerings. A portion of the regular offerings go for the expenses of the organization and for projects of the congregation.

27 Machines Are Stolen, Used on Auto Licenses

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A state spokesman said today the theft of 27 validating machines in Babylon, L.I., Tuesday night could mean wholesale issuance of false registrations for motor vehicles.

The machines, which are about 8 inches high, bear a stamp about 1½ inches wide that prints the official state seal and a special code to validate registrations.

A safe containing the machines was broken into at the Suffolk County clerk's office in Babylon.

A spokesman for the State Motor Vehicle Department said the thief or thieves "could really grind out" false registrations for license plates. Registration blanks are readily available in the department's offices.

The spokesman warned that use of such plates would mean a year's loss of license for any driver caught.

The department sent investigators to help local police in a probe of the theft.

North St. Firm Receiving Some Of 25 New Scows

The Colonial Sand and Stone Co., which opened its new $2 million lightweight aggregate sintering plant on North Street Nov. 7, has begun to receive deliveries on a $1.5 million order for 25 additional deck scows.

The fleet of scows will increase the company's capacity to meet next year's anticipated demands.

Robert C. Green, general manager of the company, said assignment of the new scows will be made at the dispatching office in New York City. He stated that undoubtedly some will be assigned to the local area. He added the scows will be sent wherever needed to the local plant or Long Island, Connecticut or New Jersey.

Early in November, Anthony Pope, president of the company, announced the North Street facility for production of lightweight aggregate will have an initial annual capacity of 400,000 tons when it is in full operation.

The local plant consists of several structures including the main building which is 35 feet in height and 165 feet in length and three conveyors which move the finished material and drop it on a concrete tunnel where it is recovered and loaded on scows.

The North Street plant began operations last month.

Segregationist Says Leaflets Are A Cruel Joke

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The head of a segregationist organization considers a cruel joke leaflets urging Savannah Negroes to benefits of the state's welfare program.

W. E. Cowart, president of the Chatham Citizens Council, said Tuesday "those who might react to this are innocents who might borrow money and put themselves in debt to go to a place like New York only to find the false dream exploded."

He said the leaflets were being distributed through several small grocery stores in the Savannah Negro community. Cowart said that he had some of the leaflets in his possession but that his organization was not responsible for publishing or distributing them.

The leaflets promise migrants "a nice apartment with private bathroom," hospital and medical care, food, clothing, a housekeeper and home nursing service.

In Binghamton, N.Y., Broome County supervisor Donald J. Stickles demanded a state investigation of the leaflet. He distributed facsimile copies of the leaflet at a board meeting Monday night and said he had received a copy from a friend in Savannah.

Pomeroy Delays New Wilderness Hearings in N.Y.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —The sponsor of the controversial wilderness-area plan has postponed indefinitely further hearings on the measure in order to clarify legal interpretations of existing and proposed legislation.

Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy, R-Dutchess, had been scheduled to hold hearings on the proposed bill in Buffalo on Friday and in Rochester on Saturday.

The plan would restrict the use of motorized equipment areas of the Adirondacks and Catskills.

Cuba to Take Property

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government will confiscate all property from persons leaving the island who do not return within an authorized time limit, Havana radio reported today.

The time limit was not announced. However, in a recent speech Prime Minister Fidel Castro mentioned a one-month leave for the United States, two months for Latin America and three months for Europe.

Scotsmoor Ending Business

Fulton Glove Plant Will Close Doors December 30

JOHNSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Scotsmoor Co. Inc. will go out of business Dec. 30—the sixth Fulton County manufacturer of knit wool gloves and mittens to do so in recent years in the face of foreign competition.

O'BRIEN'S FUTURE? — Maire MacEntee, 38, is expected to marry Dr. Conor Cruise O'Brien, who resigned last week from his United Nations diplomatic post, because of differences over policies in the Congo. Dr. O'Brien, who will be divorced from his wife, Christine, said he plans to marry Miss MacEntee, a barrister and poetess, "as soon as possible." (NEA Telephoto)

Scotsmoor, founded under another name 51 years ago, had employed 300 but now has only a skeleton force for the process of closing.

Allison C. Mills, president and owner, said in an announcement today that his health made it impossible for him to continue the business. He said attempts to attract buyers had been unsuccessful.

Mills did not mention foreign competition. Japanese imports have cut severely into the knit wool glove market here, however.

Only two such manufacturers remain in Fulton County—Leon F. Swears Inc. of Johnstown and Knit-True Handwear Corp. of Gloversville. The county (population 51,300) continues to be a heavy producer of leather and fabric gloves but has been economically depressed for years.

Scotsmoor originally was Adirondack Mills, founded in 1910 by Bert and Irving Wessell. The next year the Wessell Brothers were joined by Martin and Everett Kennedy, and the name was changed to Wessell Manufacturing Co. after a booming business in government contracts during World War I, the Wessels sold to the Kennedy brothers. In 1923, the name was changed to Scotsmoor.

Mills then joined the Kennedys as a junior partner. The Kennedys died in the 1940s, and Mills took over.

U Thant May Go to Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A new Security Council session on the latest Katanga crisis was forecast today as U. N. Secretary-General U Thant prepared a report to the 11-nation body on the outbreak of fighting between U.N. and Katangan troops in the secessionist Congo province.

Faced with the gravest crisis since he took office a month ago, U Thant moved swiftly to place the United Nations on a virtual war footing in Katanga and hinted he might make a personal mission to the Congo.

Delegates felt that U Thant's promise to give the council a full report on the latest Katanga events indicated he will be quicker to seek guidance from the United Nations' top security body than his predecessor, the late Dag Hammarskjold.

They also expressed belief that the new U.N. chief's quick dispatch of jet planes and troop reinforcements into Katanga showed he intends to take a tough stand and use all means at his disposal to quell disorder in the Congo.

U Thant ordered up reinforcements as word reached here that the U.S. Embassy in Leopoldville had placed U.S. Globemaster planes at the U.N. command's disposal to ferry troops into the Katanga capital of Elisabethville.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said U Thant had the full support of the United States in dealing with the Katanga crisis.

Winds Sweep Area

Poughkeepsie's business district and surrounding areas in Dutchess County were swept Tuesday by gale force winds with gusts up to 42 miles an hour. Christmas decorations and advertising signs were blown down, trees were felled and television antennas were ripped off roofs.

Early Industry

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—A flint ridge that begins in east-central Ohio and extends east about eight miles probably was one of the sites of America's first industry—the quarrying and working of flint. Archaeologists have found numerous "workshops" along the ridge where ancient tribal work parties split and chipped the quarried flint.

McCann to Succeed To Seaway Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says that Martin W. Oettershagen of Buffalo, N.Y., is expcted to submit his resignation sometime this month as administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp.

Oettershagen was named administrator after the death of Lewis G. Castle.

The White House said Tuesday night that Joseph H. McCann would be appointed administrator to succeed Oettershagen. McCann now is deputy administrator of the corporation, which administers the U. S. portion of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The White House informed Sens. Pat McNamara and Phillip A. Hart, Michigan Democrats, of the expected recess appointment of McCann.

Mother Awarded $25,812 in Son's Tear Gas Death

ALBANY, S.Y. (AP) — The mother of Marvin Titcomb has been awarded $25,812 by the State Court of Claims for the "conscious suffering" of her son who died after state police had tossed a tear-gas cannister into his bedroom in October 1959.

Titcomb, 29, of suburban Latham, had barricaded himself in the room, evidently to avoid questioning about broken windows on several automobiles owned by workers building the Northway near his home.

State Police said that when Titcomb refused to leave the room, they threw the canister. Titcomb died in a hospital 15 hours later.

Judge Alexander DelGiorno blamed the state for the troopers' action.

"The state had the duty of giving its troopers proper instruction in the use of tear gas, to enable them to use the same properly and safely in a reasonably foreseeable situation," he said.

"This the state failed to do," DelGiorno wrote in his decision Tuesday.

Mrs. Etta Titcomb, the mother, said her son had been despondent over the loss of his newspaper delivery route and the family home, which the state removed to make way for the superhighway.

State Police said they used tear gas only "to get Titcomb to come out without harm."

The mother had sought $155,500.

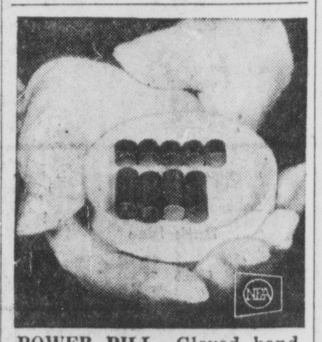
BOURNEMOUTH England (AP) —Sydney Alexander Moseley, 73, who wrote more than 30 books and broadcast a weekly radio news commentary in the United States during World War II, died Tuesday in a nursing home.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Maharajah Yeshwantrao Holkar of Indore, 55, died Tuesday of cancer. One of India's most colorful princes, he ruled Indore from 1926 to 1948, when Indian princes were pensioned following India's independence.

BOSTON (AP)—Judge Emil E. Fuchs, 83, of Brookline, Mass., former owner of the Boston Braves baseball team, died in a hospital Tuesday after a long illness. A New York City magistrate during World War I, Fuchs bought Boston's National League team in 1923 with Christy Mathewson and a New York banker, James MacDonough.

CHICAGO (AP) —Dr. Johnson F. Hammond, 78, editor emeritus of the Journal of the American Medical Association, died of a heart ailment at his home Tuesday. He was born near Coshocton, Ohio.



POWER PILL—Gloved hand above holds power equal to tons of coal. The objects are uranium dioxide fuel pellets used in nuclear reactors. The large ones, 1¼ inches long, have an energy equivalent of nearly a ton of coal. They have twice the strength of the small pellets, which were first produced in 1958. Made by GE, about half a million of the new-size pellets supply the fuel for a large reactor.

Mugging Possible In Man's Death

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP)—The body of a 52-year-old man was found by police today in an alley behind a tavern here.

The man was identified as Nicholas Stracick. He had no known address.

The body had facial and head injuries, which police said may have been suffered in a fall. They also theorized, however, that Stracick might have been slain during a mugging, since his coat was pulled back over his shoulders, pinning his arms to his sides in a manner commonly used by muggers.

An autopsy was scheduled later today.

Stracick had been a grocery owner in Angola several years ago, police said.

Devious Are the Ways Young Seek Assurance

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Soon after the Soviet Union resumed nuclear bomb testing, 17-year-old Peter got into an argument with his father over the worth of the United Nations.

It was, Peter asserted belligerently, a washout. All it could do was talk, talk, talk. It couldn't even pass a resolution condemning Russia's resumption of nuclear testing. Yet Americans went right on wasting their money on it. What was the matter with us that we can't see we have to solve our own problems instead of trying to drop them into the lap of the United Nations? He went on in this vein of attack on the world organization until his father was provoked into itemizing its peace-saving successes. Ending its list of achievements, he said:

"If the UN hasn't been able to give us total peace, young man it's certainly given us some mighty important chunks of it. It's struggling toward its ideal—and that's the best you can ask of any human institution."

Three days later Peter's father was astounded to hear him express this opinion as his own. Passing the den where his son was engaged in earnest telephone conversation, he heard him say, "You're wrong, Bud. If the U.N. hasn't been able to give us total peace, it's certainly given us important chunks of it. Why at the time of Suez alone. . . ."

Recounting this experience to me, he said, "What's the matter with the kid? Is he insecure or something? Why doesn't he know his own mind?"

Our adolescent offspring often seek reassurance from us by provoking us into arguments with them.

If Lois is unsure that her new sweater is becoming she will attack it as unbecoming until we are provoked into saying, "It's because you've never worn that pale yellow before that you can't see how clear it makes your skin look."

If Ted isn't sure he should send flowers to a new date, he will rant at the male obligation to provide party corsages until we assure him his date will appreciate one.

If Joyce is worried about using our lace tablecloth for a get-together with her high school Drama Club, she'll abuse it as "old-fashioned" until we are driven to show her a picture of a lace-covered buffet table in a magazine.

If our adolescent young are worried about anything from the United Nations to sex behavior, they will involve us in arguments upon these subjects in order to acquire reassuring information on them.

Pride will not permit our reassurance directly and openly. To understand this makes it easier to tolerate the belligerance of their information-seeking arguments.

Six of Family Killed in Crash Buried Tuesday

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Six members of the Kelso family, killed in an automobile collision Saturday, were buried Tuesday in the Old De Kalb Cemetery.

Three coffins were used for the burial in the cemetery 17 miles south of this Northern New York community.

The six were injured fatally when their automobile and a farm truck collided near Redwood, Jefferson County. Three Kelso children remain in hospitals.

Allan L. Kelso, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelso, was reported in critical condition at a Watertown hospital. His sister, Barbara, 5, and George Kelso's sister, Elizabeth, 11, were reported in fair condition in an Alexandria Bay hospital.

George Kelso, the nephew, was the son of Joseph Kelso of Gloversville.

Independent Test Of Bankrupt RR Made by State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today his administration was sponsoring an independent study of the operating costs of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

The road has been in bankruptcy since last July and is being reorganized under trustees appointed by a federal district court. The trustees also have been studying the railroad's operations.

Rockefeller said his Office of Transportation was conducting the study for the Interstate Staff Committee on the New Haven, a joint effort of New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York City and Westchester County.

Rockefeller said information on the New Haven's operating costs was essential "to provide the basis for informed judgments regarding this transportation artery which is so important to the economy of New York and southern New England."

It is to be completed by March 31.

Dr. Ford K. Edwards of Washington, D.C., is directing the study.

The work is to be performed by the New York State Office of Transportation and the New York State Public Service Commission.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania's first balanced budget in more than a decade will be recorded in 1963, says Gov. Lawrence.

Thinks Democrats Can Agree on New Districts

HARRISBURG (AP)—Congressman Elmer J. Holland said he thought Pennsylvania Democratic leaders could agree today on a plan for reapportioning the state's congressional districts.

"I would say the prospect for a settlement agreeable to all concerned is reasonable," the congressman said.

"Nobody—Democrat or Republican—wants an at large election next year," he said. "Therefore, we have to act fast."

His sentiment was shared by veteran Congressman Daniel J. Flood, also in town for the meeting.

"An at large election is out of the question," he said. "It would be a terrible thing for both (political parties. I don't want to be an at large congressman. I'm perfectly happy representing the 11th District."

Unless Pennsylvania's legislature redistricts by next Feb. 20, all congressmen would have to run at large. The state stands to lose three of its 30 seats because of population changes reflected in the 1960 national census.

Still Polluted by Sewage

Little Hope for Cleanup Of Hudson, Mohawk Rivers

(Editors: Water pollution is a long-standing problem that affects most areas of the state and currently is the subject of a major state study. Legislation is probable soon. The following three-part series examines the issue, its history and its likely future. It's another in a series of Associated Press backgrounders on state government.)

By MICHAEL KEATING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Hudson and Mohawk Rivers still serve as open sewers for many communities in New York State, despite a 12-year program against water pollution and constant shouts of alarm over the years.

Those in charge of the program see little hope for any cleanup in the near future under present attitudes, laws and financing.

But new laws and new financing may be in the offing, and the result of such changes might be new attitudes. You might be able to swim safely in the Hudson or Mohawk in your lifetime.

According to those involved in the water pollution situation, three factors have been chiefly responsible for the slow progress in cleaning up the state's waters:

Lack of funds for the State Water Pollution Control Board; tediously lengthy legal processes, and disinterest or unwillingness of local communities to spend money on sewage-treatment plants.

Under the existing system, the cost of building sewage-treatment plants is borne solely by municipalities, with some help from the federal government. The last session of Congress increased the amount of federal aid available. The state helps only with planning costs.

Gov. Rockefeller's Office for Local Government, which conducted a survey in many areas this year, is completing a series of recommendations that Rockefeller probably will present the 1962 Legislature.

May Get State Aid

The recommendations likely will include some form of state aid for communities to build treatment plants. Such a plan would have influential support in the Legislature and bring cheers from many municipal officials.

The Local Government Office estimates that New York State now needs $2 billion worth of sewage collection and sewage treatment systems.

Most communities, particularly those along the Hudson and the Mohawk, are unwilling to place on their taxpayers such a cost.

Cast Eye at State

The communities, many of them among the most historic in the state, do not consider the matter pressing enough to merit such action. Their attitudes can be summed up thusly—if the state wants clean rivers, let the state pay for it.

A. F. Dappert, executive secretary of the Water Pollution Control Board and the man who has been putting the pressure on these communities for years, has given up hope of any quick progress unless other changes are made. He says:

"If the state wants to accelerate this program, especially in dealing with the problems of old municipalities, then we've got to have some new machinery."

Minuteman Project Reaches the Digging-in Stage—

MINUTEMAN CAN—Huge lower launching tube liners, or "cans," are dressed up with two layers of steel reinforcing rods at American Bridge in Milwaukee before shipment to Minuteman missile sites around Malstrom AFB near Great Falls, Mont. Scores of the solid-fueled, nuclear bomb carrying intercontinental ballistic missiles will be stored underground to give the U.S. its first "hard" rocket striking force.

SILO SENTINEL—Workmen gently ease the lower launching tube of a Minutemen missile into place in a huge hole in the rock beneath Montana farmland. Measuring more than 50 feet in length and 12 feet across, the tube weighs as much as seven large automobiles. Above this will be placed a doughnut-shaped equipment room and upper launching tube. The site will then be covered over. Over 100 such launchers are being installed in northern Montana.

Much Precaution Needed for JFK S. America Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's journey to Latin America undoubtedly will call forth special precautions for his safety.

His first stop on Dec. 16 will be Caracas, Venezuela. That was the site 2½ years ago of riots in which then Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon were stoned and spat upon in one of the most hostile demonstrations ever made against an American official of such high stature.

This will be in the mind of the U.S. Secret Service, whose duty it is to protect the President. This fact is underscored by the stoning Monday night of cars bringing six U.S. senators into Caracas from the airport. Stones flew when the cavalcade stalled in traffic before a high school and students cut loose. There have been a number of student demonstrations over the past few weeks, following Venezuela's cutting off diplomatic ties with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The visiting senators passed off the attack on them as something from a few trouble makers. U.S. Embassy officials said they were confident that Venezuela would tighten the protection for President Kennedy.

U.S. security officers were hesitant to say whether extra steps would be taken to safeguard Kennedy during his 24-hour stay in the Venezuelan capital. An advance force of Secret Service agents will cover the ground there. Until they report back, officials here cannot determine just what precautions will be taken for the Kennedys.

Science at Work In World Today

The push to orbit a U.S. astronaut before the end of the year, some curious facts about space-going chimpanzees, and saving calories in weightlessness are subjects for science at work:

Next!

U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., at 40 the oldest of the seven American space candidates, may be the first to orbit the earth.

He is now lodged in the astronaut ready room at Cape Canaveral, Fla., waiting for his chance which may come before New Year's Day.

Glenn's quarters in Hangar S on the sprawling missile base are only a few steps away from the area where space-going chimpanzees Enos and Ham were prepared for their space flights. Newer, more complete astronaut quarters are being planned for the cape.

Enos and Brethren

Chimpanzees, like Enos and Ham, are mightier than men in many ways.

The men who handle the space chimpanzees say that these apes are 4½ times as strong as men of similar weight. Chimpanzees have been found which stand up to 5½ feet tall, and have an arm spread of 6 feet.

Although the average life span of chimpanzees is usually in the thirties, some have been known to live 45 years. Most of the space chimpanzees are young—5 to 6 years old, and small—about 40 pounds.

Space Diet

An astronaut—gliding in weightlessness through space—will probably need no more than some 2,400 calories a day in meals, a scientist suggests.

At work, the space pilot's efforts that on earth would cost some 216 calories per hour working against gravity, would cost only 144 calories an hour in weightlessness.

Under normal gravity on earth, a space pilot resting, but awake, would use 94 calories an hour, but would use only 85 calories an hour resting and awake without gravity to contend with.

Sleeping, on earth or in space, the cost in calories is about the same—some 65 calories an hour, said Dr. Carsbie C. Adams, president of the National Research and Development Corp.

Seamanship, ordnance, gunnery, damage control and military customs and courtesies are stressed during the course.

Processing on the Hoof

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Tenderizing steaks while still on the hoof is being tested at the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station. Agricultural scientists are injecting a protein-splitting enzyme called papain into cattle shortly before they go to slaughter. The experiment station says initial tests have been satisfactory—the meat is more tender. Papain is the ingredient found in most commercial tenderizers sold to housewives.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The millions of people who watch television are not, in a real sense, an audience, in the opinion of actor George C. Scott.

A serious actor who performs in perhaps four or five television plays a year, Scott believes that the relationship between a live audience and the performers on the stage is a vital ingredient to good theater.

"And you can never conquer that problem," predicted Scott. "But that does not mean that television acting is not important for an actor. It is very exciting, hectic and pressured, and often these elements combine to build up superb performances."

Scott says that TV has been the meat and potatoes of actors since the death of stock, but he observed that most young performers move into television from the stage — rarely the other way around.

"Motion pictures seem to breed and nurture their own, and few young people go to Hollywood to start out these days," Scott reflected. "It's impossible now to come to New York and break directly into television, as you could 9 or 10 years ago. I suspect that most of the young talent is coming up off-Broadway."

Scott himself is concerned about the hit-or-flop condition of the Broadway theater — particularly the number of musical shows and the high price of tickets.

"Broadway today is a transient theater and people go to see musicals because of expense accounts. I think the only salvation of the theater—the last temple of free thought and emotion—will be municipally sponsored shows, produced out of New York."

Sailor Wounded As Two Scuffle With Policeman

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — One sailor was hospitalized after he and another sailor were involved in a fracas with a policeman.

Joseph V. Smith, 19, of Sheerman, Ill., was wounded, the Navy said, when he and John C. Miller, 20, of Waterloo, N. Y., scuffled with a New Bedford policeman Monday night.

The policeman was attempting to take Miller into custody after he had reportedly broken a window.

Both sailors were from the oiler Salamonie.

Smith allegedly jumped the patrolman and both sailors were trying to get the policeman's gun, and it went off four times, the Navy said.

Smith was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday night at the naval hospital here.

matter of fact

The word "bastille" has become synonymous with prison. But it wasn't until the beginning of the 17th century that it acquired this connotation. Originally the word was applied to any fortified building, forming a part of a system of defense. When, during the reign of Louis XIII, a part of the fortifications of Paris was used as a place of confinement, the bastille acquired its infamous meaning.

First Scheduled Sunday

Woodstock Festival Slates Four Winter Season Concerts

The Woodstock Festival Committee has announced a series of four concerts to be presented during the winter season, 1961-62. The concerts will take place on Sunday afternoons at 3 p. m. at the Kleinert Recital Hall, Woodstock, on the following dates: December 10, January 14, March 11 and April 22.

Efforts have been made to obtain artists unfamiliar to Woodstock audiences and to present great variety in programming and in choice of instrumental combinations. It is expected that these things, in addition to the intrinsic merit of the artists and the music they play, will greatly stimulate interest in the Winter Festival Series.

The first concert on December 10th will present The Four Seasons Consort, a group specializing in the performance of Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque music.

Piano Soloist

February 14th will bring to Woodstock the Dorian Wind Quintet, a group of young players whose New York concert early this fall was a conspicuous success.

The third concert, March 11th, will be a solo piano recital by Paul Jacobs, official pianist for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Mr. Jacobs' enthusiastically received recital at Town Hall, N. Y., last week give promise of ensuring an exciting event for us here in March.

The final regular concert is scheduled for April 22nd. It has not yet been determined what this concert will be, but details will be announced at a later date.

Subscriptions are available for all four concerts and individual tickets for each concert can be purchased at the Kleinert Hall on the afternoons of the concert.

Demonstration Unit Sets Dec. 12 Meeting

The next meeting of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 12, in the Overlook Methodist Church hall at 1:30 p. m.

The program will include a Christmas party during which Emily Harrington will play the piano; Jean Mirick, the flute; and Christine Berry will lead the singing of carols.

The ceramic Christmas tree will also be awarded at that time. The tree was donated by Daisy Montgomery.

Hostesses for the day are: Therese Duane, Mary Busch, Therese Kessel, Kate Musof and Marjorie Russell. In order to make this a gala affair, any members who would like to contribute are asked to bring cookies, date-nut bread, fruit cook or other holiday goodies.

Churchwomen Plan December 13 Meeting

The Episcopal Churchwomen of St. Gregory's will hold their monthly meeting at the church, Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 1:30 p. m. All women parishioners are invited to attend and participate in the activities that the new parish house and the Christmas season inspire.

Hold Baptism

On Sunday, Dec. 3, the Rev. Lloyd H. Uyeki, vicar of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, administered the Sacrament of Holy Baptism to William Lloyd VanDeBogart, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon VanDeBogart of Bearsville. The baby's sponsors were his father and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Uyeki.

Planning Board Second Report Next Tuesday

The Woodstock Planning Board will make its second report to the public on Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 8 p. m. in the town hall.

At this meeting Dr. Harry A. Anthony, professional planner, will present a diagnosis of present trends and future needs. As before, the subject matter will be illustrated with colored slides, charts and maps. For the first time some general suggestions will be made on the nature of a Growth Plan for Woodstock. This will include various recommendations on by-pass roads, parking areas, open spaces, and land use. The presentation will be followed by a discussion period, in order that the Planning Board may have the benefit of opinions from residents of the township.

The first meetin,, held in October, drew a capacity crowd and it is expected that an equal, if not larger, crowd will be present this time.

Lutheran Church Adopts Budget

At a special meeting Monday night, the congregation of Christ Lutheran Church adopted a budget of $9,665 for 1962. This is a $1200 increase over the 1961 budget and reflects the continual efforts of the congregation to provide a more perfect ministry to its members and the community.

The color film entitled "The Right Instruction of Youth" will be shown at the church this Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. The film deals with Lutheran Higher Education and is of interest to both parents and young people contemplating college in the future. All are invited.

This Saturday, the children of the Church School will meet at the church at 9:30 a. m. in the first of a series of rehearsals for the forthcoming Christmas pageant.

Reformed Church News and Notes

The schedule of events at the Woodstock Reformed Church has been announced as follows by the Rev. Wayne C. Olson:

Saturday, Dec. 9—Junior choir rehearsal, 10:30 a. m.

Sunday, Dec. 10 — Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Morning worship is scheduled at 11 a. m. A nursery is provided for care of young children. The sermon title is "Jesus Christ—Son of God, Son of Man." Senior Christian Endeavor at 7:30 p. m.

Monday, Dec. 11 — Sunday School Teachers meeting at 8 p. m. Final plans for the Christmas program will be announced.

The annual congregational meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p. m. Items on the agenda include election of consistorymen, hearing of annual reports from every organization and approval of the 1961 budget. Every member of the church is urged to attend.

Railroad Train Used for Escape To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)— A daring railroad engineer and 24 friends and relatives hijacked an East German train Tuesday night and roared at 50 miles an hour past startled border guards to safety in West Berlin.

"We knew we would make it," said Harry Deterling, 28, the engineer. He said food shortages and political pressure had made life unbearable in East Germany.

Seven passengers not in on the plot—including the angry conductor—chose to return to the Communist sector. An East German switching locomotive pulled the steam locomotive and eight cars of the escape train back over the little-used section of track to East Germany.

The well-planned escape—hastened by reports the Communists were planning to block the section of track Dec. 10—came off without a hitch.

Border police, taken by surprise, didn't fire a shot.

Deterling said he began planning the escape last Thursday with Hartmut Lichy, his fireman, members of his family and friends. The escapees included the engineer's mother, wife and four children.

Deterling arranged to make an "acquaintance run" on the Oranienburg-Albrechtshof line.

"Everybody was told to be at Oranienburg station for the departure of the regular late evening train to Albrechtsof. We were 21 in all. That included an 8-day-old baby born only a day before we planned the escape."

The other four got on at Falkensee, the next to last stop. Albrechtshof, the last stop on the line, is about a quarter of a mile short of the border.

Deterling said a transport policeman aboard and the conductor went wild when they realized the train wasn't stopping at Albrechtshof.

"But what could they do but shout?" Deterling related smilingly. "We had disconnected the emergency braking system. They couldn't stop the train."

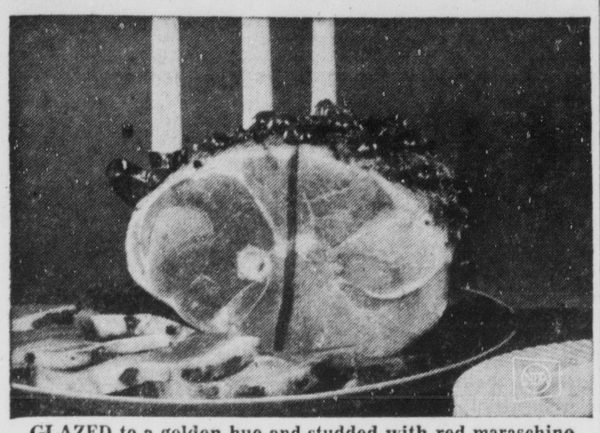
Glazed Ham for a Festive Christmas



GLAZED to a golden hue and studded with red maraschino cherries, baked ham guarantees a festive Christmas dinner.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Ham for Christmas dinner—wonderful idea. Particularly when you select one of those fully cooked hams that requires very little kitchen work. Be sure to get it large enough for snacks and left-overs. Allow at least 1/3 pound per serving of a fully cooked bone-in ham.

Regardless of the type of ham, follow tag or label directions. If there are no directions, cook as directed here.

Place ham, fat side up, in a shallow roasting pan. Insert a roast meat thermometer into the thickest part of the ham. Do no cover or add water to the pan, and do not baste. Place in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) and cook following the directions in the chart:

HOW TO COOK AND GLAZE A HAM

To figure your time use this guide:

Fully Cooked Ham

Whole Ham: 10 minutes per pound

Half Ham: 14 minutes per pound

Rolled shaped boned ham: 12 to 15 minutes per pound

Cook-Before-Eating

Whole Ham: 18 to 20 minutes per pound

Half Ham: 22 to 25 minutes per pound

Rolled shaped boned ham: 30 minutes per pound

Thirty minutes before the end of the heating or cooking time, remove ham from the oven. Although most hams come without rind, some may still have rind. If so, cut the rind away being careful not to cut away the fat. With a sharp knife, score the fat crisscross fashion, making cuts about 1/8-inch deep and 3/4-inch apart. If desired, push a whole clove in the center of each diamond. Spread glaze over the ham. Return ham to oven 20 to 30 minutes more.

NOTE: Baked peeled sweet potatoes may be placed around the ham and glazed at the same time. There are many ways to glaze a baked ham such as this one: Just make a paste of dry mustard, brown sugar and a little vinegar. Then spread it over the ham for the last baking period.

A combination of genuine maple sugar or syrup and dry mustard is another suggestion, or a glaze of brown sugar combined with honey and ground cloves—or a glaze made of fruit preserves or marmalade.

Corn syrup makes a popular glaze. Combine 1 cup of dark corn syrup, one 2-inch stick of cinnamon and 1/2 cup orange juice. Combine these ingredients in a saucepan, bring to a full boil over moderate heat. Remove cinnamon stick. Spread on ham.

Many cooks spread only half the glaze over the ham, and bake another 10 minutes. Then they spread the remaining glaze on the ham for a final 10 minutes more of baking. This method, they claim, gives a deeper glaze.

SPICED BAKED SLICED CANNED HAM
(Serves 18 to 24)

6 to 8-pound canned ham
Whole cloves
1/3 cup strained honey
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Have meat man run the whole ham through his slicer at the thickness you wish (1/8 to 3/8 inches). Have him tie slices together.

Keep refrigerated until ready to bake. Press whole cloves in several rows or in a pattern on of ham. Place on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Mix together honey and ground cloves. Drizzle or spoon about 1/3 of honey over top and sides of cut ham. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 hour and 15 minutes.

After first 30 minutes of baking, brush again with half of remaining spiced honey. Continue baking another 30 minutes. Add mustard and brown sugar to remaining honey. Brush top of ham. Continue baking 15 minutes or long enough to have a golden glaze.

Hollandaise Sauce

The important point to remember, when you are are preparing Hollandaise Sauce, is to use slow heat. If the heat is gentle, the sauce may be cooked over direct heat (in a heavy pan) instead of over hot water.

Teacher's Refusal Put Up to School Board

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Judge Samuel Y. Rossiter of Erie County wants a high school teacher and a school board to try to settle their dispute over the teacher's balking at chaperoning a bowling outing.

The judge halted a hearing on the dispute Tuesday then met in separate, closed sessions with the teacher, George L. Pease Jr., and members of the Millcreek School Board.

If the dispute cannot be settled by Friday, the hearing will resume, the jurist said.

Pease, a 27-year-old instructor in problems of democracy at McDowell High School, has been accused by school authorities of incompetence, persistent negligence and willful violation of school laws.

The accusations stem from Pease's refusal to obey orders to chaperone a school bowling session.

Talented Blind Organist, Composer Will Present Christmas Recital at West Camp

A Christmas recital by J. Charles Brand, well-known concert organist of Kingston will be presented Sunday 4 p. m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp.

The presentation will be on the new Robert Rowland organ installed in the church last year at the time of the church's 250th anniversary. Installation of the organ was part of an extensive remodeling program in the church.

The public is invited and a free-will offering will be received.

The talented blind organist and composer was born in Glens Falls and resided in Schenectady most of his life. In the fall of 1958, following by his marriage, he made his home in Kingston. He received his schooling at the Batavia School for the Blind.

A member of the American Guild of Organists, Brand began his career at an early age at Batavia where he studied with Miss Grace Towsley of Eastman School of Music. His natural ability and talent was recognized in the award of the New York State Regents Department Gold Seal in Music for his graduation recital at Batavia.

For eight years he served as organist for Immanuel Lutheran Church, Schenectady and for three years was a pupil of the Rev. Adolf Steinke. Brand is also a composer of several hymns and anthems. His amazing repetoire of the standard works of organ literature, which ranges from Bach to the modern composers, has put him in demand for many recitals.

He accepted the invitation of E. Power Biggs, for whom he auditioned to play a recital in Boston, Mass., for the 1950 convention of the American Guild of Organists. Brand has also played in Troy, Hudson, Cohoes, Jamestown, Utica and Potsdam.

OLD RESIDENTS SHOULD WELCOME NEWCOMERS

Q: My husband and I moved to another city about six months ago. We joined the country club here and several organizations. When we meet people at these different club gatherings, they are very friendly toward us and many of them have said "Do come to see us." Is it proper to go on such a casual invitation when they have never called on us? I would appreciate your help in this matter as I do not want to do anything that could label me as a "pusher."

A: The fact that these people are very friendly toward you and have asked you to come to see them indicates that the rule that old residents should make the first calls on newcomers is not observed in your new city, and you will not be thought pushing if you make the first calls on those who have asked you to come to see them.

Christmas Cards to Married Couples

Q: I have quite a few women friends who I see at our women's club meetings. Most of them are married but I have never met any of their husbands. In addressing Christmas cards to them, do I address them to Mr. and Mrs. John Smith or to Mrs. John Smith alone?

A: When sending Christmas cards to social acquaintances, it is courteous to address them to Mr. and Mrs. even though only one of the couple is known to you.

Proper Dress for Pall Bearers

Q: I have been asked to be a pall bearer at the funeral of one of our club members. We will all wear striped trousers and oxford grey jackets. It has been suggested that each of the pall bearers wear a white flower in his lapel. This sounds all wrong to me and I would like to have your opinion.

A: If you were going to be an usher at a wedding, the answer would be yes. But for pall bearers, it would be shocking.

please, Santa!
A GLOW-OF-CHRISTMAS FUR

A boa or a belt — a stole or a slim coat! If it's far-out and fabulous, how happy I'd be. But I'd welcome any shape and size, as long as it's FUR. Because, come what will, there's nothing like fur for making a woman feel fabulous. Please Santa, take him by the hand — and lead him to my favorite fur salon. Dear Santa — I know I can count on you — to make my Christmas-fur dreams come true.

A small deposit will reserve your selection.

Christmas Customs

With all the signs of Christmas greeting us at every turn these days in Kingston and outlying villages, it doesn't seem too early to dwell for a moment on holiday customs that have never grown old.

Christmas is a time of rejoicing whether the season's greetings are Buon Natale, Joyeux Noel, Froehlich Weihnachten or Feliz Navidad. For the wonderful thing about the holiday is that it is always the same.

This sense of permanence can be fully appreciated in Europe, where from early December through Epiphany various countries observe the Christmas season with a host of centuries-old festivals, fairs, caroling ceremonies and musical programs in great cathedrals and churches. The mood of these festivities is one of gaiety, friendliness and warmth.

These few facts about Christmas traditions might be of interest to you.

Mistletoe, the Golden Bough of classical legend, was held sacred by the Celtic Druids and by the Norsemen. Mistletoe brought good luck and protected houses it hung in from witchcraft. It was always the plant of peace, under which enemies in ancient Scandinavia were reconciled.

The Christmas Tree came from Germany, a custom dating back to the 8th century. The lighting of the tree with candles is credited to Martin Luther. Prince Albert carried this custom to England when he married Queen Victoria. Some years later it replaced the older, native Kissing Bough, a hanging garland of greens shaped like a crown decorated with candles. The first German immigrants brought this heart-warming custom to America.

The Christmas Wreath was first used in the 6th century when the Roman Catholic Church set apart the four Sundays preceding Christmas as Advent Season and hung green wreaths on doors of houses and churches throughout Epiphany.

The Yule Log came from Scandinavia. Centuries ago on Christmas Eve it was brought in with great ceremony and kindled with a piece of last year's log. In Provence, France, wine is poured over it before it is lit. Elsewhere wheat and corn are sprinkled on it. Sometimes it is wreathed in garlands. As soon as the Yule Log is burning brightly a neighbor strikes the log with a rod to make the sparks fly, meanwhile chanting a wish for the prosperity of the family.

St. Nicholas Day was first celebrated in Asia Minor in the 4th century. The white-haired bishop appeared on December 6, his saint's day, riding a white horse laden with gifts for children. By the 11th century, St. Nick was appearing regularly on December 6 in Germany and Austria. Kriss Kringle, representing the Christ Child, comes on Christmas Eve in Western Europe. In Sweden and Norway Christmas dwarfs appear on Christmas Eve, and in England Father Christmas, closely resembling our own Santa Claus, is in evidence.

The hanging of the Christmas Stocking is attributed also to Bishop Nicholas. The kindly bishop generously provided dowries for the daughters of an improvished nobleman. As the saint threw presents of gold into the house, they fell into a stocking that had been hung near the chimney to dry. In Holland children set their shoes in the chimney corners on the eve of December 26.

The Creche was first originated by St. Francis of Assasi in the 13th century. Live animals were used, and the music accompanying the ceremony was the beginning of Christmas Carols. "Silent Night, Holy Night," sung in many tongues in many lands, was born in 1818 on Christmas Eve in the village church of Oberndorf, Austria. As the organ was out of order, Josef Mohr, church custodian, sat down and wrote the joyful little poem heard around the world on Christmas Eve.

The plan allows a maximum of 180 days leave for employes having more than one year service.

Under the new plan, unlimited leave is allowed only if the illness is incurred while a policeman is on duty.

Philadelphia beat New York 122-105 in the second game and at Portland, Ore., Elgin Baylor rallied Los Angeles to a 125-120 victory over Syracuse.

Many Coaches Might Lose Jobs Before New Season

NEW YORK (AP) — The old-fashioned party game of musical chairs again is in full swing among the college football coaches.

Several already have been given the heave-ho, victims of alumni who tolerate nothing short of success, and others have quit. The jobs of a dozen others are hanging by a slender thread.

The 1962 season will find new head coaches at Southern Methodist, Texas A&M, Nebraska, Tulane, Mississippi State, Houston, Colorado State University, Texas Wester, Xavier (Ohio), Iowa Wesleyan, Upsala and Wayne (Neb.) State.

Among the more prominent coaches reported on the griddle are Dale Hall at Army, John Steigman of Pennsylvania and Lynn Hoyland of Washington University (St. Louis).

One of the bitterest partings was that between Jim Myers of Texas A&M. "It was like being in a small clearing with just enough food to stay alive, and having all kinds of animals around you," said Myers of his four lean years at the Texas school.

Reports are that Jim Owens, Washington head coach and former aide to Bear Bryant at Texas A&M, is in line for the job.

Bill Meek, who had five more years to go at Southern Methodist on a contract paying $17,500 annually, was released after winning only 17 of 67 games. There is no word of his possible replacement. Jim Larue of Arizona is said to have the inside track.

Folley Bids For Title Shot After Knockout

By RONALD THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON (AP) — Zora Folley, the cool contender from Arizona, mounted a new offensive today aimed at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight title and said he would be happy to fight Sonny Liston in a final qualifier if necessary.

Liston, No. 1 heavy contender from Philadelphia, knocked out Folley in three rounds in their only meeting on July 16, 1960.

Folley drawled his challenge over the prone and bleeding figure of British champion Henry Cooper, previously considered Patterson's next ring rival, if the champion didn't fight Liston.

Cooper Britain's only hope for world boxing glory, was knocked out almost contemptuously by Folley at 1:08 of the second round in a scheduled 10-round bout at Wembley indoor stadium Tuesday night. Folley weighed 194, Cooper 189.

The result boosted Folley's prospects for a shot at the championship and apparently condemned Cooper to a lowly position in the heavyweight rankings.

Before Tuesday night's massacre, the 27year-old Cooper was variously rated third and fourth in the world rankings. Folley, 29, from Chandler, Ariz., was ranked eighth.

Chicago Majors Making Comeback

The Chicago Majors, in contention in the Eastern Division race of the American Basketball League until they went to Honolulu and were socked with five straight losses by the Hawaii Chiefs, whipped first-place Cleveland 110-97 in Milwaukee Tuesday nighht.

Now, with a 9-11 record, the Majors are back within three games of the division lead. Cleveland heads the East with an 11-7 record with Pittsburgh next at 10-9.

Former Iowa star Ron Zager led the Majors with 23 points.

Kansas City defeated San Francisco 88-84 and Hawaii, sparked by Jeff Cohen's 32 points, beat Washington 115-93 in other ABL games Tuesday night.

Bill Bridges and Win Wilfong each hit a pair of free throws in the closing minutes for Kansas City's victory.

Kaye, who usually acts as a playmaker, did the shooting for the Cafe five and he was red hot with 11 baskets and eight free throws. Al Brown added 15 markers and Bob Fescoe had 10 for the winners, who led by comfortable margins at each quarter stop.

Delanoy, composed of former high school players, scored six points in the second overtime period to nip Doran's. Ted Bream hooped 13 to lead the winners while Bruce Fiore's 11 markers was high for the losing five.

Touch Football Star Kennedy Speaker at Grid Fame Dinner

NEW YORK (AP) — President John F. Kennedy, a former Harvard junior varsity player and the nation's No. 1 touch football fan, wants no part of the current controversy over whether baseball or football now is the national pastime.

But, grinning, he advises Notre Dame not to give back its controversial 17-15 victory over Syracuse last month.

Referring to a close victory of his own in 1960, he said he had no intention of giving that back.

The president was the featured speaker Tuesday night at the annual awards dinner of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. He was the recipient of the foundation's Gold Medal Award, given for the example he has set in recognizing the major role of amateur athletics in fostering moral values and leadership.

He shared the head table with eight former players and one of two former coaches who were inducted into the Hall of Fame and eight others honored as scholar athletes.

Referring to the baseball-football controversy, he said:

"The sad fact is that it looks more and more as if our great national sport is not playing at all—but watching. We have become more and more not a nation of athletes, but a nation of spectators. The result of this shift from participation to—if I may coin a word—spectation is all too visible in the physical condition of our population."

Physically Soft

Kennedy called the American people physically soft as a result of push button living.

"We are under-exercised as a nation," he said. "We look instead of play, ride instead of walk. Our push-button existence deprives us of the minimum of physical activity essential for healthy living."

He called for a long, serious look at the nation's physical condition, and for a change in the way millions of Americans live.

Kennedy took time out from his dinner to visit a group of Alabama alumni and transmit a message to a student rally underway at Tuscaloosa, Ala., congratulating the Crimson Tide on its undefeated season and its invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Accept Award

Paul (Bear) Bryant, Alabama coach, and quarterback Pat Trammell accepted the MacArthur Bowl at the dinner on behalf of the Crimson Tide, selected by the foundation as the nation's top team.

Bryant called his team — also selected by The Associated Press as the best in the country—"the best I've been associated with in all my career."

Former players inducted into the Hall of Fame were halfback Glenn Davis of Army (1944-46); Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, North Carolina halfback (1946-49); George McAfee, Duke halfback (1937-39); Bob Reynolds, Stanford tackle (1933-35); Bob Suffridge, Tennessee guard (1938-40); Weldon Humble, Rice guard (1941-42, 1946); Pat Pazzetti, Lehigh and Wesleyan quarterback (1908-1912) and Claude Reeds, Oklahoma halfback (1910-13).

Coaches added to the Hall of Fame were Don Faurot, athletic director and former coach at Missouri, and the late Charlie Caldwell of Princeton, Yale and Williams.

Holly Defeats Howard, 125-94

Dave Holly launched his bid for the city pocket billiard crown with a 125-94 victory over Tom Howard, Tuesday night at the Uptown Billiard Parlor.

Both players had high runs of 15 in the well played match.

Valley Central Beats Pine Bush

Valley Central of the Orange County league took the lead in the second quarter and then coasted to a 55-31 win over a young Pine Bush five last night at the winners' court. The Vikings had too much experience and height for Jim McIntyre's club.

Pine Bush, which will be making its debut in the UCAL this season, had a 9-5 lead after the first period but the visitors fell behind in the second stanza and never regained the margin.

The home side also captured the jayvee tilt, 31-24.

Ohio State In Warmup

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mighty Ohio State, led by 1960-61 player of the year Jerry Lucas, goes against Pitt tonight in an expected warm-up for Saturday's important clash with Wake Forest, the top game of college basketball's early season schedule.

The Buckeyes, ranked first in an Associated Press preseason poll, handled Florida State with ease in their only outing this season, but could have a tougher time with Pitt, which lost its opener to a good Purdue team, 86-70.

Wake Forest, No. 3 in the preseason poll, won its second straight with ease Tuesday night, a 77-65 triumph over North Carolina State.

Miami Routed

Cincinnati, displaying midseason form and using substitutes much of the way, humbled Miami of Ohio 65-30. The Bearcats, who include the overtime upset of Ohio State in last season's NCAA championship final in their 24 straight victories, put the accent on defense in the slow-moving game.

In other top games, seventh-ranked Duke set a school scoring record in a 117-72 conquest of Davidson, strong West Virginia raced past Virginia Military 90-56, Southern Methodist disappointed hopeful Oklahoma 61-52, and North Carolina edged Clemson 54-52.

In other major games, Washington beat Montana 73-57, Loyola of Chicago breezed past South Dakota 104-63, The Citadel beat William & Mary 83-76, Butler rapped New Mexico State 77-56, Colgate outlasted Columbia 75-73, Oklahoma State—with Moe Iba, son of coach Hank Iba, contributing 17 points—won its second straight, 63-57 over Texas Western, Texas A&M used a second-half rally to beat Houston 64-49 and San Francisco beat West Texas 100-51 with Bob Gaillard hitting for 41 points.

Ex-Ithaca Ace Coaches Victory Over Alma Mater

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Chadwick, a former star basketball player for Ithaca coach Carleton Wood, turned the tables on his mentor Tuesday night as Chadwick's Clarkson team edged Ithaca, 74-68.

The victory was Clarkson's first of the season and the first Chadwick has fashioned over his former coach.

Results of other games involving Upstate New York college teams:

Colgate 75, Columbia 73; Rochester 80, Union 60; Plattsburgh 66, Potsdam 59; Siena 43, RPI 25; Albany 51, Oneonta 50 (Over time); Alfred 56, Hobart 51; Brockport 95, Rochester Tech 78; Buffalo 91, McMaster 41; Buffalo State 73, Roberts Wesleyan 57; and Geneseo State 77, St. John Fishers 65.

Clarkson rushed to a 10-point lead early in the second half and withstood the shooting of Ithaca's Don Fazio to gain the victory at Potsdam. Fazio scored 16 points, 12 of them in the final seven minutes of the game.

Carl Putnam, who scored Clarkson's first nine points, had 25 for the victors.

Defense figured in two other decisions.

Siena held RPI's scoring ace, Brian Seibel, scoreless in a the lows-coring test at Albany. The halftime score was 1713.

Only five points were scored in an overtime period at Oneonta, with Albany State getting three of them and a victory. All of Albany's extra-period points came on foul shots while Joe Heissan scored a field goal for Oneonta's two.

Head Work

EVANSTON, Ill. (NEA) — The Northwestern University electrical engineering department is going to the source on its studies on the amount of impact a football player receives. The department is devising a helmet with a built-in transmitter that will send information on the subject by short wave direct to the sideline. The experiments are calculated to establish a set of standards for a safer helmet.

Rice Has a Star In Butch Blume

HOUSTON, Tex .(AP) — Leslie (Butch) Blume—the angelic looking Rice halfback who plays like a demon—was kind of overlooked this season.

Other teams were aware of the little postman's son, and he was the leading scorer in the Southwest Conference.

But he didn't even make the all-conference second team.

You can bet the University of Kansas won't neglect the fellow called "Teddy Bear" by his team mates when the Jayhawks play Rice in the Dec. 16 Bluebonnet Bowl.

Butch, a 169-pounder from Lagrange, Tex., outscored such a notable as James Saxton of the University of Texas.

The babyfaced halfback scored 74 points as Rice built a 7-3 record. He scored 30 points one Saturday against Texas Tech and 20 last week as Rice ended the regular season by defeating Baylor, 26-14.

His 74 points beat the Rice record AllAmerica Dicky Moegle set in 1954 by two points.

Baylor Heads For New York

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor, which had a poor season when the won-loss record is considered but was picked for a bowl game because of its exciting offense, flies out this afternoon for New York where it will play Utah State in the new Gotham Bowl.

Utah State, which had a 9-0-1 record and was ranked tenth in the nation, left its home bound for the big city Tuesday night. So it will be there practicing at the Polo Grounds, scene of the game, when the Golden Bears arrive.

Baylor had a 5-5 record but while it didn't have the defense to stop anybody much it had an offense that kept the crowd on its toes. The Bears scored 19 more points than last year's Gator Bowl team that had an 8-2 record. It rolled up 235 more yards on the ground, scored five more touchdowns through the air and led the Southwest Conference in passing by completing five more throws than last year.

Walston Near Hutson's Mark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — End Bobby Walston of the Philadelphia Eagles is well aware he needs only eight points to surpass Don Hutson's National Football League career scoring record and he'd love to do it against the New York Giants here Sunday in the top game of the week.

"But first and foremost in my mind is winning," said Walston in viewing the crucial battle which could lead to the Eastern Conference crown. The Eagles and Giants are tied for the lead with 93 marks. Each club will have one game remaining after Sunday's contest.

The 33-year-old Walston, also a place-kicking specialist rounding out his 11th year with the Eagles, has 818 points going into the game. Hutson racked up 825 points during an outstanding career with Green Bay.

Actually, Walston is third in the all-time scoring derby. Lou Groza of Cleveland with 825 points needs only two points to surpass Hutson and "The Toe" appears a cinch to do it against Chicago Sunday. The second-place Browns also are in the thick of the Eastern race, in second place with an 8-4 mark.

In other NFL games Sunday, Green Bay, which already has won the Western Conference title is at San Francisco, Pittsburgh at Washington, Dallas at St. Louis and Minnesota at Detroit.

Swartz Is New Scoring Leader

CHICAGO (AP)—Dan Swartz of Los Angeles is this week's scoring leader of the American Basketball League with a 22.2 average through 19 games.

The official statistics, based on games through Sunday, show that Swartz replaced his teammate, Hal Lear, on the top rung. Lear dropped to second with 21.5. He is followed by Connie Hawkins of Pittsburgh with 21.3.

Swartz also is tops in free throws, hitting 157 out of 171 chances. Hawkins moved into first in rebounds with 249 for a 13.1 average.

The best shooting percentage is held by Kansas City's Larry Staverman with .508.

Small College Title Scoring Leader

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The national small college football championship will be decided here Saturday in a game between Pittsburg State of Kansas and Linfield College of Oregon, both with 10-0 season records.

The game in 22,000-seat Hughes Stadium will be the sixth annual NAIA championship, but the first to be staged in Sacramento, which hopes to be permanent host. It has been dubbed the Camellia Bowl, after the flower which grows profusely here.

Short End

MONTREAL (NEA) — Claude Provost of the Montreal Canadiens has led the National Hockey League in goals from the start of the season.

"Playing in the All-Star game in Chicago, I noticed that Gordie Howe's stick had about two and a half inches taken off the top," Provost said. "I picked it up and it felt great in my hands. I sawed two and a half inches off my stick.

"Now I use the shortest stick in the league."

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Davis, star Syracuse halfback, will formally receive the Heisman trophy tonight as the outstanding football player of the year .

Army Game

FORT JACKSON, S. C. (NEA) —Staff Sgt. Jack R. Lawrence of Richards-Gebauer Air Base, Mo., qualified for the All-Army Golf Tournament by playing a sub-par round over his home course.

In the opening round of the competition at Fort Jackson, officials were somewhat puzzled when Lawrence scored "something more than 90." A bit of checking was done.

The Army then revealed, with no little embarrassment, that it had shipped the wrong Jack R. Lawrence to the tournament.

Hear! Hear

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (NEA)—The electronic age has caught up with the great out-of-doors.

For some time varmint hunters have been using portable phonographs and recorded crow and coyote calls to lure their prey. Fishermen have started using electronic fish finders to locate schools of fish. Now hunters are using hearing aids to help them stalk deer. Wardens are carrying tiny amplifiers to help them locate poachers.

So far, the deer have not started using hearing aids.

Katanga Jet, 3 Others Destroyed By U. N. Planes

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Air Forces went into action today in the fighting between the United Nations and Katanga.

The U.N. announced two of its 15 jets had destroyed a Katanga jet and three other Katanga planes in an aerial cannon attack on Kolwezi base.

On the other side, a Katanga plane—a bomber converted from a German-made Dornier transport—raided the main Elisabethville airport held by U.N. troops, and dropped three bombs. A U.N. spokesman said there were no serious casualties or damage.

It was the second day of fighting brought on by Katanga resistance to a U.N. mandate to pacify the Congo. The U.S. Air Force was cooperating with the United Nations by giving transport assistance, but Britain was declaring the U.N. forces have no right to impose a political solution by force.

In any case, it was evident that the U.N. command, reinforced with jets from Sweden, India and other nations, was able to make itself felt in the air this time as it was unable to do in September. At that time one or two Katanga jes succeeded in cowing some of the U.N. ground forces.

The U.N. command said that two Indian Canberras attacked the Kolwezi base and left four Katanga planes in ruins, including a Fouga jet fighter.

A fuel depot and the tower at the strategic base were damaged, an announcement issued at Leopoldville said.

The U.N. spokesman said a two-engine Dornier of the Katanga air force was sighted, but ducked away before the U.N. planes could get to it.

Indian Brig. K. A. S. Raja, commanding U.N. operations, reported earlier that Swedish jet fighters attacked the Kolwezi base, northwest of Elisabethville.

He said a Katanga Fouga jet got off the ground but made a forced landing near Luluabourg in adjoining Kasai Province.

matter of Fact

A card game helped Americans win a crucial battle of the Revolution. The Hessian commander of the British forces was playing cards when a spy gave him a note warning that Washington's army was crossing the Delaware and would soon attack. Impatiently, the commander pocketed the note and went on with his game. The next morning, at Trenton, Washington surprised the British forces.

Rockefeller Has Date Today To Talk About Civil Defense

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Gov. Rockefeller confers today with federal defense officials on civil defense matters after exerting pressure to spur building of school fallout shelters in the state.

The Republican governor's meeting with Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy U.S. secretary of defense and three other officials is related to President Kennedy's statement last week that he would get in touch with governors on civil defense programs, the governor's office said.

Rockefeller is chairman of the Civil Defense Committee of the Governor's Conference.

The meeting follows the governor's scrapping Tuesday of the state's "go-home" civil defense policy in favor of one of "stay-where-you-are."

The change will be felt immediately by local school districts, which now are under state instructions to send pupils home in the event of an attack, and by education commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

Under the new policy, Rockefeller said, the state's objective would be "to have fallout protection readily available to individuals wherever they may be at the time of warning of nuclear attack."

The change puts pressure on school districts to participate in the governor's $10 million fallout shelter program, passed by the legislature at a special session last month.

Under the program, the state would pay up to half the cost of shelters built by school districts. The program, however, is not mandatory.

Press Secretary Robert McManus, elaborating on Rockefeller's statement said Tuesday that the existing "go-home" policy would continue in effect in schools until the education commissioner issued new regulations.

McManus said this would be a matter of weeks.

He said the governor felt it was best that children stay in schools in the event of an attack even though the schools had not built shelters.

McManus said, the State Civil Defense Director will issue an amended directive to Allen, who then will tell the schools what to do.

Thus, Allen found himself faced with the necessity of taking a major role in the shelter program —a role he previously had declined.

Allen said last month of the fallout shelter program:

"The decision is the local communities' decision...I'm not going to pressure it beyond the willingness of the people to do it themselves."

Allen also said that he would recommend that the go-home plan be continued as a general policy. This advice was rejected by the governor.

Woman to Speak In Hall's Place At Cornell Date

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a member of the American Communist Party, will substitute for Gus Hall, general secretary of the party, at a lecture at Cornell University Thursday night.

A spokesman for the lecture sponsors said Hall telephoned today that he would be unable to appear because he has a date in a Yonkers court Thursday to answer a summons for alleged motor-vehicle violations.

The American Legion of Tompkins County had protested Hall's scheduled visit. The Legion asserted that Hall "is dedicated to the destruction of our American way of life."

Hall was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges of failing to register his party as an arm of the Soviet Union.

Since the indictment, Miss Flynn has declined to tell newsmen whether she still was national chairman of the party.

The lecture is sponsored by the von Cramm Association, a scholarship group, and the Cornell Forum, a student organization.

Greenland Base Problems Told to Lions by Foehser

Problems encountered by the Army and Air Force workers during construction of the SAC Air Base in Thule, Greenland, were outlined to members of the Kingston Lions Club at today's luncheon meeting by Major Arthur Foehser, Army advisor to the National Guard, Kingston.

Winds up to 150 knots and temperatures of 40 degrees below zero were but two of the elements that were overcome by the Army and Air Force workers, Major Foehser said.

In explaining the problems encountered, Foehser said that all of Greenland is an icecap, and that at times engineers have drilled as deep as 10,000 feet and have struck only snow and ice.

It was necessary for the Air Force to construct a six foot high pad of frost free materials for the 10,000 foot runways. Asphalt was poured at temperatures of 450 degrees because of the coldness, Foehser said. He spoke of the 24 hours of sunshine that existed during the summer months, and of the lack of any sunshine between November 1 and March 15.

The violent coldness forced the Air Force and Army to run equipment 24 hours a day to prevent freezing.

Foehser is with the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery of the National Guard in Kingston. In his capacity at Thule Greenland Foehser was in charge of Air Defense on the base.

Members present at yesterday's meeting heard Wilson Tinney speak of January as Founders and Rededication month for Lions around the world. Tinney said the purpose of this period is to honor the founders of Lionism and for each Lion to rededicate himself. Melvin Jones, founder of Lions International, will be honored in January with local and rededicated Lions in Kingston.

Air Units Join Katanga Battle

PARDON HINTED—Communist Hungary hinted it might pardon Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, above, who has been in sanctuary in the U. S. legation in Budapest since 1956. Deputy Premier Guyla Kallai, in calling for better relations with the U. S., said his government is willing to discuss the prelate's future in any new negotiations with Washington. (AP Wirephoto)

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—The air forces of both the U.N. command and Katanga went into action today as fighting raged for the second day in and near this secessionist capital.

Mortar blasts shook the residential area near U.N. headquarters and an old airport northwest of the city where Katanga forces were deployed.

Drops Three Bombs

A lone aircraft, from Katanga's small air force, a bomber converted from a German-made transport, raided the main Elisabethville airport held by U.N troops, and dropped three bombs. A U.N. spokesman said there were no serious casualties or damage.

BRIG. K. A. S. RAJA

Indian Brig. K. A. S. Raja, who took over the U.N. operation in Katanga from civilians, announced U.N. jets strafed the Katanga air force at Kolwezi, northwest of Elisabethville.

He said Swedish jet fighters carried out the attack, and prevented an air attack on U.N. forces at Elisabethville. One of Katanga's French-built Fouga jets at Kolwezi succeeded in getting off the ground but made a forced landing near Luluabourg in adjoining Kasai Province, he said.

U.N. troops opened antiaircraft fire on another Katanga plane which circled the main airport.

15 Jets Ordered to Attack

At Leopoldville, the U.N. command announced that its 15-jet air force had been ordered to attack other Katanga air forces at Jadotville, 65 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

Six U.S. Air Force Globemasters took off from Leopoldville loaded with armored cars and antiaircraft guns for Elisabethville.

The United Nations steadily reinforced its ground troops. About 300 Swedes arrived from Stockholm and another 350 Irish soldiers were en route from Dublin.

Information Minister Albert Nyembo told newsmen Katanga mortar fire had driven the United Nations from its headquarters in Elisabethville, but Abdul Latif Sucgar, deputy U.N. civilian chief, denied this. He said Katanga mortar shells burst in the area occasionally and some had scored hits.

At the old airfield northwest of the city, a U.N. spokesman said, Katanga soldiers were being redeployed. "We are blasting them with mortars," he said.

Broadcasts Urge Fight

The Katanga spokesman said the United Nations had withdrawn from the Lido Hotel, a rest area and one of the four U.N. points in the city.

Katanga broadcasts urged the people to fight.

"The United Nations has declared war on the little people of Katanga," one broadcast said. "The hour is grave, the moment has come. Arm yourself, sons and daughters of Katanga, arm yourself wherever you are, in your homes, your fields, your villages. Take up your spears and arrows and fight."

Each side accused the other of treachery Tuesday in the outbreak of fighting. The conflict followed a U.N. Security Council order to the U.N. Command to employ force if necessary to oust mercenaries in Katanga. The council has adopted a policy against Katanga's secession from the Congo.

The United Nations charged that Katangans secretly prepared a sneak attack while agreeing to re-

Long Island Man Held for Jury in Link to Holdup

Max Cohen, 30 of Woodridge, L. I., was held Tuesday for Grand Jury action on a charge of robbery, first degree, by Justice Herbert Poppel of Ellenville, in connection with the October 9 holdup of an armored car driver at the junction of Routes 212 and 32 in the town of Saugerties.

According to Senior Investigator Edward Shannon of the Kingston barracks, Cohen was arrested in connection with the holdup and wounding of Alfred Szurek, 34, of Amsterdam, a messenger for Armored Carrier Corp. of Flushing, L. I. as Szurek waited by the Saugerties intersection for a pick-up car from New York City. Shannon said Szurek reported that as he waited, three thugs approached the armored car. He grappled with one of them and was shot in the fleshy part of the leg. He eventually wrestled a .22 caliber target pistol from his assailant. He said the trio took two bages of canceled checks representing more than $2 million, then ran down the road to a waiting car and vanished in the direction of Vetteran. Szurek said non-negotiable checks, used only for bookkeeping purposes, had been collected at banks in Albany, Scotia and Schenectady.

Szurek then went to the nearby Cloverleaf Inn, called state police and was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment, later being transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Amsterdam.

Clues led Investigators Shannon, Michael Lisman and P. G. Emden to Greenfield Park in the town of Wawarsing where they arrested Cohen three days later, on Oct. 12. They said the pistol which Szurek grabbed from his assailant was traced to a 1955 Wurtsboro bank holdup for which Danny and Murray Cohen, brothers of Max, were convicted.

Investigator Shannon is still continuing an inquiry into the case in an effort to pick up the other men said to be involved.

Soviets Boost Defense Fund In Record-Breaking Budget

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced a record-breaking 1962 budget, including a staggering hike in military spending of almost 50 per cent over that originally planned in 1961.

The original 1961 figure was boosted tremendously last July because of U.S. military measures taken to meet the Berlin defense crisis, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said then.

81.9 Billion Rubles

The over-all budget for 1962 totals 81.9 billion rubles, Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, which began a session in the Grand Kremlin Palace today.

Garbuzov told the delegates defense expenditures in 1962 would total 3.4 billion rubles, or 16.7 per cent of the total, as compared with 9.22 billion rubles originally budgeted for 1961.

At the official rate of exchange, one ruble equals $1.11.

The new amount allotted to the Soviet armed forces is more than a billion rubles more than the total allotted on both a regular and emergency basis during 1961.

Expects Tension to Hold

But this is no longer emergency financing, and it indicated the Soviet government expects world tension to stay at a high pitch during the coming year.

In the related field of science, which includes most programs of weapon development, the budget figure was set at 4.3 billion rubles. Last year it was 3.8 billion.

Comparison Impossible

(The United States budgeted $46.6 billion for defense in 1962. However, comparision of Soviet and American budgets is almost impossible. Many Soviet military expenses are buried in allocations ostensibly for civilian production).

The 1962 budget is 3.6 billion rubles bigger than last year's, but Garbuzov said the government actually planned to spend only 80.3 billion rubles.

He reported a surplus of 1.6 billion rubles for 1961 also.

The Supreme Soviet is certain to approve the budget before conclusion of its session, which also will discuss the nation's 1962 economic plan and approve changes in the civil law code.

City Claims Report Due Dec. 29

Kingston Point Is Not Getting Dredging Fill

River sediment now being dredged from the Hudson is not being used extensively for fill in the Kingston Point lowlands, as was planned, because of apparent inconvenience to the contractor, it was learned today.

Alderman Samuel J. Perry (R) Fifth Ward, Common Council minority leader asked about the proposed project at Tuesday night's meeting of the aldermen, and requested that Mayor Edwin F. Radel make necessary contact and have the "lagoon" area at Kingston Point filled.

Mayor Radel revealed today that the contractor, the Gahagan Dredging Corp. had decided that it is more expeditious to dump the silt in an area of the river known as the "middle ground" a point beyond main channels.

The mayor said he had been told, however, that a small amount of the dredged sediment was to be dumped on the lowlands during the dredging near cables of the New York Telephone Company and the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp.

Mayor Radel said it was understood after arrangements made some time ago that considerable of the sediment would be dumped in the Kingston Point area.

Action Asked on Claims

Alderman Perry also asked last night for action on settlement of a claim for automobile damage filed last August by Mrs. Augustus Parker, of 73 Crane Street. She asks payment of $99 because of damage said to be due to a high crown in Crane Street where it intersects her driveway. Mrs. Parker also spoke briefly emphasizing that she did not keep the city waiting for its taxes and she failed to see why the claim had not been paid by this time. The high crown in the road, Perry noted, was damaging to tailpipes and under areas of automobiles.

Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, said he would like to obtain information on all claims outstanding and Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, considered the request "a good idea." The aldermen apparently discussed the claims proposal in recess and decided to give them attention at the Dec. 29 meet-

Book Collector Must Move Shop, 800,000 Volumes

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) —A nationally known dealer in old books said today the building of a new highway may force him to abandon his valuable book collection.

John Lindmark, 72, the dealer, has 800,000 volumes of ancient books in a former school that he has been using as a book store for the past 20 years. He values his collection at $1.25 million.

The bookshop is in the path of the Poughkeepsie arterial highway. The state paid Lindmark $16,500 for the property months ago and ordered him to move out.

Time dragged by, however, and the book dealer remained there.

A court order now has given him until Dec. 18 to move.

Lindmark said Tuesday he had been unable to sell the collection and did not have the money to have the books moved.

He said he was willing to sell the books for $100,000 but that, if he can not find a buyer in the remaining 12 days, he probably will just move out and turn the problem over to the state.

The state, however, insists it fulfilled its part when it paid the book dealer for the property and that the moving out is his responsibility.

Three Die in East Shore Mishaps, County Has Two

Three motorists were killed and a passenger in one of the cars was critically injured in three separate automobile accidents Tuesday on the east side of the Hudson River. One of the drivers died when his vehicle rammed a school bus in the township of Pleasant Valley; a second perished when his sports car went off Route 199 in Red Hook and rammed into a concrete culvert and tree and the third driver died when his American compact car flipped over on Route 100 at the Taconic Parkway in Westchester County and burned.

In another auto-school bus crash, this one in Ulster County, two Rosendale brothers were hospitalized with head injuries. And in still another Ulster County mishap a Woodstock man suffered a cut forehead.

Tuesday about 3:45 p. m. on Hibernia Road at Salt Point in the town of Pleasant Valley in Dutchess County, an automobile operated by Charles E. Horton, 69, of Salt Point rammed into the rear of a school bus halted to discharge passengers, state police reported. Horton, they said, died of a broken neck while on the way to Vassar Hospital. JFK for Tariff Cuts To Frustrate Soviet Encirclement of West

Letter to Aldermen Says VA Closing Is Definite

Kingston's Veterans Administration office and 160 others are due to close because of a decrease in "demands for assistance" the Common Council was informed Tuesday night by a letter which left no hope of continuance of the office after Dec. 29.

Another letter from Congressman J. Ernest Wharton noted his protest against closing of the office. He said he had "urgently requested" John S. Gleason, administrator of veterans' affairs "to suspend this decision" and "reappraise" the need for continuance of the facility.

The Congressman's letter was dated Nov. 27, and that citing reasons for closing the office was dated Dec. 4. It came from Albert Finnemore, director of contact and affairs service.

Finnemore's letter noted that of 1,049 offices which had been activated in the country only 196 remain because of a lessening demand for assistance The 161 ordered closed this month, it said, were largely offices with only one contact representative. F. William Sheehan has been the officer in charge of the local office since 1950. He has been with the VA since 1946.

The Finnemore letter said it was realized that closing of the local office would result in inconvenience, but reported that many veterans' problems or requests for assistance are now dealt with by mail.

The nearest office, when that in Kingston closes will be in Albany.

Objection to closing the office came not only from legislative bodies like the Common Council, various officials and organizations, but from thousands of individuals who signed petitions.

Congressman Wharton wrote that he too was "deeply disturbed" because of announced removal of the facility. If the offices were to be closed merely for economy reasons, he held, such economy measures should be to "other operations," and not to this "vital area."

New, Bold Approach His Plea

Does Not Propose ECM Affiliation

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy called today for a lowering of tariffs in a "new and bold" program to frustrate Communist plans for economic encirclement of the West.

He urged U.S. cooperation with the European Common Market along with lower tariffs to stimulate trade among friendly nations.

Would Doom Red Aim

If the nations of the West can agree "on a common program of action as extraordinary in economic history as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was unprecedented in military history," the President said, "the long-range Communist aim of dividing and encircling us all is doomed to failure."

"I am not proposing—nor is it either necessary or desirable—that we join the Common Market, alter our concepts of political sovereignty, establish a 'rich man's' trading community, abandon our policy, create an Atlantic free trade area or impair in any way our close economic ties with Canada, Japan and the rest of the free world," he said.

Kennedy picked a conference of industrialists to preview in broad terms the authority he will seek from Congress to give him greater freedom in bargaining for tariff favors.

Says Two Incompatible

That authority would reduce levies on some U.S. imports and increase foreign competition with U.S. industry.

But, Kennedy said in a speech prepared for the National Association of Manufacturers congress of American industry: "Economic isolation and political leadership are wholly incompatible."

He said that reciprocal cuts in tariffs on both sides of the Atlantic would increase U.S. sales abroad and thus strengthen both this country and its allies.

He called for economic cooperation between the United States and the European Common Market, an association of six nations in which Great Britain has applied for membership. Some 90 per cent of free world industrial production may soon be concentrated in these two great markets, he said.

Would Harness Markets

"I am proposing, in short, a new American trade initiative which will make it possible for the economic potential of these two great markets to be harnessed together into a team capable of pulling the full weigh of our common militar, economic and political aspirations," Kennedy said.

The President confirmed speculation that he would ask Congress for power to bargain with other nations for tariff reductions by such entire categories of goods as industrial equipment or textiles, for example, instead of item-by-item.

Tariff negotiations under the reciprocal trade agreements law now are limited to a tit-for-tat easing of barriers on single goods. That law expires next June.

"It must not simply be renewed," Kennedy said. "It must be replaced."

Reply to Critics

The President did not give any particulars on the authority he wants, but he left no doubt that he would launch at once his own campaign for a greater flow of international trade.

In direct reply to such critics as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Kennedy emphasized that he was not advocating that the United States join the Common Market

Lack Votes to Pass Bond Issue

Democrats Are Stalled On Off-Street Parking

Common Council action on off-street parking, deferred again Tuesday night, could take place at a recessed meeting set for Dec. 26 but it faces the prospect of lacking enough votes to approve a bond issue.

Last night's meeting, marked by a bid from Mayor-elect John J. Schwenk for deferred action on any bond sum, recessed, it was announced, to consider unsettled claims, but it was indicated that a vote could be called for on a parking proposal offered by a special committee.

Davis Not in Favor

Alderman William G. Davis (D-L) 13th Ward, said last night, he did not favor the plan as presented, and unless he changes his mind by Dec. 26, the council will be unable to poll the 9-4 vote required for approval of a bond issue.

It is expected that a vote will be called for at the recessed meeting whether the proposal is due to win or lose. Republican aldermen said last month they oppose any action until Schwenk is in office.

Action was also expected last night on a fallout shelter plan for downtown caves but was deferred because a special committee lacks cost estimates and other data.

$290,000 Needed

Off-street parking uptown as planned would require a $290,000 bond issue, of which $185,000 would be for acquiring land on the north side of North Front Street, and $105,000 would be for construction. The 1961 budget contained $10,000 for a study and planning.

Mayor-elect Schwenk's letter, addressed to Alderman Samuel J. Perry (R) Fifth Ward, council minority leader, asked that no further bonded indebtedness be imposed before he takes office. It was emphasized last month that he also has a plan for off-street parking.

Schwenk's Request

The letter:

"Judging from recent reports in the press, it seems likely that in the final session of this Common Council, the Democratic majority intends to act on legislation that will increase the city's bonded indebtedness next year, and which will commit the next administration to programs which it has not had the opportunity to consider, approve, or improve.

"As mayor-elect I have no legal right to make recommendations to this Common Council, but I would ask you, as minority leader, to make known my point of view.

"I feel that in the recent election the majority of the people of this city indicated approval of my platform and plans for

Wagner Program Nothing Original, Says GOP Leader

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City "has failed to produce an original idea and is merely serving up a rehash" in his program of financial aid for the city, the Republican leader of the state senate says.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney termed the program "political blackmail in an election year."

Wagner, a Democrat, sent to Republican Gov. Rockefeller Sunday a program under which the city would receive $261.2 million in increased revenue, primarily through more state aid and the legalization of off-track betting.

The program would have to be approved by the Legislature. Mahoney's statement indicated that it would receive hostile treatment when the Republican-controlled Legislature convenes next month.

Mahoney, in a statement Tuesday, said Wagner's proposal "will, of course, receive careful and detailed consideration by the Legislature."

He also charged, however, that Wagner was attempting to set himself up "as the most powerful big-city boss in the history of this country."

Mahoney said Wagner was doing this by dictating legislative policy to his party in the Legislature, dictating the selection of a new party leader in Manhattan and, at the same time, functioning as a city official.

In a related attack, Republican

Historic Schuyler House in Dutchess Is Gift to Bard College as Memorial

ANNADALE-ON-HUDSON—The gift to Bard College of one of the most historic estates in the mid-Hudson Valley was announced today by Dr. Reamer Kline, president.

Mrs. Malcolm Smith and Mrs. William Hoffman of New York City, have given to the College the estate originally known as Schuyler House, and more recently as The Grove, located at teh eastern edge of the village of Rhinebeck, at the junction of Routes 308 and 9G. The gift is memory of the late Dr. and Mrs. George N. Miller of Rhinebeck, parents of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hoffman, and consists of the manor house, with most of its furnishings, and approximately six acres of land, bordering on Landsman's Kill.

Schuyler House was built in 1792, with bricks made on the property, by General Philip Schuyler of Washington's army, as a wedding gift to his son, and has remained in the possession of General Schuyler's descendents until the present time.

The house consists of 24 rooms and eight baths. A library wing was added in 1859, the library itself having been designed by Daniel Webster, who was a frequent visitor. Philip Schuyler, for whom the house was built, was Alexander Hamilton's brother-in-law, and over the years visitors to the house included Hamilton, General Lafayette, President Grant, and Presidents Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is the present expectation of Bard College authorities to refurbish the house both inside and outside so that it will [illegible] side, beginning next September, a faculty apartment [illegible] dence facilities for 35 to 40 women students. The college plans to purchase and operate a bus, scheduling as many regular, daily trips as may be needed between Schuyler House and the main campus. When and if future dormitory construction enables Bard to accommodate all of its students on the main campus, it is expected that Schuyler House will be convert-

Hicksville Bingo Hall Must Stop Games, Is Order

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Lottery Control Commission has ordered the Hicksville, N.Y., bingo hall to stop its games.

The order came from Commission Chairman Richard W. Hannah Tuesday after the agency heard testimony that part owner of the hall had helped finance bingo games for the North Shore Synagogue and the Hicksville chapter of United Cerebral Palsy.

Mrs. Hilda Anker of Hicksville, who ran games for United Cerebral Palsy, testified that attorney Carl Feldhamer, part owner of the hall, gave her $700 to start the games.

Mrs. Dorothy Morrison of Syosset, N.Y., who ran the games for the synagogue, said he had given her $1,140 to make up bingo losses incurred by the congregation.

The state lottery law forbids owners of halls to give financial assistance to bingo game operators.

Willing White of Garden City, N. Y., a commission member, said the hall also had violated the state lottery control laws by "commercializing gambling."

Oswego Landmark Is Destroyed by Fire

CLEVELAND, N.Y. (AP) — A predawn fire today destroyed Hotel Cleveland, an old landmark in this Oswego County community on the northern shore of Oneida Lake.

About 100 volunteer firemen fought the fire in the two-story, frame structure and prevented the flames from spreading to a nearby supermarket.

Six persons, including the owners, Mr. and Mrs. James Camuso, fled the building. Camuso estimated the loss at $125,000.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Contractors Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine plumbing contractors have been indicted on charges of cheating the city board of education of $389,609 through rigged bidding.

The indictment returned by a Queens grand jury Tuesday alleges that the firms plotted their bid-rigging at secret meetings between Oct. 12, 1960 and June 14, 1961.

Teachers Are Urged To Counter Tyranny

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—"The uninformed, the undisciplined, the apathetic, however right, are no match for the indoctrinated, the disciplined, the dedicated, however wrong," the state education department says.

The department called for teachers to observe Bill of Rights Week, Dec. 10-16, by resolving to prepare pupils "to counter tyranny in all its forms."

State to Stiffen Certification for Grade Teachers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state plans to stiffen certification requirements for elementary school teachers by almost doubling the number of prescribed academic courses, the state education commissioner says.

Commissioner James L. Allen Jr. said Tuesday night that the additional requirements for elementary teachers would be similar to those for public secondary school teachers.

Certification requirements for prospective secondary - school teachers were raised by the Board of Regents beginning in 1958. They become mandatory Sept. 1, 1963.

Allen, at a meeting of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, did not disclose a date for the change, which has been under study for more than a year.

The stiffer requirements still must be presented to the Board of Regents, governing body for education in the state, he said.

Allen also said the professional status of teachers must be strengthened. Increasing salaries was one way of doing this, he said, but teachers also needed to take more responsibility for "policing their profession" and setting standards.

Why United States Keeps Dealing With Yugoslavia

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA)—The Kennedy Administration, after a moment of intense soul searching, has decided to "reopen negotiations" with Yugoslavia for the sale of surplus food stocks.

In the language of diplomacy, this means a continuation, for the present at least, of the United States aid program to Marshal Tito's Communist dictatorship.

How does more help to Yugoslavia square with Kennedy's policy to give greater "attention and consideration to those nations who have our view of the world?"

Since Tito "broke" with Moscow in 1948, he has benefited from some $2 billion in American aid. During this period, he received nothing but brickbats and insults from his Russian fellow-Communists.

Yet Yugoslavia's policy, especially in the United Nations, has been consistently pro-Soviet, if not actively anti-American. Since the Belgrade conference of the so-called neutral nations, Tito has moved even closer to Moscow's position on international issues.

Nevertheless, President Kennedy obviously believes that Yugoslavia still is an independent nation and not just a Soviet satellite like Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia or East Germany.

This view is backed by a number of authorities on communism and by many strongly pro-American Yugoslavs with whom I discussed Tito's erratic policies in Belgrade.

The U. S. obviously is taking a calculated risk in aiding Tito. But in the global cold war against Russia and Red China, where every weakness of the adversary must be calculated and exploited, such risks are an essential part of the diplomatic game.

There is no doubt that Tito himself and the older generation of men around him belong spiritually and politically to the East and want to make peace with Moscow.

However, a majority of the younger generation of Yugoslavs, vastly impressed by the economic and cultural achievements of the West, especially the U. S., is eager to learn from it.

This is true of students, writers, engineers, young workers and even of members of the ruling Communist League.

Indeed, much of Tito's popularity is due to the fact that he had the courage to defy Stalin in 1948. "He liberated us from the Russians," a high ranking official told me in Belgrade. This was repeated wherever I went in Yugoslavia.

Why, then, did Tito forfeit his leadership of many of the unaligned nations by his failure, at the Belgrade conference, to condemn Khrushchev's resumption of atomic testing? What is behind his pro-Soviet policies?

Here is the answer of a top Yugoslav Communist who is a foe of a rapprochement with Moscow.

"Tito is a Communist first and foremost," he said. "In matters of doctrine he feels closer to the East than to the west."

However, Tito has no intention of ever becoming again a regimented member of the Soviet bloc.

Whenever there is an increase in tension between Premier Khrushchev and Red China's Mao Tse-tung (whom Tito hates), Belgrade's interest grows toward better relations with Russia.

At these moments Khrushchev also is more eager to include Tito —the Red "heretic" and "revisionist"—in the play of Red power politics.

"But Tito is aware," the Yugoslav official said, "that should he rejoin the Soviet bloc, he would lose his ability to maneuver between East and West."

For this reason, Tito's diplomatic maneuvers always will maintain a certain distance from Moscow. But he will never withdraw far enough to establish a permanent cooperation with the West.

Even anti-Communists thus accept Tito as a lesser evil. But they have never given up their yearning for "sloboda" (freedom).

This was best expressed by a ragged but strong-looking peasant from Montenegro who was gaping in wonder at the neon-lit stores stocked with plastic plates, cups and forks on Belgrade's Tito Avenue.

"Yes, we need bread, my friend," he said. "And we are grateful to America for helping us. But remember this—we need 'sloboda' even more. Man cannot live without 'sloboda.'"

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 6, 1961

BY THE BOOTSTRAPS

Over the past 14 years the United States foreign aid program has had many names, faces and changes of substance. But the new long-range effort is marked by an added distinction.

More than any before it, this one evidently is going to be judged by the toughest gauge the men who guide and influence the program can muster.

Obviously they want to silence the large body of critics who charge that waste and mismanagement are perennial foreign aid accompaniments. Yet they seem to have more than efficiency on their minds.

President Kennedy gave a big clue to the new outlook when he tied increased Latin-American assistance to Latin accomplishment of major social and economic reforms.

Some have suggested that there — and elsewhere — we might be satisfied with a kind of window-dressing performance that would give a superficial look of give-and-take to the assistance effort. Nevertheless, strong signs point the other way.

Walt W. Rostow, for most of 1961 a White House aide and now chairman of the State Department's policy planning council, indicates that from here on, countries receiving aid will be watched with a cold eye.

What this government will be looking for is not some showy surface evidence of reform and self-help. The philosophy behind the hard United States gaze is this:

Our aid at best can be only a marginal factor in recipient nations. In Rostow's words, "It can help if the impulse to betterment is deep within them." The real improvement must come from their own massive undertakings.

Rostow's verdict, given in advance, is that "nothing serious will happen unless they do it themselves."

Unexpressed, but implicit in this stiff appraisal, is the notion that the United States will not indefinitely assist a country which does not demonstrate unmistakably, in reasonable time, that it is moved by that "deep impulse" to lift itself up.

In another context, we have already declared we would not help those new nations which display insufficient concern for their independence and allow themselves to be drawn to the Communist orbit.

Only time will prove whether today's tougher talk means tough action when it is called for, or whether it simply signifies louder lip service to a tattered theory

A CHALLENGE TO PROBE

A well known financial writer has predicted that "when the economic history of the United States is written, 1961 will be recorded as one of the great turning points in our existence as a nation." This writer sees, as the key to our future role as a world power, the nature of the decisions now forced upon us regarding our reaction to the swiftly rising potentials of the European Common Market.

The portrayal of these decisions as a sort of economic continental divide is convincing. Given American cooperation, this new commercial union holds out the promise that we could snow under the Soviet economic threat instead of being buried by it as Khrushchev so truculently predicted. It could counter the Soviet drive for world conquest, not on a nuclear battlefield but in the world's markets.

The problems raised by such cooperation on our part almost equal those we now face on the military front. These problems involve the ancient and potent issue of tariff walls. The Common Market's tariffs operate against outsiders. In this instance we are as yet outsiders. We will continue to be unless we are prepared to make enormous adjustments.

When Britain enters the organization, as she is in the process of doing, the pressures on us to effect those adjustments will become acute. The time already seems ripe for us to inform ourselves fully. A commission made up of the best minds in labor, industry, finance and diplomacy should be put to work on an exhaustive study as to how this new challenge shall be met.

'These Days'

THE PASSING OF A PATRIOT

Senator Styles Bridges was unusual in his total patriotism. His horizon was beyond party; his loyalties were beyond personal motive or interest. He led the Republican Party in the Senate during difficult years when the party was uncertain as to purpose and principle. Succeeding Robert A. Taft as a political philosopher, his interest was never limited to the success of his party but was designed to strengthen his country. Therefore, he was respected by Republican and Democrat alike.

I knew him well and admired him greatly and if I am slow in writing an obituary, it is only because his death pained me so. Styles Bridges represented a generation that inevitably must soon pass into history. It was the generation of the depression whose aspiration was mere survival, not only for our country but for each individual. That generation witnessed the passing of the traditions of America from the mores of those who founded the country to the confusions of change and alteration in imitation of novel European forms. It was a curious period, for the richest of all lands found itself the poorest spiritually with nothing to say of itself or for itself except defensively. In such a time, a man like Styles Bridges stands gallantly before the younger generations a courageous battler for truth and tradition.

The private lives of public men are often sad and lonely. They have little of time to offer their wives, upon whom is placed the burder of participation in the constant round of public affairs and campaigning. Some wives add to their husband's burdens by misunderstanding their roles; some become competitive with their husbands for public notice. The wives of such men live with husbands who are always tired; who have no periods of rest or recreation; who must answer the call of government and party and go battling for friend and colleague when they would prefer to remain at home with their children. Often the wife of the political personality has to drag along with him lest his days be filled with ugly and untruthful rumors. And a wife must be patient when the husband is unjustly attacked and abused.

Styles Bridges was most fortunate in a happy and comforting family life. His wife, Doloris, fitted his intellectual and spiritual mood and understood the responsibilities of the political life. Those who knew them saw a man and wife who were not competing against each other but who understood not only each other's character but their mutual responsibilities. They lived in frank and cordial affection which their friends knew and respected.

It is now being proposed in New Hampshire that Doloris succeed to her husband's seat in the Senate. Surely no one in New Hampshire, or for that matter, anywhere, could have had more Senatorial experience than Doloris Bridges who worked with her husband through many years. She was not only a wife to her husband, but a friend and colleague and one who could quietly add wisdom to the quality of womanhood which she so richly possesses. I can testify to her unusual breadth of view and wisdom for often I have listened to her comments on current events.

If New Hampshire should decide to give Styles Bridges' seat to his wife, Doloris, they will assure themselves of a continuous high quality in their representation in the Senate. New England has never been afraid to recognize able and strong women.

The passing of Styles Bridges weakens the leadership of the Republican Party in Congress. Bridges was chairman of the Republican Policy Committee which decided formally what the Republican Party believed and practised. The leader of the Republicans in the Senate is Everett Dirksen of Illinois. It was Bridges, however, who gave a philosophic tone to the Republicans in the Senate. This was particularly valuable during the Eisenhower Administration when the party was uncertain as to its character and its future. President Eisenhower provided no leadership in Congress, he perhaps not altogether understanding the relations of the Presidency to Congress.

Since the advent of the Kennedy Administration, the Republican Party has been split by factionalism ranging from the Conservatism of Barry Goldwater to the Liberalism of Nelson Rockefeller. Senator Bridges sought to establish unity of thought and a lessening of animosities. It is difficult to know who can take his place as the party peace-maker in these years of trial.

Body's Chemistry Is Nothing to Tinker With

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many self-styled "authorities on diet," who frequently seem to thrive on their ignorance of established principles of nutrition and of the miraculous workings of the human body, make their recommendations in the manner of a contractor ordering materials to build a house—so many feet of lumber. So many bags of cement. So many pounds of nails. So much paint. And so forth.

What they either don't know or choose to ignore is the important fact that the living body, to use a Biblical phrase, can "make bricks out of straw."

You put swill into pigs and get out bacon and pork chops. You put cattle out to graze and you get milk, cream, butter, beefsteaks and veal chops. You let your chickens peck away on feed you wouldn't put in your mouth and you get out slices of white meat and delicious livers for your scrambled eggs.

What all this means is that, with very few exceptions, the essentials for growth and maintenance of the living body can be obtained or made from the foodstuffs of the basic diet.

It means, for the most part, that the purchase of special foods for special purposes makes very little sense to the trained nutritionist or physician.

The same sort of ignorance of the workings of the living body is also profitable, at the expense of the public, to "gland faddists" and to those who exploit the sale of what may be useful products when put to proper use.

With few exceptions, and perhaps none, the glandular secretions (hormones) that enter directly into the blood stream are held in balance by a control center that's situated at the base of the skull (anterior pituitary gland).

Note the word, "balance."

Now, when a secretion is deficient, the master gland can usually exert a bit more pressure to raise the local production output, something like working a night shift. And when a secretion is produced in excess, the control center can reduce the working days to three a weeek.

What happens, then, when we start tinkering with this delicate adjustment may be just the opposite of what we set out to do.

For example, if a secretion is deficient and we try to make up the deficiency by feeding or injecting the gland extract in question, the master gland may take a nap. Then, up to a point, the more we feed the more we need.

Indeed, if we continue feeding until the body is loaded beyond capacity the control center may then reduce the work week of the local factory until it, too, takes a nap. And we have worsened the situation that we were trying to better.

Perhaps an example will illustrate what I'm trying to explain in words:

Recently, scientists of the Medical College of Georgia were given a product to test that was supposed to interfere with fertilization. To their amazement, it proved to favor the processes of fertilization. And, if these effects can be translated into human terms, the product may actually help some barren women to conceive.

Maybe these observations will partially explain why some unknown cynic once remarked "where ignorance is bliss, it's folly to be wise."

Washington News

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—The vast majority of American voters are now caught between two minority forces on the extreme left and right. On the right, a myriad of ultraconservative groups like the John Birch Society. On the left, organizations like Americans for Democratic Action. These are the whipping boys.

IF THE GREAT UPRISING of conservative political thought and action now manifest in many parts of the country follows the historic pattern of the last 50 years, it may not have much influence in the 1964 presidential elections.

For the 1962 congressional elections, the right-wing movements, stronger in some localities than others, could swing more marginal districts into the Republican column. The minority party usually makes gains in midterm elections, anyway.

In presidential election years, however, the right-wing movements never unite.

They never agree to back one candidate or one platform. Each splinter group that pursues its own pet goals instead of throwing it full weight behind the Republican party takes away from it that much strength.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY showed his instinctive political smartness as well as his idealism at his last press conference. He defended the right of anyone to give money to an extremist group so long as this is not an attempt to evade taxation.

Only a few days before, in his Seattle and Los Angeles speeches, the President had denounced extremist movements that shut their eyes to the dangers of international communism and try to deal with it blindly as a domestic evil.

To turn then and defend the right of anyone to give money to such causes may seem inconsistent. But why not?

Any contributions to splinter groups take that much money away from the GOP, which is already in bad enough straits.

REPUBLICAN SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER of Arizona has given the most frequently heard rationalization of the right-wing movements. He says that the danger to the United States comes not from the John Birch Society or the Minutemen, but from the 30-odd members of Americans for Democratic Action who now hold high office in the Kennedy administration.

This list was compiled by Robert Hartman of the Los Angeles Times. ADA headquarters admits all names on it are of members.

Included on the list of ADAers now in government are cabinet members Orville L. Freeman, Arthur Goldberg and Abraham Ribicoff, "Little cabinet" members G. Mennen Williams, Charles Murphy, Henry C. Fowler; Ambassadors Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, J. Kenneth Galbraith and Thomas K. Finletter; White House aides Theodore C. Sorenson and Arthur S. Schlesinger Jr. Others are less well known.

But to maintain that this group runs the Kennedy administration in some kind of a super-secret conspiracy may be an oversimplification.

Joseph L. Rauh, one of ADA's founders maintains that the Kennedy administration is not doing even 25 per cent of the things ADA wants, not moving 25 per cent fast enough. One word from Ada and the President does as he pleases. He was never a member. They think him too conservative.

SINCE THE UNITED STATES has never been a country of splinter parties, ADA, the John Birchers and the like seem to have only one function in the American political picture. They present the views of the extreme left and the extreme right.

That should make it easier for the great majority of the people in between to identify middle-of-the-road policies they can adopt and support.

Kennedy - Stevenson Talks Seen Resolving Differences

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's more than meets the eye in the newspaper reports of two long conferences last weekend between President Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

Washington has been buzzing with stories that Mr. Stevenson confided to friends recently that he is not in sympathy with the United States policy toward Red China, even though he follows the Administration's line in his public addresses.

On top of this came the speculation that Mr. Stevenson might want to run for the United States Senate next year against Sen. Dirksen, Republican of Illinois, leader of his party in the Senate.

So the big questions were these: Did President Kennedy possibly want to replace Mr. Stevenson with someone else in the all-important UN post and was the buildup of stories about the Illinois Senatorial contest a means of easing Adlai out gracefully? Or was it a means of ironing out differences between the President and Mr. Stevenson which culminated in the announcement that Mr. Stevenson would not run for Senator?

It looks as if the latter question was the crucial one. It was answered by the President himself as he announced yesterday his satisfaction over Mr. Stevenson's decision. Mr. Kennedy said he had expressed to Mr. Stevenson the hope that "he would continue at the United Nations and play an expanded role in the making and execution of our foreign policy."

There has been a lot of talk around here about the allegedly independent course that Mr. Stevenson follows as not altogether to the liking of Secretary of State Rusk.

From sources close to the U. S. mission to the UN, it is learned that Mr. Stevenson at first clearly favored the admission of Red China to the UN and that as late as March of this year he gave his own staff the impression that he wanted a change in America's policy. He is reported to have felt that admission of Red China to the UN was inevitable and that the United States should find a graceful way to bring this about. But the idea backfired in Congress, as Democrats and Republicans joined in passing a resolution reaffirming opposition to the admission of Red China to the UN.

After this, Mr. Stevenson is reported to have become more reluctant to discuss these matters with his staff, and a belief has prevailed in New York that he has been at odds with the President on the issue but was maintaining nevertheless a discreet silence. This gave rise to rumblings in the UN mission that American policy was not being clearly defined.

The President spent a good deal more time last Saturday and Sunday conferring with Mr. Stevenson than has been his custom, and coincidentally, there appeared news dispatches about the possibility of Mr. Stevenson's entry into the Illinois contest.

A Victory for Kennedy

Just why Mr. Stevenson would wish to give up a post of world-wide importance to become the junior Senator from Illinois was not clear to many of his friends. It was suggested, however—prior to his decision—that from a political standpoint a victory for Mr. Stevenson in November, 1962, would be widely interpreted as a victory for Mr. Kennedy, too.

There was always, on the other hand, the possfbility that Mr. Stevenson might take a licking in the 1962 election and this would not have helped the prestige of the Kennedy administration. As a tactician in politics, Mr. Stevenson has not been rated too highly. An example of a bumble that may have cost him many votes in the 1956 Presidential contest is this extract from a speech delivered on the eve of the election when he said:

"Your choice tomorrow will not be of a President for tomorrow. It will be of the man—or men—who will serve you as President for the next four years. And distasteful as this matter is, I must say bluntly that every piece of scientific evidence we have, every lesson of history and experience, indicates that a Republican victory tomorrow would mean that Richard M. Nixon would probably be President of this country within the next four years.

"I say frankly, as a citizen more than candidate, that I recoil at the prospect of Mr. Nixon as custodian of this nation's future, as guardian of the hydrogen bomb, as representative of America in the world, as commander-in-chief of the United States armed forces. Distasteful as it is, this is the truth, the central truth, about the most fateful decision the American people have to make tomorrow. I have full confidence in that decision."

Five years have passed since Mr. Stevenson delivered that speech. Not only did Mr. Eisenhower serve out his term, but the American people came close to selecting Richard Nixon as their President at the end of Mr. Eisenhower's second four-year term. It's risky even in politics to try to predict the life span of anybody.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Idiotic American obsession with craps-shooting and the ten-cent policy racket continues to fatten the reputation of politicians in Congress and county seats through the old, reliable investigation or probe. Senator John McClellan, of Arkansas, has just issued two volumes of "hearings" by the Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, on the Hoffiifying subject of "Gambling and Organized Crime." Conclusions are not yet ripe but they tell us, of course, along with Tom Dewey many years ago and Davey Crockett Kefauver more recently, that gambling is a great evil which sends wan and pallid children to bed hungry in rooms with patches of plaster off the walls.

These two green Congressional books have altogether 600 pages and they reveal in the glossary the awful truth that an ace is a one-spot on a die; that across-the-board is a bettor's term for win, place and show, and that a bust-out man is a dishonest character who switches crooked dice in and out of a game. The cost of collecting such information, reducing it to stenotype notes, transcribing, setting it in type and the Government Printing Office finally printing and binding it and sending it out to a mailing list across the country runs into enormous appropriations of the taxes of faceless Americans who run the risk of prison for refusal to pay a full share.

This kind of thing has been going on for a century to my certain knowledge and no new fundamental facts have been discovered since old-style, pot-bellied cops chopped down doors in up-stairs plants on Lower Broadway soon after the Civil War. My earliest memory of my devotion to the public's right to know is a file of seedy males chambering up the back stoop of a patrol wagon on Clark Street near Madison in Chicago on a Saturday night. They were not at all disturbed I understood why a few weeks later. As my education deepened and broadened. I learned that the bondsman at Harrison Street station had been waiting there for an hour by arrangement with Bathhouse John and Hinky Dink, the twin aldermen of the First Ward, who meant no unkindness to these prey but had sent the cops to throw some discipline into an unruly operator named Mike MacDonald.

The Bath and Hinkey Dink knocked MacDonald's joint apart and put the axe to much valuable furniture including gaudy wheels which spun on axels, faro layouts and tables for dicing and cards.

There was no moral problem anywhere in this feat. In fact the only moral problems that ever have been involved have concerned the corruption of judges, mayors, police inspectors and precinct commanders. The professional gamblers, such as Frank Costello and, long before him, the Reverend Edward Riley Bradley, of Palm Beach, were honest men who had to submit to extortion by politicians with a sworn responsibility to the public so that they could accommodate a popular desire. The same obviously goes for those who sell the policy slips for as as little as one-cent, but usually for a dime, in Harlem and similar New York neighborhoods.

Costello got his kindergarten start shooting craps in Harlem which then had a predominant Italian population, but soon went into policy because he had cold nerve, a lightning mentality for simple mathematics, and a reputation for keeping his word. If he promised to do something good for a man it was as good as done. And if he promised to do something bad to a man, that was as good as done, too. He was an early adherent and accomplice of Fiorello La Guardia in Harlem and it was La Guardia, not Costello, who welecheed and double-crossed. La Guardia made the most of Costello's political revenue derived mainly from two-bit slot machines in slums but after he was elected mayor he took to the air to exhort his cops to kick the bums around. He meant his friend, Costello.

As the Negro population swamped out the turn-of-the-century Irish and presently the Italians, policy became a mania in Harlem. Dreambooks sold second to newspapers in circulation. These people were dirt poor. They would pool pennies to buy a ten-cent slip.

When Tom Dewey as District Attorney was popping his eyes at credulous reporters with highly incredible estimates of the probable profits which all this perfidy yielded to barons of that never-never land called the underworld, simple, two-times-two arithmetic showed that this was the stuff dreams are made of. The underworld would have to sell millions of one-cent and ten-cent tickets every day to vindicate this nonsense. But it was, after all, "official" and we could quote him. As one result, he thought for a few hours one November night in 1948 that he had been elected President.

If gambling were legal as it is indubitably moral, we all might have the pleasant right to drop in on a craps game on the way home at night or to take mama around to play a little bingo, while Pop tried a few bets at faro or Klondike. It would cost no more than booze and there would be a chance of walking home with a bundle now and again as distinguished from a load.

We are penny ante gamblers at worst. In Reno and even Vegas, there are nickel slots and ten-cent roulette. Bnt in Monte Carlo the cheapest chip sells for two of the new francs, or 40 cents, and the Germans in gambling joints along the Rhine have a minimum of two marks or about 52 cents. Just as boozing was immoral and dangerous under the 18th Amendment, so is gambling wrong though enormously prevalent among us today.

Runaway Horses Give Sheriff a Busy Time

ROSELLE, Ill. (AP) — An alarmed housewife telephoned Cook County sheriff's police, saying: "There's a horse looking at me through my front porch window."

A second phone call, from a horse trainer near Roselle, informed police that two brown mares had just run away from a farm.

Two shaken motorists told of being forced off the road by two brown horses galloping toward their autos.

Deputies spotted the fugitives in a field and roped them.

Committee Plans Help for Needy

At the recent annual meeting of the Christmas committee plans were formulated to carry on again the work for the season as well as throughout the year.

Mrs. Edna Brannigan gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Edna Beatty gave a detailed report as to the sources of funds, the various expenditures for the year as well as the extra items last Christmas.

Mrs. Gertrude Elliott reported on the services at the County Home.

A new, joint effort by the Christmas committee and the Jayncees is under way whereby needy children would be remembered at their birthdays. Already some eight children have been remembered in this way and the Christmas committee has donated $25 to the Jayncees for purchases of this kind for the coming months. The Jayncees are represented in this work by Mrs. Lucille Snow.

Home visitations this year will again be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Elsbree with the assistance of Mrs. Charles Mackey and Miss Lucille Stephens. Anthony Lenaz has again volunteered to pick up supplies. Mrs. Gertrude Elliott will take charge of dressing dolls and would be glad of the assistance of anyone who would care to help.

It was suggested that those donating clothing mark boxes or bundles with type of articles, sizes and if for boy or girl.

Anyone with useable clothing or toys that can be repaired may aid this worthy cause.

Yule Activities Begun by Senior Citizens Group

The Senior Citizens Group of the New Paltz area will meet Dec. 6 when they will begin their Christmas activities by making their talents available for Christmas crafts.

On the following week edible tray favors will be made for the Jennings Nursing Home residents in Highland. The group have adopted this nursing home as one of its projects. At an earlier meeting Thanksgiving favors were made and presented to the home.

Recently the Senior Citizens went to Kingston to learn about Kingston's Golden Age Club. Arrangements were made by Edwin Kolts, president of the Kingston club. The New Paltz Senior Citizens were met at the YWCA and were entertained by the host group.

Campus School Notes

The junior high school students at the Campus School here heard a lecture Friday, by Mrs. Gerald DuBois on the History of Sound.

Mr. DuBois demonstrated sound to the human voice and ear, and showed how sound can be modified to produce various effects and how high fidelity and stereophonic sounds are attained. He used special tape recordings and records in his demonstration.

Mr. DuBois spent a number of years as an equipment engineer for the New York Telephone Company and has been employed by the International Business Machines Corporation since 1951. At the present time he is doing developmental research at IBM, Poughkeepsie.

Monday the Campus School Board and Principal George Bond attended the fall meeting of the Mid-Hudson Study Council held at the college here.

Salvation Army Appeal

The Rev. Willett Porter Jr., chairman of the local Salvation Army Service Unit Committee, has announced that the annual Christmas appeal for funds for the Salvation Army have been mailed out.

It is hoped that this letter may serve as a note of thanks to all who contribute to the work of the Salvation Army through the Community Chest—as well as an invitation to others to share in the traditional Christmas appeal.

Local contributions may be sent to the Rev. Dudley Bennett at 161 Main Street, treasurer of the local fund. A part of this will be used by the local committee to help the seasonal and emergency relief in New Paltz.

Commended for Study

Frank Hamilton, Business Manager at the New Paltz Central School, served on a committee which studied school transportation costs for the New York State Education Department. Recently the school received a letter from Arthur W. Schmidt, Assistant Commissioner for school Finance, commending Mr. Hamilton for his work.

The letter reads in part "I am convinced that this committee has contributed a great deal to the understanding of transportation problems and the cost. Your many suggestions and criticisms were most helpful in formulating a report which is probably unprecedented in its thoroughness."

The report of the committee is one of those which have been submitted to the Diefendorf committee for consideration.

Scout Activities

The explorer Scouts of Troop 77, through the courtesy of Smiley Brothers of Lake Mohonk, recently took a 10 mile hike to Mohonk where they tried out their newly acquired 2-Way Trnasceivers. They used the set of walkie-talkies under various conditions. The range of the set is limited to one mile. The group search for an imaginary person. Their goal is to learn the ways and means of searching for lost persons and rescuing devices. In learning the proper methods, all the kinds of scouting skills are to be employed, such as map and compass reading, knot tying, first-aid and hiking methods.

Dan Smiley talked to the group about his personal experiences in aiding and conducting searches.

When Post 77 is trained efficiently in rescue work, it will be able to work with the New Paltz Fire Department and other organizations in the search for lost persons.

Betrothal Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Nostrand of the Plutarch Road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sheila, to Brian Mallette. Shelia is a senior at the New Paltz Central High School. He is stationed with the United States Navy at Norfolk, Va. The wedding is planned for August, 1962.

If any one is desirous of being listed to do such work, they may contact either the Public Health Nurse, Miss Mary Lou Schoonmaker, or the Public Health Association President, Mrs. John Scarzello.

Christians Wind Up India Parley

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The international get-together of Christians was over today with a prayer, a promise, and a record.

The record of the 18-day general Churches took up 6½ tons of paper.

The prayer and promise were couched in words uttered in unison in closing devotions Tuesday night by churchmen of nearly every nation.

Planned for use in home congregations, especially in interdenominational services, the text included this petition and pledge to Christ:

"Together, we commit ourselves anew to bear witness to Him among men. We offer ourselves to serve all men in love, that love which He alone imparts.

"We accept afresh our calling to make visible our unity in Him. We pray for the gift of the Holy Spirit for our task."

In its final business session, the assembly adopted a message to the farflung congregations of its 198 member denominations.

It said that amid sweeping technological, political and social revolutions in modern life, there are both new possibilities for good and threats of destruction.

"God is at work in opening possibilities for mankind in our day. He is at work even when the powers of evil rebel against Him and call down His judgment," the message said.

Defense Dept. Is Hit for Losing Time on Funds

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—A Wisconsin congressman accused the Defense Department today of "incredible mismanagement" in the length of time it took to make funds available for units recently called to duty.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., told a news conference that Congress granted the department the needed authority for such expenditures on Aug. 17.

Limiting his comments to the 32nd Infantry Division, a Wisconsin National Guard outfit training here, Laird said the Pentagon did not make this authority available to the Department of the Army until Oct. 31.

He said it took the Army until Nov. 16 to transmit this authority to the field command.

"This incredible mismanagement will be called to the attention of the highest officials in the Defense Department with the request that appropriate corrective action in mobilization planning be taken immediately," Laird said.

Laird, who arrived Tuesday on an official visit as a member of the House Military Construction subcommittee, said his full report would be given to the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee and would contain a list of all the complaints made by members of the 32nd Division. He said all of them are going to be answered in detail.

Clergy Only

KENNESAW, Ga. (AP) — There shouldn't be any swearing over missed putts or sliced drives at a golf tournament announced for this little town. Competition is limited to preachers. Bill Hardigree, professional at O. B. Keeler golf course, is calling it the North Georgia Ministerial Golf Tournament.

Not Really New

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP)—Dr. Wolfgang Sporrel, a professor of anesthesia, told a meeting of the Kitchener-Waterloo Academy of Medicine that mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is not new, He said it was described by two Danish physicians in 1796 and also is mentioned in the Bible.

U.S. Offers 21 Planes to U.N. Against Katanga

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States offered 21 additional Air Force transport planes today for support of U.N. operations against secessionist Katanga forces in the Congo.

The U. S. Air Force is now operating six of the big four-engine troop and equipment carrying planes in the strife-torn central African nation.

The State Department, announcing the offer of additional planes, said that the commander in chief of U.S. forces in Europe has been ordered to provide up to 15 C124 planes and up to six C130s as requested for use by the United Nations.

Press officer Joseph W. Reap said these planes now are based in France or Libya but if needed would operate in support of U.N. forces out of the Congo area around Leopoldville.

Reap said also that the aircraft may be used by the United Nations to fly U.N. troop reinforcements directly from the country of origin—for example from Sweden, Ireland or Nigeria—into the combat area of the Congo which presently is around Elisabethville.

Shallots are often called for in French recipes: if they aren't available, substitute the white part of scallions or mild white onion.

New Yorkers Get Scores of Patents From Washington

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) --There's a woman in Vestal, N.Y., who thinks she has just the thing for housewives who fumble with soap powder boxes on wash day.

She invented and patented a plastic soap powder dispenser that fits over one corner of the box and dispenses just the right amount of soap each time.

But Orla Nielson is only one of perhaps thousands of New Yorkers whose brain children won government patents this year.

The Patent Office said New Yorkers won 9½ per cent of all patents issued by the government last year. A total of 5,292 patents went to New York residents for inventions or new processes and designs they developed.

Nationally, more than 53,000 patents were issued by the government during 1960.

A spot check of patents issued late last month showed that scores of them went to New Yorkers.

Some bore such complex names as "triggered transistorized blocking oscillator with saturable transformer" by Robert William Carney of Utica, "production of hydrogen peroxide by anthaquinous process in the presence of fixed bed catalyst" by Donald H. Porter of Tonawanda, and "trigonometric function generator" by Donald M. Merz of Schenectady and Thom R. Greene of Troy.

There were New Yorc inventions for the layman too.

In addition to the soap powder dispenser, which can be used on any box of granular material, there were a vegetable peeling appliance for the housewife, a fishing harness for the sportsman, a cocktail mixer for the social set, a multiflavor drink-dispenser for the teen-ager, and a modernistic chair for the man who just wants to set and relax.

Why We Say--

GLASSMAKER: When something is described as a fiasco it is a ridiculous failure. The word came from Venetian glassmaker. If in blowing, the slightest flaw was detected, the bottle was turned into a common flask called a fiasco.

Without Stuff Do Not Bid

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When your opponents have a part score, you want to compete if you can. Such competition may prove very expensive, but it is just as costly to sit back and let them run off with a game.

One way to compete is to open the bidding first. Therefore, most players will open any doubtful hand in first or second seat when the opponents have a part score.

If North had opened the bidding, his opponents would have run off with the rubber. Instead he passed and backed in with a takeout double of West's fourth hand spade bid. East redoubled, South bid two hearts and East doubled it.

West cashed his two high spades and gave East a ruff. East led a diamond to his partner's ace and West continued the suit. South went up with dummy's king and threw East in with a third diamond, but East got out of the lead with the nine of trumps.

West took his king and led a club. Dummy's queen lost to East's king and East still had to make two trump tricks.

North and South lost 1100 points and East and West still had their part score.

Legionnaires Are Against Speech Of Red at College

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—An American Legion group is protesting a scheduled lecture Thursday night by Gus Hall, general secretary of the American Communist Party. The group says Hall "is dedicated to the destruction of our American way of life."

The American Legion of Tompkins County made the protest Tuesday night in a statement by Harry Cirulli, commander of the county group.

The Cornell Faculty has reaffirmed its decision to allow Hall to speak at the University despite a federal indictment that charges Hall with failure to register the party as an arm of the Soviet Union.

The faculty committee had approved two weeks ago Hall's invitation by the von Cramm Association, a scholarship group, and the Cornell Forum, a student organization.

Advice Is Given On Vets Pension

All veterans and survivors who are receiving non-service connected pensions, will receive annual income questionnaire forms with their Dec. 31 pension checks, according to Charles L. Culver, veterans counselor, State Division of Veterans affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

Recipients of the questionnaire are advised to make arrangements to return the form promptly. Each questionnaire must be completed and returned to the office indicated on the form within 30 days from the date printed thereon.

Failure to return the questionnaire within the allotted time, may result in having pension payments stopped.

Assistance in completing the form is available at the office of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs, and the Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency, 32 Main Street.

Any questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted to the Main Street office for attention.

Clothing Drive Due in Schools Starting Dec. 11

The 20th annual bundle day collection of wearable used clothing will start December 11 in the Kingston School system, it was announced today.

Clothing collected through the sponsorship of the Save the Children Foundation, a 30-year-old international organization, will go to the American Southern mountains and elsewhere.

"This is an important annual community operation," said Franklin H. Hazard, associate suerintendent of schools here.

He said children and their parents in the southern mountains and in other depressed and disaster areas are in dire need of clothing.

Children here, their parents and friends are urged to join the drive to help keep young bodies warm on the cold roads to school and to bolster their spirits.

All items of clothing and shoes are acceptable so long as they are wearable, but not worn out.

The Save the Children Federation of Norwalk, Conn., serves the interest of children throughout the world in cooperation with leading educators.

Hunt the Hunters

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Pima County searchers got in a lot of practice recently when high schoolers Larry Wooster and Daniel Feldman became lost in the Catalina Mountains. Shortly after the two boys were found unharmed, a 22-member contingent of the search operation became lost. They struggled out later, but then it was realized that two more searchers were still missing. They, too, were founds after another search.

Bomb Shelters

We the undersigned feel we cannot be silent any longer. We wish to express our feelings regarding bomb shelters.

We are primarily prompted by moral and spiritual motives.

However, we are not simply against bomb shelters but are aware of the realistic and practical aspects of the problem and the need for a postive peace program.

We believe the shelter program leads to a negative approach to solving the war dilemma. Shelters are false security at best, involving our energies and funds, which might more fruitfully be applied to programs for world order.

If even a portion of the 200 billions of dollars required for a national network of underground shelters were applied to the United Nations work for peace, imagine the support we could give morally and physically toward world leadership.

We are seeking and working in any way open to us toward a positive peace through world law and understanding, realizing the tremendous economic and social adjustments involved.

Above all, we are led to speak from our moral obligation to the generations to come.

Special Check Is FHA Ruling on Fallout Shelters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration today announced special inspection and approval requirements on home improvement loans when the money is to be used for family fallout shelters.

The new regulations require banks, savings and loan firms and other lenders to take responsibility for inspecting the completed shelter and to certify that the job conforms with FHA and Defense Department standards.

In advance of the loan, the bank must submit the plans for the shelter to the nearest FHA office for approval. Only after the FHA office issues a "certificate of eligibility" can the lender authorize the householder or the contractor to proceed with the loan insured under FHA home-improvement program.

For single-family homes, the maximum loan amount is $3,500, with five years to repay. In multi-family structures the loan for each living unit may not exceed $2,500. A seven-year repayment term is provided.

LIVELINESS AND LUXURY AT A LOW, LOW PRICE

NEW CHEVY II

Never before such a team of totally new cars! Sedans, hardtop, station wagons, even a convertible . . . you name it, Chevy II has it. Nine models in all now in production. What are they like? Well, imagine all the solid virtues you've always counted on from Chevrolet . . . the steadfast dependability, the tried and true economy, the dyed-in-the-wool comfort . . . all dressed up in a new just-right size and built a modern new way. That's Chevy II . . . but that's only the beginning. It's easy on the eyes, easy on the road and easy on your pocketbook. It's built to be ultra-easy to service and maintain. Front fenders, for instance, bolt on and off for easy repairs. Two spunky engines, a four and a six (your choice in most models), purr along merrily on regular gas—and darn little of it, too. Thanks to Mono-Plate rear springs, the ride reminds you of the big Chevrolet—and you know how smooth that is. The space inside for people and things puts you in mind of big cars, too. So does the cushy comfort. But Chevy II parts company from anything else around when it comes to offering all these fine features—at a sensible low price. Fact is, luxury and low price have never been blended so beautifully. Check your Chevrolet dealer and see for yourself.

CHEVROLET

Experts Believe Soviets Would Hit All Bases

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — American intelligence experts believe that if the Soviet Union were to strike in Europe the Soviets would launch sudden, simultaneous nuclear attacks on all of the continent's Western defenses.

The intelligence men expect rapid, deep armored Soviet thrusts would come next.

Once the ground attack was in motion, the Soviets would send in units in waves in an effort to keep their advance moving day and night.

The Russians could be expected to try to maintain constant contact with Allied forces so Western commanders would have to hold their own atomic fire or risk the destruction of their forward troops.

Maj. Gen. A. R. Fitch, the Army's assistant chief of staff for intelligence, sketched current Soviet tactical doctrine earlier this week at a meeting of civilian aides to Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. at Ft. Monroe, Va.

Fitch's talk was confined to an evaluation of Soviet military concepts. He did not commen on moves the United States might make in the event of a Soviet attack on the European allies.

He said Soviet tactical doctrine has been modified to incorporate nuclear weapons delivered by aircraft or missiles, but conventional artillery retains a prominent role.

The emphasis in Soviet tactical planning is on the use of armor, dispersion of forces and mobility, both to exploit Russian nuclear firepower and to minimize casualties from opposing atomic weapons.

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — For the first time ever, the Amish people are having to put electric lights on their old-fashioned buggies. A new state law requires it. Most of the Amish heretofore have relied on red glass reflectors.

Po'keepsie Man Gets Jail Term On Gaming Count

A 47-year-old Poughkeepsie gasoline station operator was sentenced to three months in the Dutchess County jail Tuesday and fined $250 on a gambling conviction.

Julius V. (Spot) Meyer was convicted recently by a trial jury of bookmaking and keeping a place for bets.

County Judge John R. Schwartz also suspended a six month jail term on two other county of an indictment.

Recommending a jail term for Meyer, District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta said "fining these men is giving them a cheap licence to continue their operations."

Meyer's attorney, Edward Filipowicz told the Court the defendant was a "hip pocket" not a professional gambler, that Meyer was being forced to vacate his gasoline station at 51 Fairview Avenue, Poughkeepsie, and recommended leniency.

Before passing sentence, Judge Schwartz said, "We don't sentence bachelors only around here."

Meyer told the Court he has two children and his family has undergone hardship.

Takes His Flea Circus To Warmer Climate

BRIGANTINE, N.J. (AP)— The performers in John Torp's circus have been dying off like fleas lately.

Matter of fact, the performers in John Torp's circus are fleas.

The little varmints live only four or five months, and they won't breed in cold weather.

So Torp, 29, a native of Denmark, and his partner, Max Kitson, left their headquarters here Tuesday with about 40 tiny performers, headed for warmer climes.

"Nationwide, there's no shortage of fleas," Torp said, "but they're hard to find here right now."

Just any old flea can't join the circus. Cat and dog fleas, which will breed almost any place, won't do.

"What I want are the large black, six-legged fleas—like you find on people," he said.

Auto Renting Firm Gets 675 Summonses

CHICAGO (AP) — A company named Courtesy has been served with 675 summonses for traffic violations from 1958 through 1960.

The firm is Courtesy Lease-Save Plan, Inc., a division of Courtesy Motor Sales, Inc.

Police Capt. John J. Nelligan said each offense carries a maximum fine of $200 upon conviction.

Jim Moran, owner of the parent firm, said he doesn't know whether the leasing company or its customers can be held liable for violations by drivers of rented autos.

Fire Districts Elect Officers on Tuesday

Fire District elections were held by a number of Ulster County communities on Tuesday, most of the candidates for offices being unopposed and most of the elections lightly attended.

Voters in West Hurley Fire District No. 1 elected Thomas M. McNally commissioner for five years. He had 94 votes with two for Maurice Martin and 18 void or blank ballots. Clarence H. Green was elected treasurer for three years. He received 59 votes, Maurice Martin had 27, Maurice Wright 1 and there were 27 void or blank ballots. The electorate approved 94 to 10 a proposition permitting the commissioners to expend $2,780.50 from the established capital reserve to be applied toward the purchase of a new International ambulance to cost about $4,565.

Five fire districts in the town of Saugerties held elections. In the Mt. Marion-Ruby district, George Becker of Mt. Marion was elected without opposition for a five year term as commissioner.

George Saile of Saxton was re-elected commissioner for five years in the Saxton District. Irving Oltman was unanimously elected treasurer in a surprise election. He was nominated unopposed when Victor Hommell of Manorville, unopposed for re-election, declined at the last moment. Some 34 balloted.

Lomontville which had two propositions up for consideration as well as elections for commissioner, reported a good turnout. Charles A. Groeters, who was nominated from the floor, defeated Otto Kern, nominated by the commissioners, by a vote of 41 to 21. A proposition authorizing issuance and sale of $6,000 of bonds for purchase of a tank truck was approved 61-2. The voters also carried by 56-7, a proposition seeking $2,000 for the purchase of a siren for the firehouse.

Joseph Washington, 38, of 246 Catherine Street, who appeared today on the charge, was given a choice of paying a $50 fine or spending 25 days in jail, plus a suspended sentence of 30 days, six months of probation and suspension of license. The fine was paid.

John Ricci, RD Box 321, Kingston, charged with speeding as a second offender, was fined $50, and Wallace Hunter, of Liberty, booked for driving without a license, paid $25 last night.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are smoking more cigars this year than any time since 1923—fewer from Havana this year than last, but more made of tobacco grown in the Philippines, Sumatra, Java and Puerto Rico.

No Tobacco Ban

Uncle Sam's troubles with Fidel Castro as yet have brought no ban on tobacco imports—as they did long against sugar, an embargo extended Monday by President Kennedy until next June 30.

But Carl J. Carlson, president of the Cigar Manufacturers Association of America, said in an interview that legal disputes over ownership of Cuban trademarks registered here have cut cigar imports by 48 per cent this year. He said crop difficulties in some Cuban districts may have caused the 12 per cent drop in imports of Cuban tobacco to be made into cigars here.

Cigars of Cuban tobacco are only a small part of the big American market. They have been a top item for many small cigar-making shops around the country, and especially for the makers concentrating in the Tampa, Fla., area.

In the first nine months of the year, U.S. Bureau of Census figures put total value of Cuban tobacco imports at $19.6 million, compared with $23.5 million in the same period last year. The total for 1960 was $31 million.

Leaf Stocks Up

Total cigar leaf tobacco stocks are well ahead of a year ago. Department of Agriculture figures put stocks at 354.3 million pounds of which 40 million pounds are of Cuban origin. This compares with a total of 342.9 million pounds a year ago, when Cuban stocks were 43.4 million pounds.

While Cuban stocks were slipping in the 12 months, holdings of Philippine tobacco gained 1.9 million pounds and Sumatra-Java and other foreign cigar types 7.3 million pounds.

The headlines go to occasional rumors that imports of the Cuban product may be cut off to chastise Castro, but what the cigar men themselves most like to talk about is the steady comeback in sales of cigars—all cigars, of which the Cuban product is only a fraction. Total sales had slipped badly after the first World War when Americans flocked to the cigarette instead.

Eugene L. Raymond, president of the Cigar Institute of America, said in an interview that the comeback has been due to the industry's turning to making cigars of the size and type young men will buy, and to pounding home the idea that cigar smokers are acceptable in all circles.

The best seller is the five-cent cigar, about 24 per cent of the total, and next is the 10-center, 19 per cent of the total, with most of the rest priced in between, and only 11 per cent costing more than a dime.

Cesspool for a Town

BUTTERFIELD, ILL (AP) — The cesspool — with a difference — is being tried experimentally as a sewage processing and disposal facility for a small community.

Preliminary reports on a 250 by 450-foot lagoon, serving some 90 households of Butterfield, west of Chicago, are encouraging, says Orville Meyer, sanitary engineer of the DuPage County's public works committee.

The pool was planted with algae and fed air which is pumped into perforated plastic lines spaced along the bottom. Oxygen content of the water was maintained at about seven parts per million. It was stocked with minnows which apparently thrived.

No contamination was found in the ditch runoff.

Curfew

The curfew originated in the fear of fire when most cities were built of timber. It was the tolling of a bell to warn inhabitants to extinguish their lights and fires.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Very often I am asked for pictures of the boats that plied up and down the Hudson River. I do not have these films, but now and then am given photographs. Miss Short, who had a photograph shop on the Strand had some fine pictures, as I remember, and I think they were from glass plates.

When she was going out of business, I asked her once, what she did with those plates of scenes and boats, and as I remember, she told me, she sold them in bulk, not for the picture value but for the glass.

William Longyear's son, brought me some photographs of Kingston Point Park and such, and for a time, his mother made copies for those who desired them. Once there was mention of it in this column, I remember former Kingstonians learned of it, and sent for copies. That was a number of years ago.

I see the Central Hudson, Gas and Electric Corp. in sending out bills enclosed recently a fine picture of the Sidewheeler "Alexander Hamilton" of the Hudson River Day Line. This is the last sidewheeler steamer up and down the Hudson from New York City to Poughkeepsie, from May through September.

I thought I would tell my readers about this picture, so they can save it now, because very often these items are thrown out, and then it is difficult to find them. Perhaps the Central Hudson will put out more pictures, of our popular steamers of former years, so we can save them

Mrs. Wilcox of New Paltz often sends me interesting items such as the souvenir magazine, "Hudson River Day Line" of July 1911. One item in that illustrated booklet reads in part: "Andrew Carnegie recently sent $100 to Miss Margaret Knox, principal of P.S. No. 15, New York, as a token of his pleasure in seeing some of the children of that school dance the Highland Fling at the May Day festivities. (Mr. Carnegie was a Scotchman, and that was one of the Scotch dances. Incidentally, in 1902, the late Andrew Carnegie, gave a contribution, large enough, to build the brick building of our own Kingston City Library, which we still enjoy.)

To go on with the story of the $100, the children and principal of that school took a vote as to what to do with that money, and 179 voted on a trip up the Hudson on the Day Line, and one voted against it. The little girl who voted against it was afraid she would be seasick, but was finally convinced that the Hudson River trip would be as smooth as the palm of one's hand. The little girls and their teachers and principal went to Newburgh and returned one fine day in June, on Mr. Carnegie's gift.

Here is an item from the 1911 booklet that may bring back memories "To the people of Rondout, Kingston and vicinity, the Day Line offers a one day trip to Mount Beacon, going by Day Line Steamer from Kingston Point and returning by steamer, "Mary Powell" from Newburgh to Rondout, in the evening at the rate of $1.45 for the round trip."

Gas Leak Blamed For House Explosion

BURNT HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—A new, unoccupied house was wrecked Tuesday night by an explosion and fire apparently caused by a gas leak.

No one was injured.

Debris was blown 50 feet by the blast, which destroyed the frame house. The building, in this Saratoga County village, was completed late in the summer and was heated.

Firemen said John Martin, 24, a backhoe operator, dislodged a gas pipe while digging a trench and the furnace apparently caused the gas to explode.

Firemen estimated the damage at $26,000.

Accept 2 Chinas In UN: Nigeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Jaja Wachuku, foreign minister of Nigeria, today called on the United Nations today to recognize the existence of two Chinas and to accept both the Nationalist and Communist governments as U.N. members.

The two-China plan was advanced by Wachuku in a speech before the 103-nation General Assembly in which he appealed to the Peiping regime to drop its demands for the expulsion of the Chinese Nationalist government and to apply for membership as a new country.

Meanwhile, a concerted Asian-African attack on the U.S. attempt to bar Red China built up steam.

Steel Output Will Hit 80 PC Capacity

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's steelmakers will hit a production rate of nearly 80 per cent of capacity later this month, The Iron Age predicted today.

The metal working weekly said output will be boosted to that level largely by heavy demand of auto manufacturers, but also by a strong pickup in general business.

Inventory building as a hedge against a possible steel strike in mid-1962 is playing a part, it said.

The steel industry currently is operating at a little over 70 per cent of capacity.

Cavanagh Will Be N. Y.'s Deputy Mayor

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr., who managed Mayor Robert F. Wagner's successful reelection campaign, will assume the post of deputy mayor on Jan. 1.

Cavanagh, appointed by Wagner Tuesday, will succeed Paul R. Screvane, who won the post of city council president in the Nov. 7 election.

Area Residents Urged to Reply To Seals Letter

In an effort to encourage all Ulster County residents to answer their Christmas Seals letters, Robert S. Russell, chairman of the Christmas Seals campaign, has designated Friday, Dec. 8 "Do-It-Day."

Christmas seals, sole support of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, went into the mail on Nov. 13.

Figures released from the Association's office in Kingston show that the County Christmas Seals returns total $17,567.92 as of December 1. The amount is slightly ahead of last year's total received on the same date. Final total in the 1960 drive was $35,390.29.

"I know," said Russell, "that many people, beset by the hustle and bustle of preparing for the holiday season, put off their Christmas Seals letter. I hope that 'Do-It-Day' will serve as a welcome reminder that the fine work being carried on by our Ulster County TB and Health Association depends upon all of us. If you haven't joined this worthwhile cause, I sincerely urge you to do so now."

Funds raised in the annual Christmas Seals campaign are used for local and state programs in the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases such as pneumonia, emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma.

Eighty-two per cent of the funds raised remain in Ulster County to finance the local Association's program which includes co-operation with the Department of Health and the TB Hospital in the annual mass X-ray surveys and use of the tuberculin test in schools; in educational and informative programs on health in disseminating health education and information; in providing patient services for the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and Ulster County Infirmaries at Kingston and New Paltz.

Of total funds raised, 12 per cent is allocated to the New York State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, and six per cent to the National Tuberculosis Association to carry on vital research and informational programs.

Freeman Pledges Program Dealing With Surpluses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A substantial legislative program dealing with surpluses and low prices for grains, dairy products and poultry is promised by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

He told a news conference Tuesday that such a program probably will be offered congress by President Kennedy in a special message early next year.

Freeman indicated that the administration has no intention of retreating from its so-called supply management policies despite opposition from some farm groups.

Under this program, various devices would be used by government and producers to balance production with demand.

It is hoped that such a program will eliminate surpluses with a consequent reduction in farm program costs and an increase in farm prices.

A GROWING NATION—Americans are not only growing in numbers but in size, as well. If trends of the past half-century continue—and advances in diet and nutrition make this likely—the average male in the year 2000 will be four inches taller and nearly 20 pounds heavier than his counterpart today. Newschart, based on statistics and predictions by a men's knitwear maker and a foundation garment manufacturer, shows how both women and men have grown taller and heavier since 1900 and 1917, respectively. Figures on men's waistlines show the same trend: 1917—28 inches; 1960—35 inches; 2000—42 inches.

Big Income Loss Seen in Dropping Of Ogdensburg

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Eliminating Ogdensburg from the northern New York area the St. Lawrence Gas Co. proposes to serve could cut St. Lawrence's income by more than $100,000 in three years, an engineer maintains.

George Carpenter, a consulting engineer, testified Tuesday at a Public Service Commission hearing on competing petitions by St. Lawrence and Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. to supply natural gas in the area.

He said St. Lawrence's income would drop from $140,000 to $25,000 in the third year if Ogdensburg were eliminated.

Niagara Mohawk seeks to serve a wider area of St. Lawrence and Jefferson counties than does St. Lawrence. Ogdensburg would be removed from the St. Lawrence franchise area if Niagara Mohawk's petition were approved.

No natural gas is available now north of Watertown.

Niagara Mohawk sells propane gas at Ogdensburg and seeks to substitute natural gas by extending its pipeline from Watertown to Ogdensburg.

The Federal Power Commission has approved St. Lawrence's request to import natural gas from Canada and has refused Niagara Mohawk's request for more natural gas from United States sources.

Niagara Mohawk proposes to purchase natural gas from Canada if the state agency approves its projected gas franchise.

NARCE Will Dine, Elect Saturday

The regular meeting of Ulster County Chapter, 461, National Association of Retired Civil Employes, will be held Saturday following a Christmas banquet at Mid-Town Chop House, Broadway and Downs Street.

Members will meet at the local restaurant at 1 o'clock for the banquet.

All will return to the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, for the regular meeting scheduled to start about 2 p. m. Election of new officers will highlight the meeting.

matter of Fact

"Doughboys" was a favorite nickname for American soldiers in World War I. During the Civil War the same nickname was applied to brass buttons on uniforms and consequently to the infantrymen who wore them. In the 17th century, however, "doughboy" did not have a military connotation but meant "dumpling."

Name Your Candidate for 'Most Annoying Noise'

BY RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The scraping of a knife against a saucepan is the most annoying sound in the world. That's right.

At least that is the conclusion reached by researchers at England's National Physical Laboratory after an exhaustive study of the effects of unpleasant noises on human beings.

Somehow, it doesn't seem possible that sound could have won first place if the scientist had tested for any of the following:

The sound of a telephone when you're in the bathtub and there's no one else in the house to answer it.

The sound of a TV housewife squealing over how light and bright her laundry is now that she has switched to the sponsor's washday product.

The sound of auto horns from cars piled up behind you when your car stalls at a traffic light.

Sound track laughter that splits its sides when the TV comedian is anything but funny.

The screech of brakes that stops the car driven by a smart aleck who roars right up to you when you are crossing a busy intersection.

The warning clap of thunder that heralds a shower just as you are ready to float out to a party in your most perishable gown.

The blood curdling whine that means one of your silver teaspoos has fallen in the garbage disposer.

The repeated buzz that means your battery is down and your car isn't going to start when you're in a rush to keep an appointment.

The long, lonely rings of an unanswered telephone when you have put in an important long distance call.

Surely NOTHING scraping against ANYTHING could be as annoying as any of these sounds to the human ear.

For sheer flavor and economy there's nothing in the world as good as a real beef stew . . . and to get the most from beef stew remember the following. A PROPER BEEF STEW SHOULD ALWAYS BE MADE IN THE MORNING. After the beef chunks are half cooked, the vegetables should be added and cooked right in the beef flavored water. A BEEF STEW SHOULD CONTAIN white potatoes, carrots, onions, turnips, just a bit of cabbage and plenty of sweet potatoes. AFTER THE STEW IS COOKED, it should be set aside to cool for it is in the reheating that the utterly delicious and completely satisfying flavor comes out.

Closed Showdown Session

Labor Chiefs Meet To Iron Out Feuds

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders called a closed showdown session today to try to compromise conflicting proposals for settling labor's internal wars.

There appeared to be at least four, and possibly more, plans advanced as systems for refereeing controversies over inter-union jurisdictional feuds.

Compromise Sought

Some compromise was sought to avoid an open fight after the AFL-CIO convention opens here Thursday with President Kennedy as the chief speaker.

With top federation leaders widely split on the various disputes settlement plans, one of the key figures in the controversy said, "It's going to be murder. Everybody's red hot over this."

Rival building trades and industrial unions have come up with separate plans. Al Hayes, Machinists Union president and the chairman of a special committee charged with framing a disputes-settlement formula, had still another proposal. George Meany, AFL-CIO president, seemed to have a fourth.

Hayes called a special meeting of his five-man group to try to come up with a single proposal. Meany arranged an afternoon session of the 29-man AFL-CIO executive Council for a further airing of differences.

Meaney, Reuther Rivals

Meany and Walter Reuther, the head of the Auto Workers Union and chief spokesman for the industrial unions, were the major rivals in the political maneuvering.

Reuther has insisted on all federation unions being compelled to accept arbitration of all job rights disputes among unions, with decisions subject to court enforcement.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff of the National Broadcasting Co. predicts for next year's TV watchers: More and better color shows, more drama and variety programs, more new writers and actors and more public affairs programs.

Sarnoff, in town for celebration of NBC's 35th anniversary, held a news conference Tuesday.

Dutchess Jurors Indict Four Men At Poughkeepsie

A Dutchess County grand jury on Tuesday handed up four indictments to County Judge John R. Schwartz.

Frank A. Williams, 32, a window washer, 441 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, who was wounded in a police chase Nov. 12, was indicted on charges of burglary third degree and attempted grand larceny first degree. He was accused of entering the Moose Club, 339 Mill Street, Poughkeepsie, Patrolman Stanley Dahowski shot Williams in the right leg as the defendant attempted to escape.

Andrell Nelson, 19, of 88 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, was indicted on charges of robbery first degree, assault second degree, conspiracy and grand larceny first degree. Nelson was accused of hitting Donald Losee, 24, of 174 Mill St. Poughkeepsie and taking his wallet last October.

Marine Timothy Eugene Shea, 18, formerly of Poughkeepsie, was indicted on charges of grand larceny first degree, robbery first degree and second degree assault. Police accused Shea of pointing a pellet gun at James P. Kearney, 25, of Beacon, and taking his 1961 car and wallet containing $4 last month.

Peter William Smith, 36, of 217 Union Street, Poughkeepsie, was indicted on charges of grand larceny second degree and forgery second degree. Smith is accused of forging and cashing a $103 check in Poughkeepsie Oct. 26.

Reforms to Clear Way for Extra Aid to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of South Viet Nam has agreed to internal reforms, clearing the way for more U.S. aid in the Southeast Asian nation's battle against Communist guerrillas.

Officials said Tuesday President Ngo Dinh Diem had agreed to the reforms after several weeks of negotiations with U.S. Ambassador Frederick Nolting Jr.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, military adviser to President Kennedy, toured South Viet Nam in October. He reportedly recommended that before any U.S. increase in military and economic assistance, President Diem should be prevailed upon to make some internal reforms.

Collie Wins Keep

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Dixon, 9, repeatedly egged his father to allow Anne, the family pet collie, to stay in the house. A few days Nixon gave in.

Tuesday night when Dixon was home alone, taking a nap, Annie jumped on his chest and woke him minutes before the house went up in flames.

"There isn't anybody who could get together enough money to buy that dog," Dixon said.

BLOOMINGTON VOLS HD

Election of officers for 1962 highlighted the monthly meeting Tuesday night of the Bloomington Fire Co. Inc., during which Fred Sauer, incumbent president, agreed to resume that office another year after a unanimous draft was approved by the members.

Sauer has served as the company president for 15 years.

Others re-elected were: Warren Prandoni, vice president; Herb Faurote, treasurer; Joseph Hafner, secretary; Oscar Hahn, chief, and the Rev. Richard Brown of the Bloomington Church, chaplain.

Otto Loekle was reelected a director for a term of three years. Charles Petersen was appointed director of publicity for 1962.

Chief Hahn will name line officers of the department at the January meeting.

Charles Peterson, chairman of the committee, announced that the third of a series of round and square rances sponsored jointly by the Bloomington and Rosendale Fire Companies would be held this Saturday evening at the Bloomington firehouse. Festivities will begin at 9 p. m. with music once more being supplied by Floyd Barringer and his band. Peterson made it a point to specify that these dances are not limited to any particular age group and everyone is welcome to attend. Refreshments will be available and there is plenty of parking available on the grounds. Aiding on the committee will be Herb Faurote, Joseph Hafner, Leslie Evory, John Markle. Howard Slover will be in charge of traffic.

Chief Hahn reported one fire in the district during November. On November 22, the old, abandoned Catholic Church in Whiteport was destroyed by fire. The cornerstone of the building was laid in 1896 and it was dedicated as St. Patrick's chapel. After its desanctification by the Archdiocese about 20 years ago, the building changed hands many times being used mostly as a warehouse. The present leasees had been making arrangements to use the cellar to cultivate mushrooms when the fire broke out and spread. When finally brought under control by the six companies fighting the blaze, only the brick walls remained, spelling the end of another area landmark.

President Sauer announced that the organization's annual Christmas party for the children of the district would be held this year on Saturday, December 16 at 2 p. m. at the firehouse. Sauer stated that this year's affair will feature movies, games and prizes culminated by a visit by Santa Claus with gifts for all children present. All children of the district are invited to attend this annual party. Admission always is free. The Bloomington fire district includes Bloomington, Maple Hill, Eddyville, Whiteport, Creek Locks, DeWitt-Mills Road to the Hurley town line and Route 32 north to the city line.

In order to raise funds for the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention to be sponsored by Bloomington and the Town of Rosendale Volunteer Firemen's Association in 1964, Herb Faurote, past president of the Town Association and current second vice president of the county association has stated that a combined five fire company bazaar will be held on the grounds of St. Peter's R. C. Church in Rosendale on July 6 and 7, 1962.

The companies involved are Bloomington, Rosendale, Tillson, Cottekill and Binenwater. Faurote stated that Charles Peterson of Bloomington has been appointed general chairman of the affair to be assisted by a committee from each company. As soon as plans are formulated, they will be announced.

President Sauer announced that plans are now under way for a pre-Lenten buffet style supper and dance at the Alpine Restaurant on Saturday evening, March 3, 1962. He also stated that plans are being formulated for a 15th anniversary celebration of the dedication of the firehouse. June 3, 1962 will mark the anniversary. He stated that an open house and many other events will be scheduled for that time.

After a prayer led by the chaplain, refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned until January 2, 1962 at 8 p. m.

Completes Course

Army Pfc. Anthony J. Scarselli, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Scarselli, Route 4, Saugerties, recently completed a five-week traffic accident prevention course conducted by the Military Police Department, U. S. Army School, Europe, in Oberammergau, Germany. A policeman in the 202d Military Police Company in Chinon, France, Scarselli entered the Army in October 1960, completed basic training at Fort Benning, Ga., and was stationed at Fort Gordon, Ga., before arriving overseas last March. He is a 1956 graduate of Saugerties High School.

Court Pays Honor To the Memory Of Fred W. Bruhn

At the opening of the December trial term of Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth, presiding justice, paid tribute to Fred W. Bruhn, Supreme Court stenographer, who died November 27.

In his remarks Justice Elsworth said it was seldom that recognition beyond the area of the judiciary or members of the bar is taken by the court but in this instance Fred W. Bruhn had been so much a part of the courts of this county and as Supreme Court reporter throughout the Third Judicial District, that he felt it fitting and proper to place upon the record of the court a tribute to his memory.

Fred W. Bruhn had served as grand jury stenographer and as Ulster County Court stenographer prior to becoming a Supreme Court stenographer, a position which he held at the time of his death.

A well known figure in local sports for many years and later as a judicial figure, Justice Elsworth paid a high tribute to his services. The remarks of Justice Elsworth will become a part of the court record.

Dutchess Phone Hike Approved

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today granted the New York Telephone Co. a rate increase and permission to establish toll-free service Dec. 17 between North Clove and its exchange in Millbrook and the Sylvan Lake Telephone Co. exchange at Hopewell Junction, Dutchess County.

New York Telephone said higher exchange rates would produce approximately $2,100 a year in additional revenue. The loss in toll revenues between the exchanges would cost about $1,600 annually, it said.

Policy to Cover Carefree Yule Shoppers in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Think you might get maimed in the Christmas shopping rush?

A travel insurance agency here — California Secure-Ur-Trip — has made provisions for it. A spokesman said Tuesday some of the agency's policy-vending machines will issue a $1 policy paying up to $5,000 to holders who lose life, sight or limb in holiday bargain-basement brawls.

Hunter, 80, Is Safe; Cut Off by Snow

SALISBURY CENTER, N.Y. (AP)—An 80-year-old hunter, who became separated Tuesday from his companions during a snow storm, was found early today in Adirondacks woodlands, apparently in good condition.

Jacob Miosek Sr. of Little Falls was found about 1 a.m. by his son, Jacob Jr., and another hunter in the Jerseyfield Lake area nine miles north of here. They did not emerge from the forests until about 6 a.m., however, because of difficult traveling.

Miosek, a veteran hunter, was reported missing Tuesday afternoon.

Passes Up Illinois Senate Race

Bigger Policy Role to Keep Stevenson in Assembly Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —With President Kennedy's "delighted" approval and promise of a bigger part in U.S. foreign policy, Adlai E. Stevenson decided Tuesday to remain at his United Nations post and to pass up an Illinois race for the U.S. Senate.

Stevenson disclosed last Saturday that he was considering running for the seat held by Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican Senate leader, at the request of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

His decision to continue as chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations surprised political experts who believed Stevenson had not been in full agreement with some of the Kennedy administration's foreign policies. It was understood that in exchange for his agreement to remain, Kennedy would consult him more often.

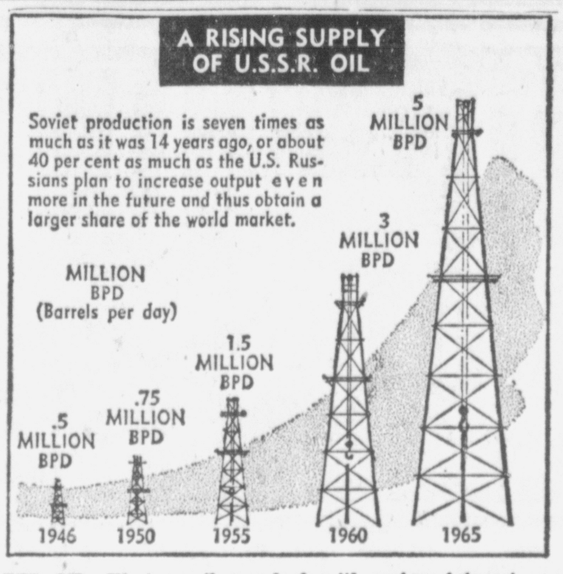
The former Illinois governor, twice an unsuccessful Democratic presidential nominee, announced his decision as Kennedy flew to New York for a speaking visit.

"I have today informed Mayor Daley of Chicago that I cannot be the Democratic candidate for the Senate," Stevenson said. "In recent conferences, the President has greatly reinforced my view that I can best serve him and the country in the field of foreign policy. I am most grateful for the good will of my party leaders in Illinois and am mindful of the great honor they have done me."

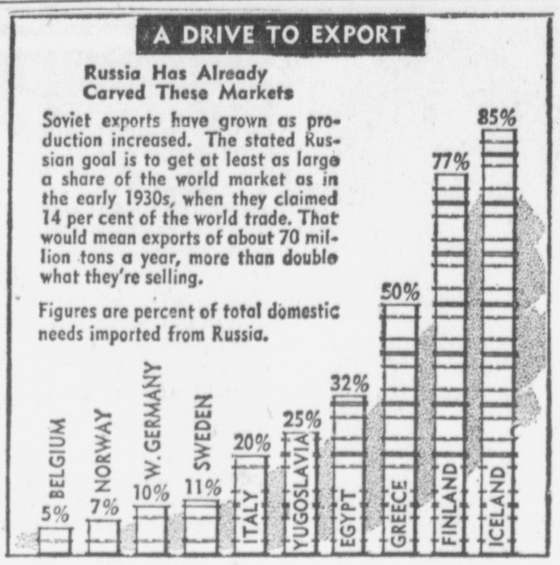
Kennedy, who discussed the matter with Stevenson twice last weekend, issued this statement: "I am delighted at Gov. Stevenson's decision. I expressed to him this weekend my emphatic hope that he would continue at the United Nations and play an expanding role in the making and execution of our foreign policy.

"I believe that his work is vital to the cause of peace and of top importance to the country."

Press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to clarify the President's reference to Stevenson's "expanding" foreign policy role.



RED OIL—Western oil men look with serious interest on Russia's current expansion of her oil producing capacity. In 1950, the U.S. produced seven times as much oil as Russia; in 1960, it was less than 2½ times as much. Plans call for the U.S.S.R. to export 900,000 barrels a day by 1965. The fear is that the Soviets intend to flood the world market, undercutting prices, as a form of economic and political warfare. Data in chart is from the Ohio Oil Company.



FUEL FOR POWER—Newschart shows the importance of oil exports to Russian plans for economic power. Though her share of the world trade is small—4.5 per cent—Russia is already offering some oil at cut-rate prices, an attempt according to some to obtain an economic stranglehold on other nations. The loss is made up by selling oil at inflated prices to the satellites. The U.S.S.R. plans to boost its present 14,000 miles of pipelines to 70,000 miles by 1975.

Wallace Company To Merge With Other Big Firm

Officials of the Wallace Company Department store, which is building a branch in the Town of Ulster, made known Tuesday that two controlling companies—Forbes and Wallace Inc., and Consolidated Dry Goods Co., both of Springfield, Mass., plan to merge.

The merger is expected to become effective Jan. 27, 1962, providing greater strength to support expansion plans of the Wallace chain, officials said.

The combined annual sales volume of the concerns is in excess of $25,000,000.

The chain operates stores in Poughkeepsie, Springfield, Northampton, Mass., Holyoke, Mass., Schenectady and North Adams, Mass.

Andrew B. Wallace 3rd, president of the company, noted the fact that a Wallace Company branch store is now being built in the Town of Ulster, near Kingston.

Forbes and Wallace Inc., the new name of the controlling company, owns land in Springfield, on which the company proposes to build a suburban branch.

Wallace and Forbes Co., which operates the largest department store in Springfield, has had the controlling interest in Consolidated Dry Goods Co. and has been active in its management for many years, Wallace said.

The company president said the plan is subject to approval of the stockholders of both companies at meetings scheduled for Jan. 15, 1962.

"The plan will make possible better use of financial resources in the expansion of the combined business, and provide a broader base from which to operate," Wallace said.

No Commies Allowed In Tampa Housing

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Tampa housing authority has tied the can to tenants who refuse to sign a non-Communist oath.

Authority director Thomas Dyer said his agency is requiring heads of family to sign an oath that they are not members of the Communist party. If they don't, said Dyer, out they go. Or if they are applicants for future housing, they don't get in.

Overwhelming Lesson Since Pearl Harbor

Earth People Find Quicker, Easier Ways to Kill Selves

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If an outer-space psychiatrist had been watching earth people these past 20 years, he might conclude: "Get them a doctor; they look disturbed."

Thursday, 20 years after Pearl Harbor, earth people who were in a dreadful mess then are in an awful mess now, although now they're not shooting at each other, except for here and there. But they're prepared to shoot, and they tell each other so.

No Solution in Sight

There's no solution in sight. As President Kennedy said when he took office, there may be none in our lifetime.

In these 20 years the most overwhelming lesson earth people have learned is how to kill themselves quicker and easier. They've graduated from TNT bombs to nuclear ones, from hitting a railroad center to wiping out cities.

Only an outer-space man, with an upside-down look at the earth, could appreciate how down-side up it is.

Old friends have become new enemies. Old enemies are new friends. Capitalism and communism, which had not trouble teaming up to wipe out fascism, now, when there's no one else to fight, can't bear each other.

Cave Days Return

Half the history of mankind was spent in learning how to get out of caves and live in the open. Now mankind is building new caves, called bomb shelters, in his back yard, just in case.

Russia, which proclaims its communism, isn't Communist at all and probably never will be. Communism means giving to each according to his needs. In Russia there's a caste system, with the elite living highest off the hog.

The Soviets, who call themselves a people's democracy, don't practice it and don't want it. They don't permit the people free elections or, for that matter, anything to say about their government.

The United States, which prides itself on its free enterprise system, practices it only in a limited way and it isn't entirely free at all.

The government has to bail out the farmers with price supports, helps various enterprises with subsidies, puts up tariff walls because it dreads outside competition and puts all kinds of restrictions on business.

Just Cleared Decks

And this country, where every 4th of July orators pay homage to the Declaration of Independence which says all men are equal, had slavery for almost half its existence and still discriminates against people, and segregates them, because of race.

Earth people, seen in a 20-year backward look, felt at the time that in defeating Hitler's Axis that they were cleansing the world, giving it a new and innocent birth.

But, as events showed, they only cleared the decks for a longer and perhaps more deadly struggle between the West and communism.

On Pearl Harbor Day in 1941 communism was limited to about 140 million, almost all within the Russian frontiers. Today, although Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson says this country is winning the cold war, there are one billion people, one-third the earth's population, living under communism.

Began Before Struggle

This struggle between capitalism and communism began before their joint war against fascism was over — when Stalin's armies took and held the satellite nations in Europe.

Within five years of the war's end—by 1950—the West had set up a new military alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, against its old friend and new enemy, Russia, which set up the Warsaw Pact, a Communist military alliance, against the West.

In old-fashioned wars like the last big one, which stretched over six years, there were 37½ million casualties, at least 8½ million of them killed. But now scientists debate whether in a new war a nuclear attack will wipe out 50 million.

True, there's a lot more of everything and everyone. In this country 20 years ago there were only 133 million people and 170 million in Russia. But now there are 185 million here and 220 million there.

The Russians are ahead in space development — they've hit the moon with a rocket and sent two men into orbit around the earth—but this country is trying to catch up, and may well do so.

Old Age Possible . . IF

Whether any of this will add to man's ability to get along with himself on earth is highly doubtful unless, in his further interstellar explorations, he gets into a war with another planet and has to team up here, perhaps only temporarily, to survive.

And, if the inability of communism and capitalism to get along on this planet were not enough, 42 new nations have come into existence since Pearl Harbor, which just adds to the confusion. Still, there is still some consolation from these 20 years. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says an American's life expectancy in that time has risen from 64 to 69 years, which is nice to think about, if he can make it.

SWEETY PIE By Nadine Seltzer

"Pull your shade down for a minute! I hear my mother coming!"

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Paramount and Warner Bros. are supplying their own brand of cheer for the holiday season-films from early Tennessee Williams works.

They may be early, but the standard Tennesseans are all there: the frustrated, middle-aging women, the sex-minded, insensitive younger men, the dotty mothers, the stern fathers, the rapacious townspeople.

You know—the kind of people you meet in everyday life.

"The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" is the more artful of the two offerings. It was adapted from Williams' early (1937) and only novel, which somehow anticipated "La Dolce Vita."

Flaming Romance

Mrs. Stone is a fiftyish, widowed stage star who goes to Rome to forget or find herself or something. She gets involved with a crone who acts as a kind of casting agent between Roman boys and rich, middleaged American women. The result: a flaming romance between Mrs. Stone and the twentyish, no-good Paolo.

The flaw in the fable is Vivien Leigh, but only because she is so good. One cannot imagine a woman of her beauty, taste and sensibility throwing the key to her apartment to a youthful stranger.

Warren Beatty is somewhat more articulate than he was in "Splendor in the Grass." But no actor can preserve much grace in the role of a gigolo, especially when handicapped with a phony accent.

Scenery Major Asset

The major assets of the film are some striking shots of Roman scenery and the promise shown by Jose Quintero, already one of Broadway's best directors.

The other entry in the holiday festival is "Summer and Smoke," which offers the more native Williams. The film smells of cornpone and magnolia, along with musty lavender.

In this one, the heroine gets kissed and sighs, "I'm beginning to feel like a water lily on a Chinese lagoon." She usually prefaces her remarks by "I do declare," and her lifelong next-door neighbor calls her "Miss Alma." He scoffs at her aloofness and declares, "There's another person inside you, dying to be freed."

Same Ending for Two

If you have been exposed to the Tennessean art, you may feel you have covered this territory before. You're right. Though Geraldine Page is a gifted actress, there's little she can do to make the cheerless old maid interesting either to the young doctor next door or to the movie patron.

Nor can Laurence Harvey do much with the doctor, who turns from libertine to idealist in an unconvincing conversion. Best of the bunch is Una Merkel as the mother with a passion for ice cream cones and kleptomania. She seems almost the normal one.

Both films end with the same scene. The Misses Leigh and Page throw themselves into the arms of lads they don't even know. What all this proves, I don't know.

Rusk Office Says Jets For Tito Benefit U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department describes the sale of 278 jet aircraft to Yugoslavia as beneficial to the United States because the planes help the Yugoslavs maintain their independence from Moscow.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., today made public a letter in which Brook Hays, as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, asserted "it is clear that Yugoslavia's independence and resistance to Soviet imperialism have directly benefited the United States."

The letter, dated Nov. 28, was in reply to Tower's request for a recapitulation of the history of the Yugoslav aid program. The senator said there had been complaints from his state against the sale and against the training of Yugoslav pilots in Texas in the use of the jets.

Hays said the contract for sale of the jet aircraft was signed last March after approval by both the State and Defense departments on the grounds it was in accordance with the best interest of the United States.

He said the aircraft are outdated from the standpoint of U.S. military needs and any assumption that they have any strategic significance to this country is illfounded.

Since the date of the letter, Hays has been shifted from the State Department to President Kennedy's White House staff.

Mexico Visit Is Possible for JFK

NEW YORK (AP) —President Kennedy has in mind a trip to Mexico. It was learned today he is likely to visit there in late January.

Both governments are understood to have discussed the possibility of a unity visit, but no concrete plans have yet materialized.

The best guess is that, unless unexpected developments interfere, Kennedy will fly to Mexico City or some other point in Mexico toward the end of January.

This would time Kennedy's visit after the meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers scheduled for Jan. 10 to explore measures aimed at the Communist threat of Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba to other Latin American lands.

The Organization of American States voted 14-2 this week to hold such a conference. Mexico joined Cuba in opposition, citing jurisdictional reasons.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy will visit Colombia and Venezuela Dec. 16 and 17 on a trip designed to dramatize U.S. interest in the Alliance for Progress program to raise Latin American living standards and achieve social reforms.

Three Die . . .

Francis Donnelly of the Millbrook barracks.

Howard W. Travis, 47, of Hyde Park operator of the bus, owned by the Hyde Park Central Schools, apparently escaped unharmed. State Police were of the opinion that Horton was blinded by the sun and failed to see the bus come to a halt.

State police of the Rhinebeck barracks reported that at 8:05 p. m. Tuesday, a foreign sports car operated by Donald Junceau, 18, of Staatsburg, traveling west on Route 199 in Red Hook crossed the highway, rode about 60 feet along the left shoulder and then pjlunged down a five-foot embankment, ramming a concrete culvert and tree. Junceau was killed instantly, according to Dr. William Thompson of Rhinebeck, medical examiner. A passenger in his car, Michael Chandler, 21, of Red Hook, was rushed to Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck suffering from a fractured elbow multiple lacerations of the body and a possible fractured spine. His condition was reported as fair today. The accident was investigated by Trooper Jerry Pine of the Rhinebeck barracks. The car is owned by Formula Two, Inc., of North Road, Poughkeepsie.

The third fatality occurred on Route 100 near the Taconic Parkway in Westchester County when an American compact car, operated by Stephen E. Tilson Jr., 44, of Wheeler Drive, Peekskill, hit a rock on the right hand side of the highway, state police of the Putnam Valley barracks, reported.

The said that the Tilson vehicle flipped over and landed on its top pinning the Peekskill man in it. Then it burst into flames. Dr. Caroline Lydecker, who is conducting a post-mortem, said Tilson apparently died of a crushed skull and burns. Trooper Robert Sherman of the Putnam Valley state police barracks investigated.

In the town of Rosendle in Ulter County an automobile operated by John Napoli, 18, of Rosendale ran into the rear of a school bus, operted by Roy Webber of Stone Ridge, which had halted on Route 213 in Rosendale to discharge pupils. John's brother, Lawrence Napoli, 16, was riding with him. Both boys suffered cuts on the head and were admitted to Benedictine Hospital, where today their conditions are fair.

According to Trooper Robert Mackey of the Kingston Barracks, who investigated, the Napoli boy came over the rise of a hill and apparently was blinded by the sun and failed to see the bus.

In another Ulster County mishap, Hugh Mulligan, 44, of Woodstock hit a culvert on Route 212, in the town of Saugerties. He was arrested by Troopers Richard Ryan and Harry Saunders on a charge of being an unlicensed operator. He was fined $50 by Justice of Peace Glenford Myers of Saugerties. Mulligan was treated by Dr. Kenneth M. Bremer of Woodstock for a lacerated forehead.

JFK for Tariff

with France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Neither, Kennedy said, does he propose "that in setting new policies on imports we do away altogether with our traditional safe guards and institutions." He said tariffs can be used to cushion the effects on competitive U.S. industries instead of solely to shut out competition from abroad.

Moreover, he said, the federal government can help affected companies, workers and communities. He told the industrialists he would have more to say on that subject when he addresses the AFL-CIO in Miami Beach, Fla., Thursday.

Tip Off to Labor

Kennedy tipped off organized labor that he also would stress in his AFL-CIO speech "its responsibility for price stability" to enable the United States to compete on world markets.

The President acknowledged that his new policy would increase imports but said exports would mount even more. "And we need those imports if other nations are to have the money to buy our exports and the incentive to lower their tariff barriers," he said.

Kennedy made clear that he would press for his administration's proposals to stimulate investment in new equipment by giving tax credits and to close tax loopholes which encourage businessmen to send capital abroad.

At the same time, he said his administration has no thought of "imposing exchange controls, devaluing the dollar, raising trade barriers or choking off our economic recovery."

Kennedy set forth his ideas on global economic fitness after encouraging his countrymen to pay more attention to their own physical fitness.

That was his theme in a speech Tuesday night at the annual banquet of the National Football Foundation. Eight famed players and two distinguished coaches of the past were inducted into the Hall of Fame, and Kennedy found himself rising from the obscurity of Harvard's junior varsity—as he recalled his playing days—to honorary membership in the circle of grid greats.

Drops In on Relatives

Kennedy dropped in on a gathering of relatives and friends in a Park Avenue apartment for an hour or so after the football banquet. The hostess was Mrs. John Fell, widow of an industrialist, who visited the Kennedys at Newport, R.I., last summer.

Two of the President's sisters, Eunice Shriver and Pat Lawford, were there with their husbands. Peter Lawford is the film and television actor. Sargent Shriver heads the Peace Corps. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spalding of New York and Christopher Dunphy, a retired businessman who plays golf with Kennedy at Palm Beach.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery by the savings and loan shares and a firm tone among aircraft-missiles highlighted a mixed stock market early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 at 265.70 with industrials down .50, rails up .10 and utilities down .40.

Most key stocks showed gains or losses of fractions to about a point. The badly battered savings and loans rebounded from fractions to about 4 points as traders picked them up at depressed prices.

The aircraft-missiles were bolstered by a news report that the Pentagon is understood to want $51 billion in appropriations for the next siscal year compared with an estimated $47 billion in defense spending in the current fiscal year. The fighting in Katanga underlined the importance of preparedness.

A moderate recovery by the electrical equipment stocks and an advance by Big Three motors as reports came of higher auto sales were other features. Steels, tobaccos, drugs and chemicals were mostly lower.

Financial Federation gained more than 4 points while San Diego Imperial came back fractionally. Recoveries exceeding 2 were made by United Financial and First Charter Financial. Great Western Financial recouped more than 1.

Douglas Aircraft, up more than 1, showed the best response to the Pentagon news.

Chrysler, up more than 1, was the star among the big automakers. General Motors gained about 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .33 at 730.98.

LIBRARY OF SCHUYLER HOUSE, built in 1859 according to deigns made by Daniel Webster, is one of more than 20 rooms which will be redecorated to accommodate women students at Bard College. The historic site was built in 1859 and its visitors included such notables as George Washington, Lafayette and other top government officials. (Sass photo).

Historic Schuyler

ed into apartments for faculty and staff housing.

Commenting on the gift of this property to the college, President Kline stated:

"We are most grateful to Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hoffman for their splendid gift to Bard College. Schuyler House represents one of the principal additions to plant and capital received by the college in recent years. The historic associations of the property make particularly appropriate its use for the educational purposes of a liberal arts college. Fortunately, the building is almost perfectly suited for residence of women students, because of the charm of its setting and grounds, its fine furnishings and gracious atmosphere, and its unusual number of small rooms which make ideal student 'singles.' Having this new facility means not only that we shall be able to accommodate 35 to 40 additional students next year, but that the students housed in Schuyler House will occupy one of the most beautiful and historic buildings in the Hudson Valley."

GIs Cross Over Autobahn Again Without Hitch

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army reported that an infantry company left Berlin today over the 110-mile autobahn connecting West Berlin with West Germany and cleared Soviet controls without a hitch. It was another in a series of almost daily U.S. troop movements—despite Soviet complaints—over the superhighway through Communist East Germany.

The move through East Germany to the West German border at Helmstedt was completed without incident, Army officials reported.

The unit which travelled the autobahn today had been stationed in Berlin temporarily, replacing a company of the regular garrison which had gone to West Germany for field training.

Forward units of the 1st Battle Group, 19th Infantry, are scheduled to make the eastward trip from the Helmstedt border checkpoint to West Berlin Thursday. The 1,500-man force will replace a battle group which was rushed to Berlin after East Germany started building its wall dividing the city last August.

Rutland Asks ICC For Authority to Abandon RR Line

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — Directors of the Rutland Railway Corp. have petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon the strike-bound line.

Corporation counsel Thomas W. Lynch said today the petition, sent to Washington on Monday, will have no effect on the forthcoming state-sponsored survey of the troubled line.

Gov. Keyser announced Tuesday that a New York consulting firm has been retained to undertake a $10,000 survey of the Rutland. One of the purposes of the study will be to prepare state objections to the proposed abandonment, Keyser said.

Glenn's Orbital Shot Scheduled Early '62

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first U.S. attempt to send a man into orbit was scheduled today for early January.

The postponement until after the Christmas holidays was announced by the space agency which already has assigned astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. for the attempt to orbit a Mercury capsule.

Previously the hope had been to make the manned shot this year, perhaps as early as Dec. 20.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the next Mercury orbital launch definitely will be a manned flight, ruling out any more tests with animals.

Space officials had worked hard to try to get the U.S. orbital shot off during 1961 in order to achieve that goal in the same year as the Soviet Union.

The announcement said that, based upon all available data including a preliminary analysis of the recent orbital flight of the chimpanzee Enos, "it appears no further animal or unmanned flights are needed before attempting the specific Mercury mission —manned orbital flight."

The agency added:

"Analysis of the Mercury-Atlas chimpanzee flight performance and postflight physical condition of Enos, together with detailed study of the spacecraft, booster and tracking network operation, confirms that the Mercury-Atlas system is ready for manned orbital flight.

"Final preparations for MA6—Mercury-Atlas Shot No. 6—are progressing satisfactory for a launch attempt early next year.

"As announced earlier, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. will be the pilot for the first manned Mercury orbital flight attempt with astronaut M. Scott Carpenter acting as his backup pilot."

Glenn is a Marine Corps captain.

Blowby Devices Due on '63 Cars To Cut Pollution

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry agreed today to equip all new cars and trucks with anti-air pollution devices starting with the 1963 model year.

The action came less than four months after Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, told the industry to come up with a voluntary solution or face congressional action.

The board of directors of the Automobile Manufacturers Association today recommended positive crankcase ventilation systems, often called blowby devices.

Such devices have been installed on all new cars offered for sale in California since the start of the 1961 model year.

Blowby fumes are gases that slip by the pistons during the combustion process. Normally they are drawn into the air by the movement of the car.

The positive ventilation system recirculates these vapors from the crankcase back into the engine.

The system used is manufactured by the AC Spark Plug Division of General Motors. It is the only one so far certified by the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board.

Such a device normally adds from $4.50 to $6.50 to the price of a car.

The AMA board said tests by the U.S. Public Service had shown blowby devices on new cars and trucks nationally would be beneficial in reducing community air polution.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

ROGER E. SPEAR

Takes Friends Advice, Then Takes a Beating

Q) "I bought Bevis Shell Homes, Jamesbury, Birtcher Corp,. Capehart Corp., National Telepix, Houston Fearless, and Shield Chemical Ltd., all on friends' advice. What should I do to get out of this bad situation where my losses now total 40 per cent? Should I "even out" by purchasing more of these stocks at low prices or should I sell them all and take a beating? If I sell, what should I buy with what's left?" T. P.

A) Our friends always mean well but they're very rarely the best source of investment advice. I'm extremely sorry that you've taken such a beating. Your experience has been pretty costly but perhaps not too much so if you've learned the danger of haphazard buying, particularly in low-priced stocks. I do not advise you to "even out"—or average down—the cost of your holdings. Not all of them are bad, but I believe that any new money you have should be placed in securities of higher quality.

I would certainly retain Jamesbury, which in my opinion is your best holding and one that should continue to show recovery. Of the balance, the two that seem to me to have the greatest speculative appeal are Birtcher and Houston Fearless, and I would hold them. I suggest that you sell the rest and put the proceeds into Fairmont Foods and Colgate-Palmolive. Over a period of time these stocks might very well make up your losses.

Q) "What do prominent newscasters mean when they report that 'stocks rose 2½ points'?" W. B.

A) They mean that the market—as measured by the widely followed Dow-Jones Industrial Average—rose 2½ points. While a 2½-point jump in most individual stocks would be meaningful, it is much less so with the Dow which is now well over 700—where a 2½-point gain represents an advance of less than one-half of 1 per cent.

Democrats Are

Kingston, and expressed confidence in my dedication to the responsibilities that come with the office of mayor.

Hopes They'll Remember

"I hope that the Democratic majority in the Common Council shall accept the will of the people for the four short weeks remaining until I take office, and permit me the courtesy of assuming my post without imposing heavy new financial burdens on the city in the last minutes of their legislative responsibility.

"I assure all the members of the present Common Council that my desire to achieve the best possible municipal services for all segments of our population at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayers, has been strengthend by intensive planning since election day.

"I ask only that I, like any other mayor-elect in the history of Kingston, be permitted to prepare for the start of my administration without the imposition of additional financial committments between election day and the new year.

Salute to Perry

"My best wishes to you Sam in your retirement from public office after 12 years of outstanding public service as alderman. Your judgement and voice as minority leader in the next Common Council will be sorely missed."

Republican alderman emphasized last month that the Schwenk plan would not require removal of properties from the assessment roll. Details of the uptown parking plan have not been revealed by the special committee, but its understood that North Front Street buildings would be razed to provide access and egress to the proposed parking area on the North side of the street at points between Fair and Converse Streets.

Democratic aldermen last month asked for a report on the Schwenk plan, but the mayor-elect held it would be presumptuous of him to reveal it until he takes office.

Finds Public Opposition

Alderman Davis said he had conducted a survey on the parking proposal and found most persons with whom he talked opposed to it.

Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, chairman of the special committee on the fallout shelter proposal indicated last month that the committee would ask for money at last night's meeting. He indicated last night, however, that because of the lack of detailed estimates, the committee was required to postpone its plans.

Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th Ward, majority leader, in announcing the recessed meeting, said it would be for consideration of unsettled claims as requested by Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly. He indicated later, however, that the aldermen would probably act also on off-street parking.

Tshombe Returning

In Paris, Katanga President Moise Tshombe said Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba had informed him U.N. troops had attacked Katanga forces in Manono, 275 miles north of Elisabethville, and the fighting in Katanga apparently had become general. Tshombe said he would leave for Katanga today.

More than 40 dead were reported from the fighting so far, but there was no possibility of an accurate count.

Heavy fighting was reported around the old airport just northwest of the city, where U.N. troops apparently were trying to clear out dug-in Katangan paratroopers. Correspondents David Halberstam of the New York Times and Virgil Berger of Reuters were holed up in a villa near there, cut off since Tuesday afternoon.

Fighting Nearer Capital

Late reports indicated that the center of fighting was moving nearer to Elisabethville.

Sporadic rifle and mortar fire had continued through the night, breaking an uneasy silence which fell on Elisabethville early in the evening after the new outbreak of hostilities.

The International Red Cross representative charged that U.N. troops were firing on Red Cross ambulances. A local Red Cross official, Andre Roey, reported a mortar shell hit a truck evacuating women and children from a police camp and that two children were killed and 14 women injured.

The Katanga Red Cross appealed for a short armistice to evacuate the dead and wounded, but there was no immediate response from the U.N. command.

Five hundred Swedish reinforcements reportedly arrived in Elisabethville Tuesday night, bringing the total Swedish contingent in the area to two battalions. The United Nations has about 6,000 troops in all of Katanga. The Katanga government's total force of police and soldiers number about 12,000.

Letters from Mayor Radel announced reappointment of George E. Yerry Jr., of 133 Highland Avenue to the Kingston Housing Authority and of appointment of Ernest L. Smith, 50 Westbrook Place, as weights and measures inspector.

Alderman Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward, was more than a little bit late for last night's meeting, but when he arrived he was congratulated by the councilmen and others as the father of a newly arrived daughter who was born at Kingston Hospital shortly before 7 p. m.

Wagner Program

Sen. Lawrence M. Rulison of Syracuse said he was amazed that Democrats held a public hearing in Rochester Tuesday on proposed legislation.

Rulison said the Democratic party never before had exhibited interest in Upstate problems.

He said Democrats "committed to Mayor Wagner's soak-the-upstaters fiscal program...which would siphon off (Upstaters') hardearned tax dollars to pay the bill for the wasteful and prodigal Wagner administration."

Africa Is Topic At Monday Club

"Our Stake in Africa" was the program presented by Miss Jane Ziegler to the members of the Saugerties Monday Club when they met this week at the home of Mrs. Henry Hartley, Finger Street. Mrs. Milton Armstrong, president, presided at the business meeting when the Christmas observances for the club were discussed.

Miss Ziegler's informative talk was given, in part, as follows: "Africa which used to be known as the dark continent has now seen the light and is dazzled by it—dazzled by being the focus of world attention—by the prospect of freedom, and its ability to oppose those who considered themselves superior.

"We have much at stake in Africa — our prestige in the United Nations — our need for trade agreements — our use of many of her products and the growing investments by American business interests.

"Besides the great need for education and hygiene in Africa it is necessary for Africa to give up her devotion to tribalism and her faith in black magic, to which many intelligent leaders still subscribe. Our government is giving financial aid in many ways and individual doctors, teachers and missionaries at personal sacrifice are striving to lead the African to a better and richer life. The Peace Corps should convince Africa of our sincerity."

The club will meet with Mrs. Joseph Raincar, Finger Street, Dec. 11.

Lutheran Activities

Fifteen cartons weighing 770 pounds of used clothing contributed by the members of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor, were shipped to Lutheran World Relief for distribution in 17 countries of critical need. The church through Lutheran World Relief and Lutheran World Service is carrying on programs of milk and food distribution, job training, medical and hospital programs in Korea, Hong Kong, Chile and the Holy Land.

Children of the Sunday school for the last nine weeks have been bringing useful articles for children in other lands. Sixty-one kits were completed and shipped to Lutheran World Relief. It is expected that an additional ten will also be sent.

Plan Yule Party

The Lutheran Women of Atonement will hold their December meeting, Thursday, Dec. 14th at 8:00 p. m. Business meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Hubert Legg, Finger Street, president of the organization.

The program How to Make Christmas Music, a skit, will be presented by members of the group directed by Mrs. George Hano, of Second Street. All women of the parish may attend. Those attending are to bring a gift for exchange.

Carols of many nations will be sung by the group. Refreshments will be served by a committee composed of Mrs. Lyman Wynkoop of Elm Street, Mrs. Paul Tracey of Main Street, Mrs. Merlin Snyder of Robinson Street and Mrs. Roy Weber of Mt. Marion Park.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held.

The group is the only women's organization of the congregation and was formed by a merger of Mission Guild (ULCW), Ladies Aid and the Amicitia. The group has a program of study of topics that are church related, as well as missionary subjects, are responsible for programs of social welfare, visiting shut-ins, making of bed pads and bed jackets for institutions, and supplying material aids to groups. The group also assists in the conduct of dinners such as mother-daughter, father-son, annual meeting and stewardship.

A quarterly thank-offering is received which goes to the greater work of the church for home, foreign and social welfare missions of the church, as well as a percentage of regular offerings. A portion of the regular offerings go for the expenses of the organization and for projects of the congregation.

27 Machines Are Stolen, Used on Auto Licenses

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A state spokesman said today the theft of 27 validating machines in Babylon, L.I., Tuesday night could mean wholesale issuance of false registrations for motor vehicles.

The machines, which are about 8 inches high, bear a stamp about 1½ inches wide that prints the official state seal and a special code to validate registrations.

A safe containing the machines was broken into at the Suffolk County clerk's office in Babylon.

A spokesman for the State Motor Vehicle Department said the thief or thieves "could really grind out" false registrations for license plates. Registration blanks are readily available in the department's offices.

The spokesman warned that use of such plates would mean a year's loss of license for any driver caught.

The department sent investigators to help local police in a probe of the theft.

North St. Firm Receiving Some Of 25 New Scows

The Colonial Sand and Stone Co., which opened its new $2 million lightweight aggregate sintering plant on North Street Nov. 7, has begun to receive deliveries on a $1.5 million order for 25 additional deck scows.

The fleet of scows will increase the company's capacity to meet next year's anticipated demands.

Robert C. Green, general manager of the company, said assignment of the new scows will be made at the dispatching office in New York City. He stated that undoubtedly some will be assigned to the local area. He added the scows will be sent wherever needed to the local plant or Long Island, Connecticut or New Jersey.

Early in November, Anthony Pope, president of the company, announced the North Street facility for production of lightweight aggregate will have an initial annual capacity of 400,000 tons when it is in full operation.

The local plant consists of several structures including the main building which is 35 feet in height and 165 feet in length and three conveyors which move the finished material and drop it on a concrete tunnel where it is recovered and loaded on scows.

The North Street plant began operations last month.

Segregationist Says Leaflets Are A Cruel Joke

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The head of a segregationist organization considers a cruel joke leaflets urging Savannah Negroes to benefits of the state's welfare program.

W. E. Cowart, president of the Chatham Citizens Council, said Tuesday "those who might react to this are innocents who might borrow money and put themselves in debt to go to a place like New York only to find the false dream exploded."

He said the leaflets were being distributed through several small grocery stores in the Savannah Negro community. Cowart said that he had some of the leaflets in his possession but that his organization was not responsible for publishing or distributing them.

The leaflets promise migrants "a nice apartment with private bathroom," hospital and medical care, food, clothing, a housekeeper and home nursing service.

In Binghamton, N.Y., Broome County supervisor Donald J. Stickles demanded a state investigation of the leaflet. He distributed facsimile copies of the leaflet at a board meeting Monday night and said he had received a copy from a friend in Savannah.

Scotsmoor Ending Business

Fulton Glove Plant Will Close Doors December 30

JOHNSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Scotsmoor Co. Inc. will go out of business Dec. 30—the sixth Fulton County manufacturer of knit wool gloves and mittens to do so in recent years in the face of foreign competition.

Scotsmoor, founded under another name 51 years ago, had employed 300 but now has only a skeleton force for the process of closing.

Allison C. Mills, president and owner, said in an announcement today that his health made it impossible for him to continue the business. He said attempts to attract buyers had been unsuccessful.

Mills did not mention foreign competition. Japanese imports have cut severely into the knit wool glove market here, however.

Only two such manufacturers remain in Fulton County—Leon F. Swears Inc. of Johnstown and Knit-True Handwear Corp. of Gloversville. The county (population 51,300) continues to be a heavy producer of leather and fabric gloves but has been economically depressed for years.

Scotsmoor originally was Adirondack Mills, founded in 1910 by Bert and Irving Wessell. The next year the Wessell Brothers were joined by Martin and Everett Kennedy, and the name was changed to Wessell Manufacturing Co. after a booming business in government contracts during World War I, the Wessels sold to the Kennedy brothers. In 1923, the name was changed to Scotsmoor.

Mills then joined the Kennedys as a junior partner. The Kennedys died in the 1940s, and Mills took over.

U Thant May Go to Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A new Security Council session on the latest Katanga crisis was forecast today as U. N. Secretary-General U Thant prepared a report to the 11-nation body on the outbreak of fighting between U.N. and Katangan troops in the secessionist Congo province.

Faced with the gravest crisis since he took office a month ago, U Thant moved swiftly to place the United Nations on a virtual war footing in Katanga and hinted he might make a personal mission to the Congo.

Delegates felt that U Thant's promise to give the council a full report on the latest Katanga events indicated he will be quicker to seek guidance from the United Nations' top security body than his predecessor, the late Dag Hammarskjold.

They also expressed belief that the new U.N. chief's quick dispatch of jet planes and troop reinforcements into Katanga showed he intends to take a tough stand and use all means at his disposal to quell disorder in the Congo.

U Thant ordered up reinforcements as word reached here that the U.S. Embassy in Leopoldville had placed U.S. Globemaster planes at the U.N. command's disposal to ferry troops into the Katanga capital of Elisabethville.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said U Thant had the full support of the United States in dealing with the Katanga crisis.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says that Martin W. Oettershagen of Buffalo, N.Y., is expected to submit his resignation sometime this month as administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp.

The White House said Tuesday night that Joseph H. McCann would be appointed administrator to succeed Oettershagen. McCann now is deputy administrator of the corporation, which administers the U. S. portion of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The White House informed Sens. Pat McNamara and Phillip A. Hart, Michigan Democrats, of the expected recess appointment of McCann.

Mother Awarded $25,812 in Son's Tear Gas Death

ALBANY, S.Y. (AP) — The mother of Marvin Titcomb has been awarded $25,812 by the State Court of Claims for the "conscious suffering" of her son who died after state police had tossed a tear-gas cannister into his bedroom in October 1959.

Titcomb, 29, of suburban Latham, had barricaded himself in the room, evidently to avoid questioning about broken windows on several automobiles owned by workers building the Northway near his home.

State Police said that when Titcomb refused to leave the room, they threw the canister. Titcomb died in a hospital 15 hours later.

Judge Alexander DelGiorno blamed the state for the troopers' action.

"The state had the duty of giving its troopers proper instruction in the use of tear gas, to enable them to use the same properly and safely in a reasonably foreseeable situation," he said.

"This the state failed to do," DelGiorno wrote in his decision Tuesday.

Mrs. Etta Titcomb, the mother, said her son had been despondent over the loss of his newspaper delivery route and the family home, which the state removed to make way for the superhighway.

State Police said they used tear gas only "to get Titcomb to come out without harm."

The mother had sought $155,500.

Mugging Possible In Man's Death

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP)—The body of a 52-year-old man was found by police today in an alley behind a tavern here.

The man was identified as Nicholas Stracick. He had no known address.

The body had facial and head injuries, which police said may have been suffered in a fall. They also theorized, however, that Stracick might have been slain during a mugging, since his coat was pulled back over his shoulders, pinning his arms to his sides in a manner commonly used by muggers.

An autopsy was scheduled later today.

Stracick had been a grocery owner in Angola several years ago, police said.

Devious Are the Ways Young Seek Assurance

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Soon after the Soviet Union resumed nuclear bomb testing, 17-year-old Peter got into an argument with his father over the worth of the United Nations.

It was, Peter asserted belligerently, a washout. All it could do was talk, talk, talk. It couldn't even pass a resolution condemning Russia's resumption of nuclear testing. Yet Americans went right on wasting their money on it. What was the matter with us that we can't see we have to solve our own problems instead of trying to drop them into the lap of the United Nations? He went on in this vein of attack on the world organization until his father was provoked into itemizing its peace-saving successes. Ending its list of achievements, he said:

"If the UN hasn't been able to give us total peace, young man it's certainly given us some mighty important chunks of it. It's struggling toward its ideal—and that's the best you can ask of any human institution."

Three days later Peter's father was astounded to hear him express this opinion as his own. Passing the den where his son was engaged in earnest telephone conversation, he heard him say, "You're wrong, Bud. If the U.N. hasn't been able to give us total peace, it's certainly given us important chunks of it. Why at the time of Suez alone. . . ."

Recounting this experience to me, he said, "What's the matter with the kid? Is he insecure or something? Why doesn't he know his own mind?"

Our adolescent offspring often seek reassurance from us by provoking us into arguments with them.

If Lois is unsure that her new sweater is becoming she will attack it as unbecoming until we are provoked into saying, "It's because you've never worn that pale yellow before that you can't see how clear it makes your skin look."

If Ted isn't sure he should send flowers to a new date, he will rant at the male obligation to provide party corsages until we assure him his date will appreciate one.

If Joyce is worried about using our lace tablecloth for a get-together with her high school Drama Club, she'll abuse it as "old-fashioned" until we are driven to show her a picture of a lace-covered buffet table in a magazine.

If our adolescent young are worried about anything from the United Nations to sex behavior, they will involve us in arguments upon these subjects in order to acquire reassuring information on them.

Pride will not permit our reassurance directly and openly. To understand this makes it easier to tolerate the belligerance of their information-seeking arguments.

Six of Family Killed in Crash Buried Tuesday

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Six members of the Kelso family, killed in an automobile collision Saturday, were buried Tuesday in the Old De Kalb Cemetery.

Three coffins were used for the burial in the cemetery 17 miles south of this Northern New York community.

The six were injured fatally when their automobile and a farm truck collided near Redwood, Jefferson County. Three Kelso children remain in hospitals.

Buried were:

Robert Kelso, 43, of Auburn; his wife, Mayfred, also 43; their son, Donald W., 7; their daughter, Linda Susan, 4; Robert's brother, Alfred Kelso, 66, of Eibridge; and George Kelso, 6, a nephew.

Allan L. Kelso, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelso, was reported in critical condition at a Watertown hospital. His sister, Barbara, 5, and George Kelso's sister, Elizabeth, 11, were reported in fair condition in an Alexandria Bay hospital.

George Kelso, the nephew, was the son of Joseph Kelso of Gloversville.

Independent Test Of Bankrupt RR Made by State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today his administration was sponsoring an independent study of the operating costs of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

The road has been in bankruptcy since last July and is being reorganized under trustees appointed by a federal district court. The trustees also have been studying the railroad's operations.

Rockefeller said his Office of Transportation was conducting the study for the Interstate Staff Committee on the New Haven, a joint effort of New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York City and Westchester County.

Rockefeller said information on the New Haven's operating costs was essential "to provide the basis for informed judgments regarding this transportation artery which is so important to the economy of New York and southern New England."

It is to be completed by March 31.

Dr. Ford K. Edwards of Washington, D.C., is directing the study.

The work is to be performed by the New York State Office of Transportation and the New York State Public Service Commission.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania's first balanced budget in more than a decade will be recorded in 1963, says Gov. Lawrence.

The governor told a news conference Tuesday that the 1963 budget would be the first balanced one since the first part of the Duff administration in the late 1940s. He did not disclose the size of the budget.

Thinks Democrats Can Agree on New Districts

HARRISBURG (AP)—Congressman Elmer J. Holland said he thought Pennsylvania Democratic leaders could agree today on a plan for reapportioning the state's congressional districts.

"I would say the prospect for a settlement agreeable to all concerned is reasonable," the congressman said.

"Nobody—Democrat or Republican—wants an at large election next year," he said. "Therefore, we have to act fast."

His sentiment was shared by veteran Congressman Daniel J. Flood, also in town for the meeting.

"An at large election is out of the question," he said. "It would be a terrible thing for both (political parties. I don't want to be an at large congressman, I'm perfectly happy representing the 11th District."

Unless Pennsylvania's legislature redistricts by next Feb. 20, all congressmen would have to run at large. The state stands to lose three of its 30 seats because of population changes reflected in the 1960 national census.

Still Polluted by Sewage

Little Hope for Cleanup Of Hudson, Mohawk Rivers

(Editors: Water pollution is a long-standing problem that affects most areas of the state and currently is the subject of a major state study. Legislation is probable soon. The following three-part series examines the issue, its history and its likely future. It's another in a series of Associated Press backgrounders on state government.)

By MICHAEL KEATING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Hudson and Mohawk Rivers still serve as open sewers for many communities in New York State, despite a 12-year program against water pollution and constant shouts of alarm over the years.

Those in charge of the program see little hope for any cleanup in the near future under present attitudes, laws and financing.

But new laws and new financing may be in the offing, and the result of such changes might be new attitudes. You might be able to swim safely in the Hudson or Mohawk in your lifetime.

According to those involved in the water pollution situation, three factors have been chiefly responsible for the slow progress in cleaning up the state's waters:

Lack of funds for the State Water Pollution Control Board; tediously lengthy legal processes, and disinterest or unwillingness of local communities to spend money on sewage-treatment plants.

Under the existing system, the cost of building sewage-treatment plants is borne solely by municipalities, with some help from the federal government. The last session of Congress increased the amount of federal aid available. The state helps only with planning costs.

Gov. Rockefeller's Office for Local Government, which conducted a survey in many areas this year, is completing a series of recommendations that Rockefeller probably will present the 1962 Legislature.

May Get State Aid

The recommendations likely will include some form of state aid for communities to build treatment plants. Such a plan would have influential support in the Legislature and bring cheers from many municipal officials.

The Local Government Office estimates that New York State now needs $2 billion worth of sewage collection and sewage treatment systems.

Most communities, particularly those along the Hudson and the Mohawk, are unwilling to place on their taxpayers such a cost.

Cast Eye at State

The communities, many of them among the most historic in the state, do not consider the matter pressing enough to merit such action. Their attitudes can be summed up thusly—if the state wants clean rivers, let the state pay for it.

A. F. Dappert, executive secretary of the Water Pollution Control Board and the man who has been putting the pressure on these communities for years, has given up hope of any quick progress unless other changes are made. He says:

"If the state wants to accelerate this program, especially in dealing with the problems of old municipalities, then we've got to have some new machinery."

Minuteman Project Reaches the Digging-in Stage—

MINUTEMAN CAN—Huge lower launching tube liners, or "cans," are dressed up with two layers of steel reinforcing rods at American Bridge in Milwaukee before shipment to Minuteman missile sites around Malstrom AFB near Great Falls, Mont. Scores of the solid-fueled, nuclear bomb carrying intercontinental ballistic missiles will be stored underground to give the U.S. its first "hard" rocket striking force.

SILO SENTINEL—Workmen gently ease the lower launching tube of a Minutemen missile into place in a huge hole in the rock beneath Montana farmland. Measuring more than 50 feet in length and 12 feet across, the tube weighs as much as seven large automobiles. Above this will be placed a doughnut-shaped equipment room and upper launching tube. The site will then be covered over. Over 100 such launchers are being installed in northern Montana.

Much Precaution Needed for JFK S. America Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's journey to Latin America undoubtedly will call forth special precautions for his safety.

His first stop on Dec. 16 will be Caracas, Venezuela. That was the site 2½ years ago of riots in which then Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon were stoned and spat upon in one of the most hostile demonstrations ever made against an American official of such high stature.

This will be in the mind of the U.S. Secret Service, whose duty it is to protect the President. This fact is underscored by the stoning Monday night of cars bringing six U.S. senators into Caracas from the airport. Stones flew when the cavalcade stalled in traffic before a high school and students cut loose. There have been a number of student demonstrations over the past few weeks, following Venezuela's cutting off diplomatic ties with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The visiting senators passed off the attack on them as something from a few trouble makers. U.S. Embassy officials said they were confident that Venezuela would tighten the protection for President Kennedy.

U.S. security officers were hesitant to say whether extra steps would be taken to safeguard Kennedy during his 24-hour stay in the Venezuelan capital. An advance force of Secret Service agents will cover the ground there. Until they report back, officials here cannot determine just what precautions will be taken for the Kennedys.

Processing on the Hoof

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Tenderizing steaks while still on the hoof is being tested at the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station. Agricultural scientists are injecting a protein-splitting enzyme called papain into cattle shortly before they go to slaughter. The experiment station says initial tests have been satisfactory—the meat is more tender. Papain is the ingredient found in most commercial tenderizers sold to housewives.

Science at Work In World Today

The push to orbit a U.S. astronaut before the end of the year, some curious facts about space-going chimpanzees, and saving calories in weightlessness are subjects for science at work:

Next!

U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., at 40 the oldest of the seven American space candidates, may be the first to orbit the earth.

He is now lodged in the astronaut ready room at Cape Canaveral, Fla., waiting for his chance which may come before New Year's Day.

Glenn's quarters in Hangar S on the sprawling missile base are only a few steps away from the area where space-going chimpanzees Enos and Ham were prepared for their space flights. Newer, more complete astronaut quarters are being planned for the cape.

Enos and Brethren

Chimpanzees, like Enos and Ham, are mightier than men in many ways.

The men who handle the space chimpanzees say that these apes are 4½ times as strong as men of similar weight. Chimpanzees have been found which stand up to 5½ feet tall, and have an arm spread of 6 feet.

Although the average life span of chimpanzees is usually in the thirties, some have been known to live 45 years. Most of the space chimpanzees are young—5 to 6 years old, and small—about 40 pounds.

Space Diet

An astronaut—gliding in weightlessness through space—will probably need no more than some 2,400 calories a day in meals, a scientist suggests.

At work, the space pilot's efforts that on earth would cost some 216 calories per hour working against gravity, would cost only 144 calories an hour in weightlessness.

Under normal gravity on earth, a space pilot resting, but awake, would use 94 calories an hour, but would use only 85 calories an hour resting and awake without gravity to contend with.

Sleeping, on earth or in space, the cost in calories is about the same—some 65 calories an hour, said Dr. Carsbie C. Adams, president of the National Research and Development Corp.

Airline Desires Route

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allegheny Airlines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for a route between New York City and Buffalo, N. Y., via Scranton-Wilkes Barre, Williamsport and Bradford, Pa., and Jamestown, N. Y.

Allegheny, in its application Tuesday, noted that American Airlines had applied Nov. 24 for permission to suspend service to Scranton-Wilkes Barre.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A mine worker was killed Tuesday at the National Gypsum Co. mine in nearby Clarence when he was pinned between a mining car and the mine wall.

Company officials said Homer Abrams, 38, of the nearby community of Basom was coupling cars when the accident occurred.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The millions of people who watch television are not, in a real sense, an audience, in the opinion of actor George C. Scott.

A serious actor who performs in perhaps four or five television plays a year, Scott believes that the relationship between a live audience and the performers on the stage is a vital ingredient to good theater.

"And you can never conquer that problem," predicted Scott. "But that does not mean that television acting is not important for an actor. It is very exciting, hectic and pressured, and often these elements combine to build up superb performances."

Scott says that TV has been the meat and potatoes of actors since the death of stock, but he observed that most young performers move into television from the stage — rarely the other way around.

"Motion pictures seem to breed and nurture their own, and few young people go to Hollywood to start out these days," Scott reflected. "It's impossible now to come to New York and break directly into television, as you could 9 or 10 years ago. I suspect that most of the young talent is coming up off-Broadway."

Scott himself is concerned about the hit-or-flop condition of the Broadway theater — particularly the number of musical shows and the high price of tickets.

"Broadway today is a transient theater and people go to see musicals because of expense accounts. I think the only salvation of the theater—the last temple of free thought and emotion—will be municipally sponsored shows, produced out of New York."

Sailor Wounded As Two Scuffle With Policeman

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — One sailor was hospitalized after he and another sailor were involved in a fracas with a policeman.

Joseph V. Smith, 19, of Sheerman, Ill., was wounded, the Navy said, when he and John C. Miller, 20, of Waterloo, N. Y., scuffled with a New Bedford policeman Monday night.

The policeman was attempting to take Miller into custody after he had reportedly broken a window.

Both sailors were from the oiler Salamonie.

Smith allegedly jumped the patrolman and both sailors were trying to get the policeman's gun, and it went off four times, the Navy said.

Smith was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday night at the naval hospital here.

matter of Fact

The word "bastille" has become synonymous with prison. But it wasn't until the beginning of the 17th century that it acquired this connotation. Originally the word was applied to any fortified building, forming a part of a system of defense. When, during the reign of Louis XIII, a part of the fortifications of Paris was used as a place of confinement, the bastille acquired its infamous meaning.

First Scheduled Sunday

Woodstock Festival Slates Four Winter Season Concerts

The Woodstock Festival Committee has announced a series of four concerts to be presented during the winter season, 1961-62. The concerts will take place on Sunday afternoons at 3 p. m. at the Kleinert Recital Hall, Woodstock, on the following dates: December 10, January 14, March 11 and April 22.

Efforts have been made to obtain artists unfamiliar to Woodstock audiences and to present great variety in programming and in choice of instrumental combinations. It is expected that these things, in addition to the intrinsic merit of the artists and the music they play, will greatly stimulate interest in the Winter Festival Series.

The first concert on December 10th will present The Four Seasons Consort, a group specializing in the performance of Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque music.

Piano Soloist

February 14th will bring to Woodstock the Dorian Wind Quintet, a group of young players whose New York concert early this fall was a conspicuous success.

The third concert, March 11th, will be a solo piano recital by Paul Jacobs, official pianist for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Mr. Jacobs' enthusiastically received recital at Town Hall, N. Y., last week give promise of ensuring an exciting event for us here in March.

The final regular concert is scheduled for April 22nd. It has not yet been determined what this concert will be, but details will be announced at a later date.

Subscriptions are available for all four concerts and individual tickets for each concert can be purchased at the Kleinert Hall on the afternoons of the concert.

Demonstration Unit Sets Dec. 12 Meeting

The next meeting of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 12, in the Overlook Methodist Church hall at 1:30 p. m.

The program will include a Christmas party during which Emily Harrington will play the piano; Jean Mirick, the flute; and Christine Berry will lead the singing of carols.

The ceramic Christmas tree will also be awarded at that time. The tree was donated by Daisy Montgomery.

Hostesses for the day are: Therese Duane, Mary Busch, Therese Kessel, Kate Musof and Marjorie Russell. In order to make this a gala affair, any members who would like to contribute are asked to bring cookies, date-nut bread, fruit cook or other holiday goodies.

Churchwomen Plan December 13 Meeting

The Episcopal Churchwomen of St. Gregory's will hold their monthly meeting at the church, Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 1:30 p. m. All women parishioners are invited to attend and participate in the activities that the new parish house and the Christmas season inspire.

Hold Baptism

On Sunday, Dec. 3, the Rev. Lloyd H. Uyeki, vicar of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, administered the Sacrament of Holy Baptism to William Lloyd VanDeBogart, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon VanDeBogart of Bearsville. The baby's sponsors were his father and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Uyeki.

Planning Board Second Report Next Tuesday

The Woodstock Planning Board will make its second report to the public on Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 8 p. m. in the town hall.

At this meeting Dr. Harry A. Anthony, professional planner, will present a diagnosis of present trends and future needs. As before, the subject matter will be illustrated with colored slides, charts and maps. For the first time some general suggestions will be made on the nature of a Growth Plan for Woodstock. This will include various recommendations on by-pass roads, parking areas, open spaces, and land use. The presentation will be followed by a discussion period, in order that the Planning Board may have the benefit of opinions from residents of the township.

The first meetin,, held in October, drew a capacity crowd and it is expected that an equal, if not large , crowd will be present this time.

Lutheran Church Adopts Budget

At a special meeting Monday night, the congregation of Christ Lutheran Church adopted a budget of $9,665 for 1962. This is a $1200 increase over the 1961 budget and reflects the continual efforts of the congregation to provide a more perfect ministry to its members and the community.

The color film entitled "The Right Instruction of Youth" will be shown at the church this Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. The film deals with Lutheran Higher Education and is of interest to both parents and young people contemplating college in the future. All are invited.

This Saturday, the children of the Church School will meet at the church at 9:30 a. m. in the first of a series of rehearsals for the forthcoming Christmas pageant.

Reformed Church News and Notes

The schedule of events at the Woodstock Reformed Church has been announced as follows by the Rev. Wayne C. Olson:

Saturday, Dec. 9—Junior choir rehearsal, 10:30 a. m.

Sunday, Dec. 10 — Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Morning worship is scheduled at 11 a. m. A nursery is provided for care of young children. The sermon title is "Jesus Christ—Son of God, Son of Man." Senior Christian Endeavor at 7:30 p. m.

Monday, Dec. 11 — Sunday School Teachers meeting at 8 p. m. Final plans for the Christmas program will be announced.

The annual congregational meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p. m. Items on the agenda include election of consistorymen, hearing of annual reports from every organization and approval of the 1961 budget. Every member of the church is urged to attend.

Railroad Train Used for Escape To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)— A daring railroad engineer and 24 friends and relatives hijacked an East German train Tuesday night and roared at 50 miles an hour past startled border guards to safety in West Berlin.

"We knew we would make it," said Harry Deterling, 28, the engineer. He said food shortages and political pressure had made life unbearable in East Germany.

Seven passengers not in on the plot—including the angry conductor—chose to return to the Communist sector. An East German switching locomotive pulled the steam locomotive and eight cars of the escape train back over the little-used section of track to East Germany.

The well-planned escape—hastened by reports the Communists were planning to block the section of track Dec. 10—came off without a hitch.

Border police, taken by surprise, didn't fire a shot.

Deterling said he began planning the escape last Thursday with Hartmut Lichy, his fireman, members of his family and friends. The escapees included the engineer's mother, wife and four children.

Deterling arranged to make an "acquaintance run" on the Oranienburg-Albrechtshof line.

"Everybody was told to be at Oranienburg station for the departure of the regular late evening train to Albrechtsof. We were 21 in all. That included an 8-day-old baby born only a day before we planned the escape."

The other four got on at Falkensee, the next to last stop. Albrechtshof, the last stop on the line, is about a quarter of a mile short of the border.

Deterling said a transport policeman aboard and the conductor went wild when they realized the train wasn't stopping at Albrechtshof.

"But what could they do but shout?" Deterling related smilingly. "We had disconnected the emergency braking system. They couldn t stop the train."

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Glazed Ham for a Festive Christmas

GLAZED to a golden hue and studded with red maraschino cherries, baked ham guarantees a festive Christmas dinner.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Ham for Christmas dinner—wonderful idea. Particularly when you select one of those fully cooked hams that requires very little kitchen work. Be sure to get it large enough for snacks and left-overs. Allow at least 1/3 pound per serving of a fully cooked bone-in ham.

Regardless of the type of ham, follow tag or label directions. If there are no directions, cook as directed here.

Place ham, fat side up, in a shallow roasting pan. Insert a roast meat thermometer into the thickest part of the ham. Do no cover or add water to the pan, and do not baste. Place in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) and cook following the directions in the chart:

HOW TO COOK AND GLAZE A HAM

To figure your time use this guide:

Fully Cooked Ham

Whole Ham: 10 minutes per pound

Half Ham: 14 minutes per pound

Rolled shaped boned ham: 12 to 15 minutes per pound

Cook-Before-Eating

Whole Ham: 18 to 20 minutes per pound

Half Ham: 22 to 25 minutes per pound

Rolled shaped boned ham: 30 minutes per pound

Thirty minutes before the end of the heating or cooking time, remove ham from the oven. Although most hams come without rind, some may still have rind. If so, cut the rind away being careful not to cut away the fat. With a sharp knife, score the fat crisscross fashion, making cuts about 1/8-inch deep and 3/4-inch apart. If desired, push a whole clove in the center of each diamond. Spread glaze over the ham. Return ham to oven 20 to 30 minutes more.

NOTE: Baked peeled sweet potatoes may be placed around the ham and glazed at the same time. There are many ways to glaze a baked ham such as this one: Just make a paste of dry mustard, brown sugar and a little vinegar. Then spread it over the ham for the last baking period.

A combination of genuine maple sugar or syrup and dry mustard is another suggestion, or a glaze of brown sugar combined with honey and ground cloves—or a glaze made of fruit preserves or marmalade.

Corn syrup makes a popular glaze. Combine 1 cup of dark corn syrup, one 2-inch stick of cinnamon and 1/2 cup orange juice. Combine these ingredients in a saucepan, bring to a full boil over moderate heat. Remove cinnamon stick. Spread on ham.

Many cooks spread only half the glaze over the ham, and bake another 10 minutes. Then they spread the remaining glaze on the ham for a final 10 minutes more of baking. This method, they claim, gives a deeper glaze.

SPICED BAKED SLICED CANNED HAM
(Serves 18 to 24)

6 to 8-pound canned ham
Whole cloves
1/3 cup strained honey
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Have meat man run the whole ham through his slicer at the thickness you wish (1/8 to 3/8 inches). Have him tie slices together.

Keep refrigerated until ready to bake. Press whole cloves in several rows or in a pattern on of ham. Place on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Mix together honey and ground cloves. Drizzle or spoon about 1/3 of honey over top and sides of cut ham. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 hour and 15 minutes.

After first 30 minutes of baking, brush again with half of remaining spiced honey. Continue baking another 30 minutes. Add mustard and brown sugar to remaining honey. Brush top of ham. Continue baking 15 minutes or long enough to have a golden glaze.

Hollandaise Sauce

The important point to remember, when you are are preparing Hollandaise Sauce, is to use slow heat. If the heat is gentle, the sauce may be cooked over direct heat (in a heavy pan) instead of over hot water.

These Coats for Stormy Gray Days

Teacher's Refusal Put Up to School Board

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Judge Samuel Y. Rossiter of Erie County wants a high school teacher and a school board to try to settle their dispute over the teacher's balking at chaperoning a bowling outing.

The judge halted a hearing on the dispute Tuesday then met in separate, closed sessions with the teacher, George L. Pease Jr., and members of the Millcreek School Board.

If the dispute cannot be settled by Friday, the hearing will resume, the jurist said.

Pease, a 27-year-old instructor in problems of democracy at McDowell High School, has been accused by school authorities of incompetence, persistent negligence and willful violation of school laws.

The accusations stem from Pease's refusal to obey orders to chaperone a school bowling session.

Talented Blind Organist, Composer Will Present Christmas Recital at West Camp

A Christmas recital by J. Charles Brand, well-known concert organist of Kingston will be presented Sunday 4 p. m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp.

The presentation will be on the new Robert Rowland organ installed in the church last year at the time of the church's 250th anniversary. Installation of the organ was part of an extensive remodeling program in the church.

The public is invited and a free-will offering will be received.

The talented blind organist and composer was born in Glens Falls and resided in Schenectady most of his life. In the fall of 1958, following by his marriage, he made his home in Kingston. He received his schooling at the Batavia School for the Blind.

A member of the American Guild of Organists, Brand began his career at an early age at Batavia where he studied with Miss Grace Towsley of Eastman School of Music. His natural ability and talent was recognized in the award of the New York State Regents Department Gold Seal in Music for his graduation recital at Batavia.

For eight years he served as organist for Immanuel Lutheran Church, Schenectady and for three years was a pupil of the Rev. Adolf Steinke. Brand is also a composer of several hymns and anthems. His amazing repetoire of the standard works of organ literature, which ranges from Bach to the modern composers, has put him in demand for many recitals.

He accepted the invitation of E. Power Biggs, for whom he auditioned to play a recital in Boston, Mass., for the 1950 convention of the American Guild of Organists. Brand has also played in Troy, Hudson, Cohoes, Jamestown, Utica and Potsdam.

OLD RESIDENTS SHOULD WELCOME NEWCOMERS

Q: My husband and I moved to another city about six months ago. We joined the country club here and several organizations. When we meet people at these different club gatherings, they are very friendly toward us and many of them have said "Do come to see us." Is it proper to go on such a casual invitation when they have never called on us? I would appreciate your help in this matter as I do not want to do anything that could label me as a "pusher."

A: The fact that these people are very friendly toward you and have asked you to come to see them indicates that the rule that old residents should make the first calls on newcomers is not observed in your new city, and you will not be thought pushing if you make the first calls on those who have asked you to come to see them.

Christmas Cards to Married Couples

Q: I have quite a few women friends who I see at our women's club meetings. Most of them are married but I have never met any of their husbands. In addressing Christmas cards to them, do I address them to Mr. and Mrs. John Smith or to Mrs. John Smith alone?

A: When sending Christmas cards to social acquaintances, it is courteous to address them to Mr. and Mrs. even though only one of the couple is known to you.

Proper Dress for Pall Bearers

Q: I have been asked to be a pall bearer at the funeral of one of our club members. We will all wear striped trousers and oxford grey jackets. It has been suggested that each of the pall bearers wear a white flower in his lapel. This sounds all wrong to me and I would like to have your opinion.

A: If you were going to be an usher at a wedding, the answer would be yes. But for pall bearers, it would be shocking.

MRS. CHARLES ANGWIN

Patricia Ann Elder, West Hurley, Is Bride Of Charles Angwin; to Reside in Long Beach

The double ring nuptials of Miss Patricia Ann Elder of West Hurley and Charles Angwin of Valley Stream were solemnized 11 a. m. Saturday, Nov. 25, at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock. The Rev. Lloyd Uyeki, vicar, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Elder of West Hurley. Mr. Angwin's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angwin of Valey Stream.

The altar was decorated with white flowers and the family pews marked with satin bows. Mr. and Mrs Gordon Van de Bogart presented musical selections.

Escorted in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess gown of satin brocade styled with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her bouffant skirt swept into a bustle with a chapel length train. A queen's crown secured her veil of illusion and she carried a lace covered missal with white orchids showered with stephanotis.

Linda Flight of Valley Stream was honor attendant in a gold brocade cocktail length gown with fitted bodice, three-quarter length sleeves and bell skirt. She wore a pearl and gold velvet crown with circular veil and carried a cascade of bronze fuji chrysanthemums with ivy and green grapes.

Other bridal attendants were Susan Waterman of Rutland, Vt., Marylou Martin, Arleene Hansen and Lois Wadsworth, all of Valley Stream. They were gowned in cocoa color brocade and carried cascades of yellow fuji chrysanthemums, ivy and bittersweet.

The flower girl, Gail Lindman of Valley Stream wore a floor length gown of gold silk organdy with balloon shaped sleeves. Her headpiece was a velvet floral wreath. She carried a fireside basket of yellow sweetheart roses, pompons and ivy.

Best man was William Blanton of Boston, Mass., a brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Ushers were James Elder of West Hurley, brother of the bride; John Rose, Richard Loudon and Stephan Bangs, all of Valley Stream.

A reception for 115 guests was held at St. Gregory's parish Hall, Woodstock. Open house followed at the home of the bride's parents. Guests from New York, New Jersey, Vermont and Massachusetts attended.

For a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the bride chose a traveling costume of orange wool with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. The couple will make their home in Long Beach.

Mrs. Angwin is a graduate of Valley Stream South High and president of Theta Gamma Chi sorority.

The bridegroom is a Valley Stream South High School graduate and attended the University of Buffalo. He is a member of the U. S. Army Reserve and is employed by McKay Construction Company of New York City.

Christmas Customs

With all the signs of Christmas greeting us at every turn these days in Kingston and outlying villages, it doesn't seem too early to dwell for a moment on holiday customs that have never grown old.

Christmas is a time of rejoicing whether the season's greetings are Buon Natale, Joyeux Noel, Froehlich Weihnachten or Feliz Navidad. For the wonderful thing about the holiday is that it is always the same.

This sense of permanence can be fully appreciated in Europe, where from early December through Epiphany various countries observe the Christmas season with a host of centuries-old festivals, fairs, caroling ceremonies and musical programs in great cathedrals and churches. The mood of these festivities is one of gaiety, friendliness and warmth.

These few facts about Christmas traditions might be of interest to you.

Mistletoe, the Golden Bough of classical legend, was held sacred by the Celtic Druids and by the Norsemen. Mistletoe brought good luck and protected houses it hung in from witchcraft. It was always the plant of peace, under which enemies in ancient Scandinavia were reconciled.

The Christmas Tree came from Germany, a custom dating back to the 8th century. The lighting of the tree with candles is credited to Martin Luther. Prince Albert carried this custom to England when he married Queen Victoria. Some years later it replaced the older, native Kissing Bough, a hanging garland of greens shaped like a crown decorated with candles. The first German immigrants brought this heart-warming custom to America.

The Christmas Wreath was first used in the 6th century when the Roman Catholic Church set apart the four Sundays preceding Christmas as Advent Season and hung green wreaths on doors of houses and churches throughout Epiphany.

The Yule Log came from Scandinavia. Centuries ago on Christmas Eve it was brought in with great ceremony and kindled with a piece of last year's log. In Provence, France, wine is poured over it before it is lit. Elsewhere wheat and corn are sprinkled on it. Sometimes it is wreathed in garlands. As soon as the Yule Log is burning brightly a neighbor strikes the log with a rod to make the sparks fly, meanwhile chanting a wish for the prosperity of the family.

St. Nicholas Day was first celebrated in Asia Minor in the 4th century. The white-haired bishop appeared on December 6, his saint's day, riding a white horse laden with gifts for children. By the 11th century, St. Nick was appearing regularly on December 6 in Germany and Austria. Kriss Kringle, representing the Christ Child, comes on Christmas Eve in Western Europe. In Sweden and Norway Christmas dwarfs appear on Christmas Eve, and in England Father Christmas, closely resembling our own Santa Claus, is in evidence.

The hanging of the Christmas Stocking is attributed also to Bishop Nicholas. The kindly bishop generously provided dowries for the daughters of an improvished nobleman. As the saint threw presents of gold into the house, they fell into a stocking that had been hung near the chimney to dry. In Holland children set their shoes in the chimney corners on the eve of December 26.

The Creche was first originated by St. Francis of Assasi in the 13th century. Live animals were used, and the music accompanying the ceremony was the beginning of Christmas Carols. "Silent Night, Holy Night," sung in many tongues in many lands, was born in 1818 on Christmas Eve in the village church of Oberndorf, Austria. As the organ was out of order, Josef Mohr, church custodian, sat down and wrote the joyful little poem heard around the world on Christmas Eve.

Council Adopts Sick Leave Plan At Poughkeepsie

The plan allows a maximum of 180 days leave for employes having more than one year service.

Police Lieutenant George Traver deplored the plan as adopted and said organization efforts for the formation of a union among policemen would go forward. Traver said he favors continued unlimited sick leave for policemen.

Under the new plan, unlimited leave is allowed only if the illness is incurred while a policeman is on duty.

Hawks Dip To Fourth

The St. Louis Hawks, five-time Western Division champions of the National Basketball Association now rest in fourth place in the five-team division.

Philadelphia beat New York 122-105 in the second game and at Portland, Ore., Elgin Baylor rallied Los Angeles to a 125-120 victory over Syracuse.

Philadelphia broke a 52-52 halftime deadlock with a 42-point burst in the third quarter that put it out of reach. Wilt Chamberlain had 39 points and 22 rebounds for the winners.

Baylor wound up with 45 points, 10 in a row in the last quarter, as Los Angeles fattened its Western Division lead to 4½ games over Cincinnati.

NFA Cagers Beat Fallsmen, 59-48

Though hard pressed most of the way, Newburgh Free Academy opened its 1961-62 cage season with a 59-48 win last night at Wappingers Falls.

Many Coaches Might Lose Jobs Before New Season

NEW YORK (AP) — The old-fashioned party game of musical chairs again is in full swing among the college football coaches.

Several already have been given the heave-ho, victims of alumni who tolerate nothing short of success, and others have quit. The jobs of a dozen others are hanging by a slender thread.

The 1962 season will find new head coaches at Southern Methodist, Texas A&M, Nebraska, Tulane, Mississippi State, Houston, Colorado State University, Texas Wester, Xavier (Ohio), Iowa Wesleyan, Upsala and Wayne (Neb.) State.

Among the more prominent coaches reported on the griddle are Dale Hall at Army, John Steigman of Pennsylvania and Lynn Hoyland of Washington University (St. Louis).

One of the bitterest partings was that between Jim Myers of Texas A&M. "It was like being in a small clearing with just enough food to stay alive, and having all kinds of animals around you," said Myers of his four lean years at the Texas school.

Reports are that Jim Owens, Washington head coach and former aide to Bear Bryant at Texas A&M, is in line for the job.

Bill Meek, who had five more years to go at Southern Methodist on a contract paying $17,500 annually, was released after winning only 17 of 67 games. There is no word of his possible replacement. Jim Larue of Arizona is said to have the inside track.

Folley Bids For Title Shot After Knockout

By RONALD THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON (AP) — Zora Folley, the cool contender from Arizona, mounted a new offensive today aimed at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight title and said he would be happy to fight Sonny Liston in a final qualifier if necessary.

Liston, No. 1 heavy contender from Philadelphia, knocked out Folley in three rounds in their only meeting on July 16, 1960.

Folley drawled his challenge over the prone and bleeding figure of British champion Henry Cooper, previously considered Patterson's next ring rival, if the champion didn't fight Liston.

Cooper Britain's only hope for world boxing glory, was knocked out almost contemptuously by Folley at 1:08 of the second round in a scheduled 10-round bout at Wembley indoor stadium Tuesday night. Folley weighed 194, Cooper 189.

The result boosted Folley's prospects for a shot at the championship and apparently condemned Cooper to a lowly position in the heavyweight rankings.

Before Tuesday night's massacre, the 27year-old Cooper was variously rated third and fourth in the world rankings. Folley, 29, from Chandler, Ariz., was ranked eighth.

Chicago Majors Making Comeback

The Chicago Majors, in contention in the Eastern Division race of the American Basketball League until they went to Honolulu and were socked with five straight losses by the Hawaii Chiefs, whipped first-place Cleveland 110-97 in Milwaukee Tuesday nighht.

Now, with a 9-11 record, the Majors are back within three games of the division lead. Cleveland heads the East with an 11-7 record with Pittsburgh next at 10-9.

Former Iowa star Ron Zager led the Majors with 23 points.

Kansas City defeated San Francisco 88-84 and Hawaii, sparked by Jeff Cohen's 32 points, beat Washington 115-93 in other ABL games Tuesday night.

Bill Bridges and Win Wilfong each hit a pair of free throws in the closing minutes for Kansas City's victory.

Touch Football Star Kennedy Speaker at Grid Fame Dinner

NEW YORK (AP) — President John F. Kennedy, a former Harvard junior varsity player and the nation's No. 1 touch football fan, wants no part of the current controversy over whether baseball or football now is the national pastime.

But, grinning, he advises Notre Dame not to give back its controversial 17-15 victory over Syracuse last month.

Referring to a close victory of his own in 1960, he said he had no intention of giving that back.

The President was the featured speaker Tuesday night at the annual awards dinner of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. He was the recipient of the foundation's Gold Medal Award, given for the example he has set in recognizing the major role of amateur athletics in fostering moral values and leadership.

He shared the head table with eight former players and one of two former coaches who were inducted into the Hall of Fame and eight others honored as scholar athletes.

Referring to the baseball-football controversy, he said:

"The sad fact is that it looks more and more as if our great national sport is not playing at all—but watching. We have become more and more not a nation of athletes, but a nation of spectators. The result of this shift from participation to—if I may coin a word—spectation is all too visible in the physical condition of our population."

Physically Soft

Kennedy called the American people physically soft as a result of push button living.

"We are under-exercised as a nation," he said. "We look instead of play, ride instead of walk. Our push-button existence deprives us of the minimum of physical activity essential for healthy living."

He called for a long, serious look at the nation's physical condition, and for a change in the way millions of Americans live.

Kennedy took time out from his dinner to visit a group of Alabama alumni and transmit a message to a student rally underway at Tuscaloosa, Ala., congratulating the Crimson Tide on its undefeated season and its invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Accept Award

Paul (Bear) Bryant, Alabama coach, and quarterback Pat Trammell accepted the MacArthur Bowl at the dinner on behalf of the Crimson Tide, selected by the foundation as the nation's top team.

Bryant called his team — also selected by The Associated Press as the best in the country—"the best I've been associated with in all my career."

Former players inducted into the Hall of Fame were halfback Glenn Davis of Army (1944-46); Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, North Carolina halfback (1946-49); George McAfee, Duke halfback (1937-39); Bob Reynolds, Stanford tackle (1933-35); Bob Suffridge, Tennessee guard (1938-40); Weldon Humble, Rice guard (1941-42, 1946); Pat Pazzetti, Lehigh and Wesleyan quarterback (1908-1912) and Claude Reeds, Oklahoma halfback (1910-13).

Coaches added to the Hall of Fame were Don Faurot, athletic director and former coach at Missouri, and the late Charlie Caldwell of Princeton, Yale and Williams.

Holly Defeats Howard, 125-94

Dave Holly launched his bid for the city pocket billiard crown with a 125-94 victory over Tom Howard, Tuesday night at the Uptown Billiard Parlor.

Both players had high runs of 15 in the well played match.

Don East takes on Bill Costello, last year's runnerup, tonight at 7 o'clock.

Valley Central Beats Pine Bush

Valley Central of the Orange County league took the lead in the second quarter and then coasted to a 55-31 win over a young Pine Bush five last night at the winners' court. The Vikings had too much experience and height for Jim McIntyre's club.

Pine Bush, which will be making its debut in the UCAL this season, had a 9-5 lead after the first period but the visitors fell behind in the second stanza and never regained the margin.

The home side also captured the jayvee tilt, 31-24.

Pine Bush will be at Cornwall Friday night before making their league bow next week at Wallkill.

Ohio State In Warmup

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mighty Ohio State, led by 1960-61 player of the year Jerry Lucas, goes against Pitt tonight in an expected warm-up for Saturday's important clash with Wake Forest, the top game of college basketball's early season schedule.

The Buckeyes, ranked first in an Associated Press preseason poll, handled Florida State with ease in their only outing this season, but could have a tougher time with Pitt, which lost its opener to a good Purdue team, 86-70.

Wake Forest, No. 3 in the preseason poll, won its second straight with ease Tuesday night, a 77-65 triumph over North Carolina State.

Miami Routed

Cincinnati, displaying midseason form and using substitutes much of the way, humbled Miami of Ohio 65-30. The Bearcats, who include the overtime upset of Ohio State in last season's NCAA championship final in their 24 straight victories, put the accent on defense in the slow-moving game.

In other top games, seventh-ranked Duke set a school scoring record in a 117-72 conquest of Davidson, strong West Virginia raced past Virginia Military 90-56, Southern Methodist disappointed hopeful Oklahoma 61-52, and North Carolina edged Clemson 54-52.

In other major games, Washington beat Montana 73-57, Loyola of Chicago breezed past South Dakota 104-63, The Citadel beat William & Mary 83-76, Butler rapped New Mexico State 77-56, Colgate outlasted Columbia 75-73, Oklahoma State—with Moe Iba, son of coach Hank Iba, contributing 17 points—won its second straight, 63-57 over Texas Western, Texas A&M used a second-half rally to beat Houston 64-49 and San Francisco beat West Texas 100-51 with Bob Gaillard hitting for 41 points.

Carl Putnam, who scored Clarkson's first nine points, had 25 for the victors.

Defense figured in two other decisions.

Siena held RPI's scoring ace, Brian Seibel, scoreless in a the lows-coring test at Albany. The halftime score was 1713.

Only five points were scored in an overtime period at Oneonta, with Albany State getting three of them and a victory. All of Albany's extra-period points came on foul shots while Joe Heissan scored a field goal for Oneonta's two.

Trained and driven by Bill Current, the sophomore pacer beat all comers and among his wins was an impressive one in the $3,000 Art Hinrich's Memorial Pace during Grand Circuit Week at the Spa oval.

In his 12 wins at Saratoga Raceway, Shadydale Monitor earned purses totaling $10,000 and posted a record of 2:02 4/5.

Runnerup Yankee Tardios, a three-year-old Tar Heel pacing colt owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Webster of Spencerport, posted 11 wins, one second and one third in 16 starts to earn $13,644. Don Huff trained and drove the youngster, who took a mark of 2:02 3/5.

The third place horse in the voting by the writers, Little Annabelle, is a two-year-old pacer that won 10 and was second in one in 13 starts at the Spa. The daughter of Linn's Direct, owned by Rocco Leone of Utica and handled by Don Miller, earned $6,519 and took a mark of 2:05.

Voting by the writers was on a 10-5-3-2-1 basis.

Head Work

EVANSTON, Ill. (NEA) — The Northwestern University electrical engineering department is going to the source on its studies on the amount of impact a football player receives. The department is devising a helmet with a built-in transmitter that will send information on the subject by short wave direct to the sideline. The experiments are calculated to establish a set of standards for a safer helmet.

Rice Has a Star In Butch Blume

HOUSTON, Tex .(AP) — Leslie (Butch) Blume—the angelic looking Rice halfback who plays like a demon—was kind of overlooked this season.

Other teams were aware of the little postman's son, and he was the leading scorer in the Southwest Conference.

But he didn't even make the all-conference second team.

You can bet the University of Kansas won't neglect the fellow called "Teddy Bear" by his team mates when the Jayhawks play Rice in the Dec. 16 Bluebonnet Bowl.

Butch, a 169-pounder from Lagrange, Tex., outscored such a notable as James Saxton of the University of Texas.

The babyfaced halfback scored 74 points as Rice built a 7-3 record. He scored 30 points one Saturday against Texas Tech and 20 last week as Rice ended the regular season by defeating Baylor, 26-14.

His 74 points beat the Rice record AllAmerica Dicky Moegle set in 1954 by two points.

Baylor Heads For New York

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor, which had a poor season when the won-loss record is considered but was picked for a bowl game because of its exciting offense, flies out this afternoon for New York where it will play Utah State in the new Gotham Bowl.

Utah State, which had a 9-0-1 record and was ranked tenth in the nation, left its home bound for the big city Tuesday night. So it will be there practicing at the Polo Grounds, scene of the game, when the Golden Bears arrive.

Baylor had a 5-5 record but while it didn't have the defense to stop anybody much it had an offense that kept the crowd on its toes. The Bears scored 19 more points than last year's Gator Bowl team that had an 8-2 record. It rolled up 235 more yards on the ground, scored five more touchdowns through the air and led the Southwest Conference in passing by completing five more throws than last year.

Walston Near Hutson's Mark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — End Bobby Walston of the Philadelphia Eagles is well aware he needs only eight points to surpass Don Hutson's National Football League career scoring record and he'd love to do it against the New York Giants here Sunday in the top game of the week.

"But first and foremost in my mind is winning," said Walston in viewing the crucial battle which could lead to the Eastern Conference crown. The Eagles and Giants are tied for the lead with 93 marks. Each club will have one game remaining after Sunday's contest.

The 33-year-old Walston, also a place-kicking specialist rounding out his 11th year with the Eagles, has 818 points going into the game. Hutson racked up 825 points during an outstanding career with Green Bay.

Actually, Walston is third in the all-time scoring derby. Lou Groza of Cleveland with 825 points needs only two points to surpass Hutson and "The Toe" appears a cinch to do it against Chicago Sunday. The second-place Browns also are in the thick of the Eastern race, in second place with an 8-4 mark.

In other NFL games Sunday, Green Bay, which already has won the Western Conference title is at San Francisco, Pittsburgh at Washington, Dallas at St. Louis and Minnesota at Detroit.

Swartz Is New Scoring Leader

CHICAGO (AP)—Dan Swartz of Los Angeles is this week's scoring leader of the American Basketball League with a 22.2 average through 19 games.

The official statistics, based on games through Sunday, show that Swartz replaced his teammate, Hal Lear, on the top rung. Lear dropped to second with 21.5. He is followed by Connie Hawkins of Pittsburgh with 21.3.

Swartz also is tops in free throws, hitting 157 out of 171 chances. Hawkins moved into first in rebounds with 249 for a 13.1 average.

The best shooting percentage is held by Kansas City's Larry Staverman with .508.

Small College Title Scoring Leader

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The national small college football championship will be decided here Saturday in a game between Pittsburg State of Kansas and Linfield College of Oregon, both with 10-0 season records.

The game in 22,000-seat Hughes Stadium will be the sixth annual NAIA championship, but the first to be staged in Sacramento, which hopes to be permanent host. It has been dubbed the Camellia Bowl, after the flower which grows profusely here.

MONTREAL (NEA) — Claude Provost of the Montreal Canadiens has led the National Hockey League in goals from the start of the season.

"Playing in the All-Star game in Chicago, I noticed that Gordie Howe's stick had about two and a half inches taken off the top," Provost said. "I picked it up and it felt great in my hands. I sawed two and a half inches off my stick.

"Now I use the shortest stick in the league."

Army Game

FORT JACKSON, S. C. (NEA) —Staff Sgt. Jack R. Lawrence of Richards-Gebauer Air Base, Mo., qualified for the All-Army Golf Tournament by playing a sub-par round over his home course.

In the opening round of the competition at Fort Jackson, officials were somewhat puzzled when Lawrence scored "something more than 90." A bit of checking was done.

The Army then revealed, with no little embarrassment, that it had shipped the wrong Jack R. Lawrence to the tournament.

Hear! Hear

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (NEA)—The electronic age has caught up with the great out-of-doors.

For some time varmint hunters have been using portable phonographs and recorded crow and coyote calls to lure their prey. Fishermen have started using electronic fish finders to locate schools of fish. Now hunters are using hearing aids to help them stalk deer. Wardens are carrying tiny amplifiers to help them locate poachers.

So far, the deer have not started using hearing aids.

Katanga Jet, 3 Others Destroyed By U. N. Planes

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Air Forces went into action today in the fighting between the United Nations and Katanga.

The U.N. announced two of its 15 jets had destroyed a Katanga jet and three other Katanga planes in an aerial cannon attack on Kolwezi base.

On the other side, a Katanga plane—a bomber converted from a German-made Dornier transport—raided the main Elisabethville airport held by U.N. troops, and dropped three bombs. A U.N. spokesman said there were no serious casualties or damage.

It was the second day of fighting brought on by Katanga resistance to a U.N. mandate to pacify the Congo. The U.S. Air Force was cooperating with the United Nations by giving transport assistance, but Britain was declaring the U.N. forces have no right to impose a political solution by force.

In any case, it was evident that the U.N. command, reinforced with jets from Sweden, India and other nations, was able to make itself felt in the air this time as it was unable to do in September. At that time one or two Katanga jets succeeded in cowing some of the U.N. ground forces.

The U.N. command said that two Indian Canberras attacked the Kolwezi base and left four Katanga planes in ruins, including a Fouga jet fighter.

A fuel depot and the tower at the strategic base were damaged, an announcement issued at Leopoldville said.

The U.N. spokesman said a two-engine Dornier of the Katanga air force was sighted, but ducked away before the U.N. planes could get to it.

Indian Brig. K. A. S. Raja, commanding U.N. operations, reported earlier that Swedish jet fighters attacked the Kolwezi base, northwest of Elisabethville.

He said a Katanga Fouga jet got off the ground but made a forced landing near Luluabourg in adjoining Kasai Province.

matter of Fact

A card game helped Americans win a crucial battle of the Revolution. The Hessian commander of the British forces was playing cards when a spy gave him a note warning that Washington's army was crossing the Delaware and would soon attack. Impatiently, the commander pocketed the note and went on with his game. The next morning, at Trenton, Washington surprised the British forces.

Rockefeller Has Date Today To Talk About Civil Defense

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Gov. Rockefeller confers today with federal defense officials on civil defense matters after exerting pressure to spur building of school fallout shelters in the state.

The Republican governor's meeting with Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy U.S. secretary of defense and three other officials is related to President Kennedy's statement last week that he would get in touch with governors on civil defense programs, the governor's office said.

Rockefeller is chairman of the Civil Defense Committee of the Governor's Conference.

The meeting follows the governor's scrapping Tuesday of the state's "go-home" civil defense policy in favor of one of "stay-where-you-are."

The change will be felt immediately by local school districts, which now are under state instructions to send pupils home in the event of an attack, and by education commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

Under the new policy, Rockefeller said, the state's objective would be "to have fallout protection readily available to individuals wherever they may be at the time of warning of nuclear attack."

The change puts pressure on school districts to participate in the governor's $10 million fallout shelter program, passed by the legislature at a special session last month.

Under the program, the state would pay up to half the cost of shelters built by school districts. The program, however, is not mandatory.

Press Secretary Robert McManus, elaborating on Rockefeller's statement said Tuesday that the existing "go-home" policy would continue in effect in schools until the education commissioner issued new regulations.

McManus said this would be a matter of weeks.

He said the governor felt it was best that children stay in schools in the event of an attack even though the schools had not built shelters.

McManus said, the State Civil Defense Director will issue an amended directive to Allen, who then will tell the schools what to do.

Thus, Allen found himself faced with the necessity of taking a major role in the shelter program —a role he previously had declined.

Allen said last month of the fallout shelter program:

"The decision is the local communities' decision...I'm not going to pressure it beyond the willingness of the people to do it themselves."

Allen also said that he would recommend that the go-home plan be continued as a general policy. This advice was rejected by the governor.

Woman to Speak In Hall's Place At Cornell Date

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a member of the American Communist Party, will substitute for Gus Hall, general secretary of the party, at a lecture at Cornell University Thursday night.

A spokesman for the lecture sponsors said Hall telephoned today that he would be unable to appear because he has a date in a Yonkers court Thursday to answer a summons for alleged motor-vehicle violations.

The American Legion of Tompkins County had protested Hall's scheduled visit. The Legion asserted that Hall "is dedicated to the destruction of our American way of life."

Hall was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges of failing to register his party as an arm of the Soviet Union.

Since the indictment, Miss Flynn has declined to tell newsmen whether she still was national chairman of the party.

Greenland Base Problems Told to Lions by Foehser

Problems encountered by the Army and Air Force workers during construction of the SAC Air Base in Thule, Greenland, were outlined to members of the Kingston Lions Club at today's luncheon meeting by Major Arthur Foehser, Army advisor to the National Guard, Kingston.

Winds up to 150 knots and temperatures of 40 degrees below zero were but two of the elements that were overcome by the Army and Air Force workers, Major Foehser said.

In explaining the problems encountered, Foehser said that all of Greenland is an icecap, and that at times engineers have drilled as deep as 10,000 feet and have struck only snow and ice.

It was necessary for the Air Force to construct a six foot high pad of frost free materials for the 10,000 foot runways. Asphalt was poured at temperatures of 450 degrees because of the coldness, Foehser said. He spoke of the 24 hours of sunshine that existed during the summer months, and of the lack of any sunshine between November 1 and March 15.

The violent coldness forced the Air Force and Army to run equipment 24 hours a day to prevent freezing.

Foehser is with the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery of the National Guard in Kingston. In his capacity at Thule Greenland Foehser was in charge of Air Defense on the base.

Members present at yesterday's meeting heard Wilson Tinney speak of January as Founders and Rededication month for Lions around the world. Tinney said the purpose of this period is to honor the founders of Lionism and for each Lion to rededicate himself. Melvin Jones, founder of Lions International, will be honored in January with local and rededicated Lions in Kingston.
